SOLONS DEFY SOLDIERS; MEET IN OKLAHOMA

Driven from Capitol by Governor.

BULLETIN.

Oklahoma City, Dec. 13.—(AP)—(Tuesday)—Representative Charles Moon of Muskogee county announced on emerging from a secret session of the house of representatives, that began at 1 o'clock this morning, that three charges against Gov. Johnston had been approved. Mr. Moon said that the house then turned to discussion of three more counts contained in an indictment returned against the governor by an investigating committee.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Striking with the mailed fist, Gov. Henry S. Johnson today prevented members of the Oklahoma house of representatives from meeting in the state capitol to consider his impeachment, but failed to overcome their determination to proceed with their program.

Shortly after National Guardsmen armed with rifles and pistols had turned the legislators back at the doors of the house chamber this morning, a majority of the members met secretly at a hotel and agreed to convene again tomorrow to receive charges voted against the executive by an investigating committee.

Calls Meeting Insurrection.

Whether Gov. Johnston would attempt to have troops disperse the legislators tomorrow was a matter of speculation tonight. His directions to Adjt. Gen. Chas F. Barrett were to suppress "all insurrectionary meetings whether held at the capitol or any other place in the state."

The scenes today at the capitol with soldiers in full control recalled the day a little more than four years ago when Gov. Jack Walton used troops to prevent a self-summoned assembly of house members bent on impeaching him. Walton later was removed from office.

Gov. Johnston announced late today that troops would remain on active duty until the courts finally settle the question of the legality of the legislative session, which was convoked without his call.

Waits Court Decision.

"I intend to rely completely on the courts," he said. "Their ruling will be final to me and if they hold the session is legal and has a right to investigate and to impeach me and other state officials, I shall abide by the decision.

"Meanwhile, to avoid chaos in state government, I have called out the troops.

"I put it off as long as possible. Today was the last day that such a session was open. If I had delayed another six hours they would have come into this office and probably would have thrown me out bodily."

The governor explained that although martial law has not been formally declared, "the act of calling out the National Guard clothes the military arm with authority, the same as if formal martial law had been declared."

Legislature Is Enjoined.

Gov. Johnston fortified his legal position by obtaining a temporary restraining order from District Judge T. G. Chambers, forbidding the legislature from returning impeachment charges against any state officer.

The state Supreme court, which has already declared the session to be without legal standing, today indefinitely postponed hearing on a test case that was intended further to clarify the situation. It was an application for a writ of mandamus forcing the state auditor to approve, and the state treasurer to pay, claims of legislators made incident to the session.

While the executive said he would stake his reliance in the courts, legislative leaders reiterated that they would ignore any court orders against the session. They hold that the legislature has an "inherent right" to convene at any time on its own call and that this right cannot be taken away by the judiciary.

Charges against Gov. Johnston to be laid before the house by an investigating committee are understood to include an allegation of general incompetency.

Two specifications are reported to relate to the employment by the executive department of Jose Alvarado as a special police officer to hunt bank robbers. Legislators have charged that Alvarado himself is wanted by Texas authorities for bank robbery.

R. P. POULTON IS BEATEN TO DEATH IN ROW

Climax of Quarrel at Union Meeting.

Shortly after 5 o'clock this morning Frank McHugh, 2024 Madison street, confessed that Attorney Poulton was killed in a fight following a quarrel that started at a meeting of Local 147 of the Painters' union, of which William Sweeney, 4322 Sheridan road, is secretary. Poulton had been attorney for Sweeney in some matters connected with the painters' union. McHugh said that after the meeting he, Poulton, Sweeney, and another man went to Sweeney's office at 206 South Wabash avenue. After several drinks were taken the quarrel was renewed, and a fight resulted, in which all four participated. McHugh said Poulton was killed during the fight by blows from a whisky bottle. McHugh was badly cut and bruised. Police placed a guard around Sweeney's home to arrest him when he arrived there. Shortly before 7 o'clock police arrested Harry McHugh, a brother of Frank, believed to have been the fourth man.

Attorney Richard P. Poulton, 35 years old, with offices in the Burnham building, was found mysteriously slain in the basement at 206 South Wabash avenue early this morning. He had been slugged to death. Police for hours were without a clew to his slayer or to the business that took him to where he was killed.

The room in which Poulton was found is a stockroom for Willoughby & Co., in charge of Max Rimskie, of 524 South Lawndale avenue. From a watchman's mistaken identification the dead man was at first believed to be Rimskie.

Indications were that a terrific struggle had preceded the murder. The room was in disorder, and the floor and furniture spattered with blood. The telephone had been knocked from the desk and several chairs overturned. Bloody fingerprints were found on the safe on top of which was found the dead man's collar.

According to the police he had a severe laceration at the base of the skull and a large hole at the right of the nose.

Identified as Another.

Charles Pickering, 1600 South Wabash avenue, a janitor, first identified the dead man as Rimskie. He said that he saw him in the office early in the evening and that when he returned at 1:30 a. m. the man was dead. He immediately notified the police. But a card found in the dead man's clothes furnished the right clew to the identity of the dead man.

Poulton died from a fracture of the skull and not from a gunshot wound, as was at first believed, it was determined by the coroner's physician. A man giving the name of Frank McHugh, 2024 West Madison street, was arrested for investigation. He was said to have had blood on his clothing and was unable to give a coherent account of his actions.

Offices with W. A. Cunnea.

Attorney William A. Cunnea occupied offices with Poulton. Mr. Cunnea said he saw the slain attorney in the afternoon but could give no help in solving the mystery of the killing. Poulton's sister, Mrs. Henry Harfst of Highland Park was at her brother's office in the afternoon to see him, but he was busy in court and she did not meet him. According to Mrs. Harfst, Mr. Poulton was married to Miss Clara Keeling, an orphan, only six weeks ago. The Poulton home is at 6251 Blackstone avenue.

Mr. Cunnea was high in his praise of the slain lawyer. He said he was doing a good general practice, and he could suggest no enemies that might have killed him.

Sister Goes to Aid Police.

Mr. Harfst and his wife left their home in Highland Park and started for detective bureau headquarters to aid in the investigation. He declared that Poulton had been representing several labor union men in recent court squabbles and that labor trouble may have been the underlying reason for the murder.

Questioned by police, Rimskie said that he had seen Poulton making several visits recently to William Sweeney, a painter in the building. He did not know if the visits were in connection with union matters, he said. Police said that Poulton may have become involved in a quarrel with McHugh and Sweeney. Sweeney is being sought.

26 Cruisers, 4 Battleships, in 5 Year Plan

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—President Coolidge has approved a five year naval building program which, according to members of congress who were shown it today, calls for an ultimate expenditure of over $1,000,000,000, exceeding the expenditures for the 1916 naval program, the largest the government has undertaken and approaching that program in number of ships authorized.

According to members of congress with whom Secretary Wilbur conferred today concerning the attitude of congress toward such a program, it calls for 26 cruisers of the 10,000 ton type to cost about $15,000,000 each, or approximately $400,000,000 in all; three airplane carriers, five fleet submarines, and 18 destroyer leaders to round out the fleet.

Four New Battleships.

The program also calls for an authorization for four new battleships to provide for replacements permitted by the Washington treaty in 1922. These battleships will cost [illegible],000,000 each, although they may greatly exceed that amount on account of increased cost of construction.

President Coolidge, according to those who have conferred with him, desires that this congress commit the government to the five year program, which he feels merely represents America's own needs in rounding out her navy and should not cause the other nations to enter into naval "competition."

Spend $200,000,000 in Year.

Secretary Wilbur informed those with whom he conferred today that the administration desires congress to expend $200,000,000 during the next fiscal year, but to authorize the entire program so as to give the country a well rounded navy in five years. He expressed the belief that there should be no objection to the program on the part of other nations signatory to the Washington treaty; since the proposed program does not place the United States on a complete parity with other nations and does not exceed the 5-3 ratio in the matter of auxiliary ships even though they are not covered by the treaty.

The program was recommended by the general board of the navy four weeks ago, and has been before the President for action a fortnight. He obtained much expert advice from naval technicians, conferred with state department officials and with Gen. H. N. Lord, director of the budget bureau, before finally giving his consent to the program.

In his conferences with leading members of the house, Secretary Wilbur found that the sentiment of the house was for a big navy and for expenditures to make the American navy adequate.

First Opposed Plan.

The President's immediate reaction was one of opposition to a program of such size at this time and which would commit the American government to an expenditure of more than a billion dollars in the next five years. The estimates of cost range from $1,100,000,000 to $1,400,000,000.

Rep. Thomas S. Butler, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, probably will introduce the administration's naval bill in the house tomorrow. He is not in accord with all of its provisions, being opposed to the battleship authorization feature.

President Must Help.

Secretary Wilbur was told by Speaker Longworth that sentiment in the house favors a big navy and that the house would be inclined to provide for a navy that did not exceed the 5-5-3 ratio as to auxiliary ships. The speaker thought the program should perhaps be modified slightly to assure its passage by the house without a protracted fight. As the result of opinions expressed by prominent members of the house the program may be reduced by eliminating authorization of the four battleships as substitutes for ships soon to cross the line of obsolescence.

Judged by opinion expressed by those who fought unsuccessfully for additional cruisers last year, prior to the Geneva conference, and then met with opposition from the administration, it will be necessary for the President to exert his influence strongly in order to secure enactment of the five year naval progra-

Push Plan for Wacker Drive Around Loop

Extension of Wacker drive into a circular boulevard around the loop was proposed yesterday by Mayor Thompson, who also advocated the widening to 120 feet of Madison street west of the river. His plan would remove the stub elevated structure in Market street and have Wacker drive go south and be cut through into Congress street and across the I. C. tracks to the outer drive of the south park boulevard.

He discussed those projects with Michael Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, who agreed on the necessity and feasibility of both plans. President Faherty said he would want to build a four track subway in Madison street while it is being widened.

"Street's Opportunity."

"This is Madison street's opportunity," the mayor said. "I promised the west side a great artery and I think Madison street is the place for it.

"Then, if Wacker drive is extended around, with Congress street cut through from State street to Market street, traffic from the west side can go to either the south or north sides without passing through loop congestion."

Mr. Faherty said the widening of Madison street could not well be accomplished east of Market street, but that it could easily be west of the river to Crawford avenue, from where on it is 120 feet wide.

"I advocated this widening many years ago," the mayor said, "but there were too many objectors. Then the Ogden avenue, Blue Island avenue, and Milwaukee avenue street cars came into the loop over Madison street, east of Halsted street, and it was a great business street—but it lost those car lines.

Would Widen Halsted.

"I also suggested the widening of Halsted street back in those days when I was in the real estate business on the west side. It could have been done then for tens of thousands where now it will cost millions—but it ought to be done.

"The trouble now with the west side is that Washington boulevard has no east end; that is, it isn't a boulevard east of Des Plaines street. If we string Wacker drive around the loop it will be of great assistance in relieving the tension of Washington boulevard, as well as of the widened Madison street."

Mr. Faherty announced that the last of the legal objections for the widening of La Salle street were overruled yesterday and that from now on there will be "full steam ahead."

Explosion in Hyde Park Wrecks Shop

Bombers, grown bold through their success in terrorizing small merchants in Chicago's humbler streets, last night invaded an exclusive neighborhood on the south side and set off a charge of explosive that frightened thousands of guests in five large hotels.

The bomb was placed in the shoe repair shop of Gust Chetas, 5311 Hyde Park boulevard, in the Cooper-Carlton Hotel building. It tore away parts of the walls, destroyed the new machinery that Chetas had installed, and smashed windows in the adjoining shops, Susan King's beauty parlor and the Ritzy sport store.

Deny Panic at Hotels.

Next to the Cooper-Carlton is the Sisson hotel. Within a radius of a block or so are the Chicago Beach, the Shoreland, and the Windermere East. In all of them the report was heard. The managements denied, however, that there had been any panic among their residents.

Glass was hurled by the blast upon automobiles on the crowded, narrow boulevard and a number of collisions were narrowly averted.

Chetas, called to the Hyde Park police station, attributed the explosion to the interference of racketeers. He has one shop in the Piccadilly theater building and was standing in it recently, he said, when Gust Starakas, president of the Bootblacks' Protective Association of Illinois, entered.

Tells of Warning.

"You are going to start a new shop in the Cooper-Carlton," Starakas was quoted as saying. "You had better lay off. The association rules are that there can't be any competition in a distance of fifty street numbers."

Chetas pointed out, he said, that it was sixty numbers between him and the nearest shop. Despite this, Starakas remarked that there would be trouble if Chetas persisted in his decision to open his place on Jan. 1. Assistant State's Attorney Harold Levy, who questioned the owner, said that he would endeavor to have an indictment voted today against Starakas. Ike Sandler, president of the United Shoe Repairers' union, is being sought for questioning.

THEATER IS BOMBED

In another bombing, this [illegible] in the Parthenon theater at 22d street and Ridgeland avenue, Berwyn, stage fixtures and dressing rooms were wrecked and a fire started that was with difficulty prevented from spreading to the remainder of the structure.

The lives of three janitors who were back stage were imperiled. Damage was estimated at $10,000. Ben Bernasek, one of the owners, was in the front office at the time.

Chief of Police Charles Levey of Berwyn learned that a half hour before the blast went off two men were seen carrying a trunk into the stage entrance.

Bomb Hidden in Trunk.

It was this trunk that contained the explosive. Shattered fragments of it were picked up later. Apparently an alarm clock had been used to set off the charge.

The motive of the bombers, according to Bernasek and his partner, T. J. Gregory, was obscure. They declared they had had no trouble with unions or associations. Their theory was that safeblowers, made angry when they failed to enter the concern's safe after drilling holes in it early yesterday, had taken this means of getting revenge.

Chief Levey scoffed at this theory, adding that he believed some one else was interested in making difficulties for the theater. The Gregory-Bernasek concern operates a theater in Chi-

CHICAGO ACTS FOR BETTER U. S. AIRWAYS TODAY

Parade 11 A. M. Today

Aviation enthusiasts are invited by Mayor Thompson to drive their automobiles into Grant park at 11 o'clock today and take part in the parade to the municipal airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue. The mayor said he did not think any one would object to the American flag being used in decorating the automobiles in the parade as the occasion is the celebration of the opening of the airport which he considers a mark of progress.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

"If you desire progress for your cities, build airports," Mayor William Hale Thompson said to the visiting mayors and delegates from thirty states who attended the airport conference here yesterday.

Government specifications for landing fields, for day and night signals to aviators, for the marking of obstructions and for the general standardization of commercial flying were given to the delegates. The main purpose of the conference was said to be the mapping of air lanes of the country so that routes may be established between cities equipped to receive planes bearing passengers, mail, and express.

Compares U. S. With Europe.

What flying means to the commercial development of the cities of the world was told by many of the speakers, but Col. Paul Henderson, general manager of the National Air Transport company, expressed it by comparing the aviation industry of this country with European flying. Every European country subsidizes flying, he said, while here there is no financial aid from the government and all commercial flying is strictly private enterprise.

Col. Henderson, as chairman of Mayor Thompson's aero commission, presided at yesterday's session of the conference. Mayor Oscar Hauge of Long Beach, Cal., will preside today. The delegates are to meet again in the morning at the Hotel Sherman and at 11 o'clock they will go to Mayor Thompson's office. From the city hall a parade will start for the municipal airport at 63d street and Cicero avenue. That field will be dedicated today.

Will Have Chance to Fly.

The conferees will be given a luncheon in one of the hangars and every one will be given a chance for a flight. The United States army pursuit planes will convoy them. In the evening the visitors will be guests of the Illinois Manufacturers' association at a dinner in the Stevens hotel.

In welcoming the delegates Mayor Thompson told them the story of Chicago's efforts to build airports.

"Any new avenue of transportation means an increase of business," he said. "Beyond a doubt the air is to be the new avenue of transportation and I firmly believe the key to the situation is in centrally located landing fields.

"We want to trade with the cities of which you men are mayors or mayors' representatives. So that we may better carry on our commerce and our friendship with you, it is necessary that you have airports. Your cities should be on some regular air line with a regular schedule and with a proper signal system.

Easy to Make Airport.

"Chicago has an advantage over many cities in that it has the lake shore for a front yard. The lake is not over 35 feet deep for a mile and a half from shore, and we can easily fill in a desirable spot to make a landing field a mile and a half from the postoffice and from the heart of the business section."

Allen Jackson, a vice president of the Standard Oil company, spoke on the experience of that company in using planes to transport the directors to meetings. The directors have flown 50,000 miles without mishap, he said.

William Stout, designer of the Stout all-metal plane and now an official of the Ford Airplane company, said their ships carried freight 2,000 miles a day during the last year, as well as carrying a total of 1,600 passengers.

"There are only two dangerous periods in present day flying," he asserted. "They are in the taxicab trip to the landing field and from the landing field. There is no thrill for the passengers—flying has become so boresome, the average passenger goes to sleep after a half hour or so in the air.

"Our planes carry large couches and take ten passengers on distance flights or 17 passengers on short sightseeing tours. Our interest in aviation is transportation, not thrills. We have brakes on the landing gear and a recoil system so there is no bouncing when landing.

"What we must do now is to arouse an interest in flying so people will patronize the air services, which must support themselves in the air financially as well as mechanically."

The delegates also were told that many casualty insurance companies no longer bar flying and that the life insurance companies are considering the question of permitting flying without it being a temporary revocation of a policy.

NAVY FLYERS BEST

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—This country's naval aviation is hailed as the best in the world by Rear Admiral William A. Moffet, chief of the bureau of aeronautics, in his annual report submitted to Secretary of the Navy Wilbur today.

Admiral Moffett reported 1927 the greatest year in the history of flying and said remarkable strides had been made by naval aviation in training and development.

The navy has kept pace in general with the aviation development of the world, he said. "The last year has been one of achievement. There is no more need to say that aviation is in its infancy or aeronautics are in the experimental stages."

Admiral Moffett reported that the navy now has 580 pilots and that increases were made last year both in commissioned and enlisted flyers. Twenty-six persons were killed in the aviation service, Admiral Moffett reported.

His figures showed navy flyers made 141,166 flights and stayed in the air 103,391 hours. During that time there were 234 crashes.

WEATHER HOLDS LINDY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Undismayed by reports of poor weather conditions, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh pushed steadily forward today with preparations for his flight from Washington to Mexico City.

The day's activities included a consultation with officials of the weather bureau and the navy hydrographic office—after which he announced that the flight could not be begun for at least ten days—luncheon with the commanding officer at Bolling field and an afternoon spent inspecting the work of army mechanics on the Spirit of St. Louis and in testing out the army's new Loening headquarters plane.

Meanwhile, the senate followed the lead of the house and unanimously voted that a congressional medal of honor be conferred upon Col. Lindbergh in recognition of his trans-Atlantic flight.

FILM GIRL ASKS $100,500 BALM FROM H. K. THAW

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Miss Forest Hope Wall, 20, movie actress, filed a $100,500 suit in Superior court today, charging Harry K. Thaw with jilting her after a promise to marry when she was 16. Miss Wall, whose complaint asserts Thaw placed a gold ring on the third finger of her left hand in May, 1923, and that he tendered her $500 since that time, was filed here through her mother, Mrs. Louise Wall.

Thaw, who came to Hollywood last week with two other 17 year old film actress protégés, Susan Hughes and Anita Rivers, issued the following statement through his secretary, S. E. Warner:

"Mr. Thaw says he never saw the girl in his life. He has talked to me about the incident, and it is a pure piece of blackmail. Of course, he never promised to marry her. There is always somebody trying to get some money out of him."

Later Thaw said he may have some slight recollection of meeting a person "with a name like that," but the acquaintance was so slight that he could not recall Miss Wall. He said it looked like "publicity."

FLYING SCHOOL PROBE STARTED BY FATAL CRASH

President Is Ordered to Attend Inquest.

Failure of Daniel MacKenzie, president of the Aviation Service and Transport, a flying school at the Municipal Air field, to appear at an inquest yesterday afternoon into the death of one of his students, caused Chief Deputy Coroner Paul Rothenberg to order a subpœna issued for his appearance at the next session of the inquest. Coroner Oscar Wolff promised a thorough investigation of the school's method of instructing would-be aviators.

Chief Deputy Rothenberg became incensed several times during the inquiry into the manner in which W. B. Ernst, 24 years old, of 7421 Kimbark avenue, met his death Sunday afternoon. Ernst was fatally injured when the airplane in which he was flying as a student aviator plunged to the street in front of 6113 South Park avenue. Linton C. Roberts, the instructor, who was in the plane at the time, received minor injuries.

Wanted to Quit, Brother Says.

Oliver Ernst, a brother of the dead victim, revealed that the student flyer had tried to withdraw from the school after he had paid $100 of a $350 tuition fee and had received only a series of lectures for his money. MacKenzie induced Ernst to remain as a student and the youth was given four 20-minute flights in a period of about two months, according to testimony.

The brother also declared that Ernst told him some of the planes at the school were built by students and that when one of these was being prepared for flight, a piece of the propeller dropped off.

"This is the sort of thing which is hindering the cause of aviation," Deputy Rothenberg exclaimed. "We are trying to make Chicago the chief airport of the United States. We must find out the reason for these accidents and stop them."

Wrecked Plane Dismantled.

The deputy coroner declared he also wished to question MacKenzie as to why the wrecked plane had been dismantled after the accident.

"A federal examiner looked it over and gave us permission to take it away," explained John Miller, a vice president of the company, who was the only official present.

"This coroner's jury should have had an opportunity to inspect that plane," said the deputy coroner. "If it is found that there is something wrong about this death your company may have a lot more trouble with county authorities than with the federal men. Now that the plane is dismantled nothing can be learned as to the manner in which the accident occurred."

Oliver Ernst, the brother, testified that the student flyer entered the school in August. He listened to ten lectures on aviation and then asked when he was to make a flight. On four consecutive Sundays appointments for flights were broken by the company officials, according to the testimony. Then, when Ernst demanded his money back, he was taken up for twenty minutes in a dual control ship.

Deputy Coroner Rothenberg wanted to know how it was possible for an accident to occur in a dual control ship, where the instructor presumably has complete control.

Blames Loss of Nerve.

"Ernst must have lost his nerve and gripped the controls so hard that the instructor couldn't move them," Miller declared. "Roberts told me he shouted at Ernst to release the controls but received no answer. All Roberts could do was to shut off the switch and adjust the rudder so that they would not plunge headfirst into the ground."

Roberts, according to a physician's testimony, was not hurt seriously and will be ready to testify at the next inquest, Dec. 29.

Miller was questioned closely about the organization and methods of operation of the Aviation Service and Transport school. He said the corporation was organized eight months ago and leased land from the city at the Municipal Flying field for a small sum.

Planes were inspected daily but merely verbal reports were made by the inspectors, Miller admitted. The school has had about 140 students since its organization, he said.

"When an applicant paid his tuition and offered a physical certificate from the federal examiner as required by law, did you ever refuse to take him up in a plane because of mental defects which might have made him unfit for flying?" questioned Deputy Rothenberg.

Ordered to Show Proofs.

Miller at first said there had never been a refusal. Later, he asserted that some applicants had been turned down. He was told to bring in records in proof of this.

After ten hours of instruction in a dual control plane a student was allowed to go up alone, the official testified. He admitted that Sunday's accident was the second since the company was organized. In the previous accident both persons in the plane were killed.

The plane in which Ernst was killed was a 1927 Swallow type which had had 280 flying hours, the official said.

MacKenzie, in a statement last night, denied that he was the official responsible for orders to smash cameras of newspaper photographers in an effort to prevent the public from learning of the accident.

PILOT AND PASSENGER, A MANUFACTURER, DIE IN OHIO PLANE CRASH

Bryan, O., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Pilot John Zeigler, Detroit, and C. J. Parker, Portland, Ore., vice president and general treasurer of the Iron Firemen's Manufacturing company, were killed when a plane crashed at Montpelier, near here, today while making a landing. Harry A. Banfield of Portland suffered a broken leg and internal injuries. The other two passengers, L. P. Teeple, also of Portland, and George Malcomson, Detroit, were slightly injured. The plane was bound for Chicago.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

S. HIGH COURT CALLS HALT TO LAWLESS DRYS

rs Volstead Evidence Illegally Secured.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—In a far reaching, unanimous opinion today the United States Supreme court dealt a fatal blow to several varieties of lawless enforcement of the national prohibition law.

The court declared unlawful the arrest by New York state troopers of two men near the Canadian border and the seizure of liquor in their automobile without a search warrant or other authority of the federal government to assist in enforcement of the Volstead act.

The decision holds that the Volstead act does not impose on state authorities the obligation to make arrests and seizures in connection with the illegal transportation of liquor. The federal law imposes this duty on federal officers only.

Outlaws Private Snoopers.

Under this construction of the statute the activities not only of state officers acting independently without federal sanction, but of snooping committees of private citizens to enforce the Volstead act are outlawed as invasions of the rights of citizens guaranteed by the constitution.

State officers may enforce a state prohibition law, but only federal officers may enforce the national prohibition law. There may be coöperation between state and federal officers to enforce the Volstead act, but the coöperation must consist of the federal officers acting and the state officers assisting and must not involve actions contrary to the constitution and laws of the United States.

In states having no state enforcement law the decision leaves the federal government the sole enforcer of the Volstead act. Such states are New York, Maryland, Montana, and Nevada. In the case adjudicated the New York troopers were without a state law to enforce and were without authority to enforce the federal law.

Knocks Out Drys' Contention.

The decision disposes of the validity of the contentions of the drys that it is incumbent on the states to enact state enforcement laws and that New York, Montana, and Nevada, which repealed enforcement statutes, and Maryland, which never enacted one, are nullificationists, secessionists and traitors.

"The Mullan-Gage law—the state enforcement act—had been repealed in 1923," said Justice Brandeis, who delivered the opinion in the New York case.

"There is no suggestion that the defendants were committing at the time of the arrest, search and seizure any state offense; or that they had done so in the past; or that the troopers believed that they had. Unless the troopers were authorized to make the arrest, search and seizure because they were aiding in the enforcement of a law of the United States their action clearly would have been wrongful, even if they had had positive knowledge that the defendants were violating the prohibition law.

Acted as State Enforcers.

"No federal official was present at the search and seizure and the defendants made no attempt to establish that the particular search and seizure was made in coöperation with federal officials. But facts of which we take judicial notice make it clear that the state troopers believed that they were required by law to aid in enforcing the national prohibition act; and that they made this arrest, search and seizure in the performance of that supposed duty, solely for the purpose of aiding in the federal prosecution."

"The government contends," Justice Brandeis proceeded, "that the evidence was admissible because there was probable cause and also because it was not shown that the state troopers were, at the time of the arrest, search and seizure, agents of the United States. The defendants contend that there was not probable cause and that the state troopers are to be deemed agents of the United States because Section 26 of Title II. of the national prohibition act imposes the duty of arrest and seizure where liquor is being illegally transported, not only upon the commissioner of internal revenue, his assistants and inspectors, but also upon 'any officer of the law.'

"We are of opinion on the facts, which it is unnecessary to detail, that there was not probable cause. We are also of opinion that the term 'any officer of the law,' used in section 26, refers only to federal officers.

The Volstead act "contemplated some coöperation between the state and federal governments in the enforcement of the act," the court says, but "evidence obtained by wrongful search and seizure by state officers who are coöperating with federal officials must be excluded."

MEET ON PROHIBITION.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—An imposing group of men discussed the prohibition question today at the home here of former Senator Wadsworth of New York, who is a foe of the eighteenth amendment. While those who attended were reluctant later to talk about what had transpired, the discussion was described as having been in a serious vein and there were intimations that some definite action by the group could be expected soon.

Mr. Wadsworth tonight described the conference purpose as follows:

"For the discussion of the prohibition situation as it affects the country at large and the sentiment on that question." Beyond that he declined to go.

Those attending included the following: Col. Julian Codman, Boston; Col. Grayson Murphy, New York; Edward S. Harkness, New York; Pierre S. Du Pont, Delaware; Senators Edge, New Jersey, and Bruce, Maryland; Charles H. Sabin, New York; E. C. Horst, San Francisco; Benedict Crowell, former assistant secretary of war, Cleveland.

GANG WARFARE BREAKS OUT IN HERRIN; 2 SHOT

Mayor's Brother Victim of Bullets.

Herrin, Ill., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—A sudden outbreak of gun warfare tonight left two police officers seriously wounded and jangled the nerves of the city which had quieted down in the months of peace since the last of the battles which earned Herrin and the county the name of "Bloody Williamson."

The terror is increased by the mystery surrounding the affray. Neither the wounded men nor the other city or county officers know the reason for the attack. The klan and anti-klan warfare has died out because the klan hardly exists since the killing of Glenn Young, klan chief and self-appointed prohibition officer. There were some liquor raids earlier in the evening, but neither of the officers attacked later was involved in them.

Police Chief Wounded.

The men wounded were Elmer McCormick, patrolman, and John Stamm, day chief of police.

Bullets from a speeding automobile struck them down as they were standing in front of the city hall. McCormick is seriously wounded.

The car circled the city hall square, its occupants firing with rifles both times. McCormick, who is a brother of Mayor Marshall McCormick, fell at the first volley and Stamm at the second.

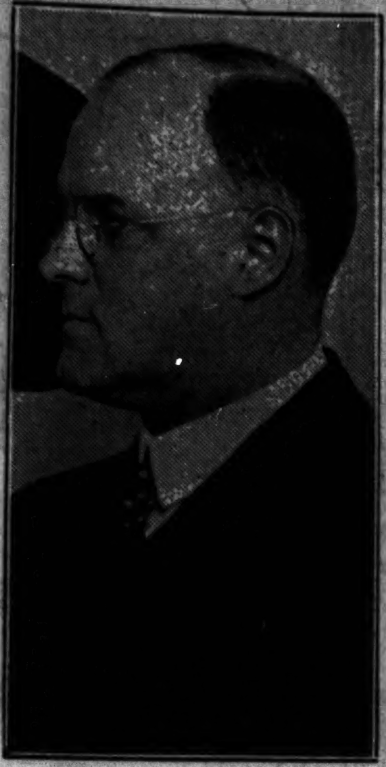
Other policemen and special deputy sheriffs grabbed the machine guns and rifles which served frequently in past fighting and mobilized at the jail. But they are merely waiting for another attack, as they do not know whence or from whom the first came.

Complete Gangster Jury.

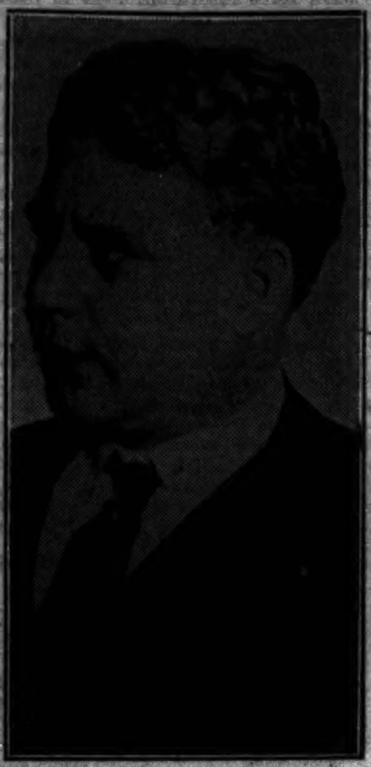
Marion, Ill., Dec. 12.—(AP)—A jury was completed today in the trial of Harvey Dungy and two other Birger gangsters for the killing of Lyle "Shag" Worsham, another Birger gangster.

After more than a week of jockeying in which 210 men were called and all but twelve rejected the final four were selected at 4:15 p. m. and the jury sworn in.

New Car Men's Wage Dispute Arbiters



GUY A. RICHARDSON.



ALD. OSCAR F. NELSON.

Two New Arbitrators Named to Halt Threatened Strike of Street Car Workers

Fears of a street car strike passed yesterday when a formal agreement was signed providing for arbitration in the wage controversy which threatened for a while to result in a walkout.

Not only will the cars be run to take Chicagoans on their Christmas shopping tours this year, but there will be peace for a couple of years to come, it was indicated.

Two new arbitrators were appointed under the agreement, which announced the retirement of the two previous ones, Judge Kickham Scanlon and E. J. McIlraith, who had been unable to agree upon a third member.

Nelson, Richardson Named.

The two new arbitrators who are authorized to negotiate an agreement binding upon both parties up to June 1, 1930, are Ald. Oscar F. Nelson, acting for the 21,000 car employées, and Guy A. Richardson, general manager of the Chicago Surface Lines, who will represent the companies.

These two will meet within three days, according to the agreement, and strive alone to settle the wage question. They shall sit daily, the agreement specifies, and they will hear evidence supporting, on the one hand, the demand of the unions for an increase of 15 cents an hour, and on the other hand, the insistence of the companies that a reduction of 5 cents an hour should be made.

Should the arbitrators fail to agree within a reasonable time they must select a third member of their board of arbitration, and sit with him until an award is rendered.

The agreement, which was approved last night by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, before whom the surface lines receivership case is pending, was signed by William Quinlan, president of Division 241, Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employés of America, and Joseph J. Kehoe, recording secretary of the union, and by Henry A. Blair, president of the Chicago Surface Lines, and Frank L. Hupp, secretary.

Calls for Finish Fight.

There was one cloud on the horizon, but the leaders in the situation did not regard it ominously. Judge Wilkerson was informed during the day that a circular is being distributed among the members of the union calling upon them to demand an immediate increase, and to reject the arbitration scheme.

The circular was signed: "Progressive Car Men's committee of Division 241, Frank W. Carlson, secretary," and it read in part:

"No compromise. Demand and get 15 cents per hour increase. We must fight for our full wage demand. Don't accept a paltry 1 or 2 cents raise. Arbitration is a failure and nothing can be expected from it.

"Now that we have forced our officials to take a step further in the fight for an increase in wages, we must call for a showdown."

Injunction Planned.

It is understood that efforts will be made to stop the distribution of the circular, which is considered inflammatory. It was pointed out that if either union officials or the companies sought an injunction suppressing the circular, one might be granted by Judge Wilkerson, since both the union as an official body and one branch of the surface lines companies are parties to the receivership litigation pending in the federal court.

EXCLUSIVE HOTEL SECTION JARRED BY BOMB BLAST

knew no reason for the attempt.

How racketeering associations work was exemplified yesterday when Mrs. Teresa Potz, owner of a beauty parlor at 4748 North Kedzie avenue, who is titular head of the Hairdressers' International association, was called in to view two organizers of the body. She didn't know them; had never even seen them, she said. The organizers had been arrested for alleged intimidation of a beautician, as some are called.

"I was appointed president by Thomas J. O'Brien, president of the Master Barbers' association," she said. "I've been it a week, but I never saw any employés and my salary isn't paid."

BARE TERRORIST ACTIVITIES

Activities of terrorists, racketeers, crooked labor leaders, and business agents are becoming such in Chicago that they are not only costing business men vast sums, but those who refuse to comply with demands to pay tribute are in actual danger of their lives, according to an indictment of conditions issued last night by the Employers' Association of Chicago. The statement was made public over the signature of G. L. Hostetter, executive secretary of the organization.

Among the racketeering schemes set forth in the statement are the following:

Conspiracy Between Window Cleaning Contractors and Union—Window cleaning employers work with a union of employés to regulate competition, etc. I. Braverman, of criminal record, is head of employers and S. Zaharchuk, a Polish alien, is head of union. Both now indicted as accessory before the fact in the murder of M. Wilner.

Conspiracy Between Machinery Moving Contractors and Union—Conspiracy resulted in the murder of a teaming contractor because he would not join and pay tribute to both the employers' organization and the union of machinery movers. Agent of union acquitted by a Cook county jury.

Conspiracy Between Paper Stock Companies and Teamsters' Union—In which the head of a union is paid a large sum of money and a percentage on gross tonnage of business for which he is to strike employés of companies which do not obey rules as to price, competitive methods, etc. Resulted in the shooting of an independent operator, the burning of another's place of business, and finally the murder of a junkman.

Conspiracy Between Certain Cleaners and Dyers and Union—Members of employers' organization pay an initiation fee of $500, cash bond of $5,000, and large monthly dues. If prices are not maintained or any other rule of the organization is violated drivers are called on strike, fines are imposed by union, workshops are burned or bombed, employés and employers are slugged.

Conspiracy Between Certain Laundry Owners and Union—One man controls both employers and union in this case. Recently resigned because of federal indictment. Union acts at his bidding. Calls strikes, collects special assessments, levies fines, holds court, etc. Employés are slugged, laundries are bombed, smoke chimneys toppled over, fires pulled from under boilers, etc. An active political figure.

Conspiracy Between Dental Laboratories and Union—Union started by one laboratory in the hope of embarrassing competitors. Aided and abetted indirectly by two others. Racketeers from the beer and whisky game are brought in to organize the union. Plans extend to dentists themselves. City-wide strike of laboratory technicians results. Strike fails because of determined opposition and union is about to break. Leaders select key men of certain laboratories and go forth to break the bones of their hands, thus to render them incapable of ever again engaging at their trade and by this act to scare other workers back into the union. Intercepted by police and one hand-breaker shot before he can break any hands.

Conspiracy Between Ash and Rubbish Hauling Contractors—In which "once a customer always a customer" at any price the conspirators may fix. One contractor with two slugger companions drives a competitor off job with drawn revolvers and threats of burning his yards. Reminds him of Lefty Lewis case.

Racketeers Form Union of Grocery and Delicatessen Stores—In which racketeers obtain charter from state and federated labor bodies and proceed to form a union. Intitiation feers are collected, stores picketed, proprietors are beaten, and intimidated, city is zoned, stores are forced out of business because they are too close to another store, hours of business are established.

Conspiracy Between Garage Owners and Racketeers—In which garage owners and operators are forced to pay dues, fees, assessments, fines, etc., to organization of garage owners started and controlled by outside forces. Storage prices are established, garages are bombed or are entered by vandals and windshields of autos broken. If cars are left parked in the city streets, their tires are punctured.

Conspiracy Between Drug Stores and Union—Herein is found a small group of retail druggists finally gaining control of the board of directors of a large association of druggists. They proceed to form a union of drug store employés, enlisting the aid of union leaders who are in search of a union to lead. Their admitted purpose is to make the chain drug stores observe certain price standards by striking at them through the union. Stores are picketed, employés are slugged, windows are broken, and general terrorism reigns.

Conspiracy Between Certain Milk Dealers and Union—An organization is formed, dealers are members but union leaders are its officers. Admitted purposes are to stabilize prices, substitute wholesale prices for retail prices by discontinuing sale of milk to small grocery stores, thus completing the monopoly of flat janitors' union, with which milk drivers' union has close operating system. Dairies are bombed, shotgun squads openly intimidate dealers, strikes of drivers are called, etc. Finally forced out of business.

Police Character Attempts to Unionize Florists—Florists, designers, and helpers are victims. Charter is obtained from American Federation of Labor. Windows are broken, employés slugged.

Bootblacks Fight Each Other—Two rival bootblack associations, each headed by gangsters, who break approximately forty windows in Chicago in six weeks. The heads of each faction have been indicted.

Racketeering in Restaurant Field—Two associations dominated by outside men force restaurant men to become members.

Racketeers Prey on Shoe Repairers—In which the shoe repairers of Chicago are whipped into an association by bombing and slugging.

Racketeer Forms Fish and Poultry Association—In which the fish and poultry association is headed by the notorious Maxie Eisen, who is now awaiting trial, having been indicted for assault with intent to murder. Eisen has been indicted in Cook county on four different charges and has each time escaped prosecution through intimidation of witnesses.

Racketeer Bosses Butchers' Association—In which the Jewish butchers of Chicago are likewise coerced into an association which is also headed by Maxie Eisen.

Racketeer Dominates Bakers' Association—In which the Jewish bakers are forced into an association by a police character, Guinea Ginsburg, who extorts from them through intimidation $13 per week as dues.

NY LOMBARDO, AILED WITH GUN, ADLY PUZZLED

ngs? Bombs? They're All a Mystery to Him.

Antonio Lombardo, wealthy commission merchant, sat in a cell at the detective bureau yesterday afternoon while he waited for the inevitable writ of habeas corpus to release him and spoke without passion of the police, Chicago gangsters and his own business.

He and two companions, Joseph Giunta, 1754 North Lorel avenue, and [illegible] Butera, 3680 Milwaukee avenue, had been arrested a little earlier as they stood in the lobby of the Hartford building, 8 South Dearborn street. Pistols were found in the pockets of Lombardo and Giunta.

Lombardo Is Puzzled.

"It's not quite clear why I'm here," said Lombardo. "The pistol was in my pocket. So was $1,000 that I was taking to the bank. Giunta was carrying $1,300. There are robbers on Chicago streets and we were armed to protect our money. We didn't start out to kill anybody."

Lombardo was not in the least angry, if his tone was an indication. He seemed to be sorry that a mistake had been made. "The police say Giunta and Butera were my bodyguards," he said. "I don't need bodyguards. Giunta operates a furniture store at 1014 South Halsted street and I am his silent partner. Butera is a civil engineer employed by the sanitary district. Just three friends who were together."

He interrupted his recital for a minute or two to wonder why so many false impressions about his activities had gained credence of the police and the public.

He Remembers Capone.

"They call me boss of the Unione Siciliana," he continued. "I never held an office in that organization, although I am a member. They say I'm connected with Al Capone in a big plot to terrorize gambling houses and muscle in on what they get from the public. It's true I know Capone, but I never had any business connection or dealings with him.

"My business is the commission business. I don't try to break into anything illegal. If anybody wants to kill me I don't know who it is. I am not afraid of any one and I am not going to leave Chicago."

When Lombardo was told that the police felt that he had something to do with the bombing of gambling houses on the west side, he laughed.

"Me, a bomber. Go to the people who know me best. Ask the Italians of Chicago if I am a bomber. Find one of them who will say I am a criminal. You can't do it."

Sued for Realty Deal.

While he was at the bureau a deputy United States marshal served him with a summons in a chancery suit filed against him by a steel company. The plaintiffs alleged that he and Joseph Aiello, whom the police accused a few weeks ago of attempting to assassinate both Lombardo and Capone, had purchased a $200,000 piece of real estate as an unloading point for grapes and had failed to make payments.

"Yes," said Lombardo, "we paid down $45,000. But Aiello and another partner didn't want to go along. There's $20,000 due on Jan. 1. It looks like I'll lose some money on that deal. I can't carry it by myself."

The summons hadn't been served on him before, Lombardo explained, because his wife "always told everybody at the door that he wasn't home." This was a regular procedure since an arsenal was found in a flat opposite his home at 4442 West Washington boulevard. The discovery led to the discovery of a widespread plot against him and Capone, the police said.

Released on Bonds.

Shortly after his story was finished Judge William V. Brothers informed the bureau that a writ had been applied for in behalf of the three friends. The detectives, holding that the possession of $1,000 or $1,300 does not justify a citizen in carrying concealed weapons, booked Lombardo and Giunta on that charge and Butera for disorderly conduct. Bonds were furnished.

The efficacy of writs was shown in the cases of four other men during the day. Samuel Jacobson, alias Sammy the Greener; Jacob Sopkin and Max Geisler, said by the police to have records, were arrested by a detective bureau squad. Judge Stanley Klarkowski, who held court in the bureau on Sunday to release Joseph Saltis and two companions, reported that the Greener and his friend had a writ. So the police charged them with disorderly conduct and let it go at that.

Charles Carr, who the police believe knows something about the machine gun with which Assistant State's Attorney William H. McSwiggin was killed, was being held when Judge Klarkowski delivered a similar message and Carr went out.

HOLDS UP NEW ELMWOOD PARK BANK; GETS $3,269

James L. Devereux, chief of Cook county police, led a search last night for a bandit, armed with a shotgun, who walked into the Westwood Trust and Savings bank of Elmwood Park, Ill., seized $3,269 in currency from the cashier's cage, and escaped.

Albert Svoboda, the cashier, told Chief of Police Theodore Schuette of Elmwood Park that the bandit escaped in a curtained touring car containing several other men.

Miss Marie McCarney, a bookkeeper, and Mrs. Mary Gantzer, 2723 North 77th avenue, a customer, were the only other ones in the bank when the bandit appeared.

"He grabbed the money and got out so quick, we scarcely knew what had happened," Miss McCarney.

The bank has been open for only ten days. Officials of the Illinois Bankers' association said the organization is assisting police in the search for the bandit even though the bank is not a member of the association.

JUDGES CRITICIZE JURORS IN TWO CRIMINAL CASES

Two Criminal court juries were reprimanded yesterday by judges of that court, one for fixing a light punishment for a man found guilty last Saturday of rape, and the other for taking more than three hours to determine the guilt of a burglar caught in the act.

"I am surprised that men of supposed intelligence should take so long to reach a verdict in this case," said Judge Emanuel Eller to the jury in his court. "You men had before you an open and shut case without even a witness being called in behalf of the defendant.

Don't Use Common Sense.

"The trouble with the administration of justice in this county is due to the fact that jurors do not use common sense in deciding cases. This man has a record as a burglar dating from 1890."

Frank Hayes, alias Haym, 46, was the defendant. He was caught robbing the tin shop of George Reithal, 504 West Van Buren street. The case was so conclusive that it took less than one hour to present the evidence. A motion for a new trial was immediately overruled and a sentence of one year to life in the penitentiary imposed.

Judge John P. McGoorty, after speaking sharply to the jury which imposed only a 2 year penalty on Rolland Gaskell, ordered their discharge from further service. Gaskell was found guilty of attacking a 19 year old girl, who had accompanied him on an automobile ride.

"I cannot understand how a jury could find a man guilty of such an atrocious crime as charged in this case and impose such a light penalty. If the defendant was guilty he should have been given the maximum of life imprisonment or close to it. I will not allow you men to sit in judgment in any other case in this building and you are therefore discharged from further service."

CRIMINAL COURT.

Frank Hayes, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary; Henry Atwell, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; Al Miller, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory, by Judge Emanuel Eller.

Bruno Sommers, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell, by Judge Otto Kerner.

Herbert Smith, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in Pontiac reformatory; Margaret Baynes, assault to rob, sentenced to 1 to 14 years in the penitentiary, by Judge William V. Brothers.

Howard Wolhania, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Frank Wilson, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary, by Judge Harry B. Miller.

DR. GOODSPEED, 85, GRAVELY ILL AFTER STROKE

Dr. Thomas Wakefield Goodspeed, whose life and activities have been identified with the growth of the University of Chicago, is seriously ill at his home, 5765 Blackstone avenue. Dr. Goodspeed, who is 85 years old, suffered a stroke on last Friday, and because of his advanced age his physicians hold out little hope for his recovery.

Dr. Goodspeed was connected with the old University of Chicago until its financial difficulties caused its failure. He then took steps to interest men of capital in the school and was one of those who induced John D. Rockefeller to furnish money with which the new university was started. Since then Mr. Rockefeller has given millions to the school. Mr. Goodspeed was made secretary of the board of directors in 1890.

YOUNG WIFE OF RICH MAN TAKES POISON IN TAXI

Mrs. John Hackett Adams, 21 years old, wife of a wealthy Memphis advertising man, was reported unconscious and near death at the St. Francis hospital, Evanston, after an attempt to commit suicide by swallowing poison in a taxicab last night.

According to the cab driver, George Reilly, 1420 East 65th place, the young woman hailed him at 63d and Langley avenue and told him to drive to the Orrington hotel in Evanston. On the way there she stopped at a drug store. A few minutes later he heard the crash of a bottle on the pavement and found that his fare had taken poison.

She pleaded with him, Reilly said, to permit her to die and offered him a diamond ring not to go near a hospital.

Police learned that Mrs. Adams had been staying since July with a friend, Mrs. Esther Connor, 6223 St. Lawrence avenue. She was said to have been despondent over the separation from her husband, who is a grandson of John Russell Adams, 1360 North State street. She has a baby son, John Hackett Adams Jr.

SEIZE TWO AS ROBBERS.

Dave Crowley, 19, of 2847 East 95th street and Michael Mance, 21, of 2821 East 95th street were arrested yesterday on charges that they stole $5,000 in clothing and a ton of sugar from box cars consigned to the Hastings Express company, 2840 East 95th street.

MUSSOLINI AIMS TO UNITE LATINS OF TWO WORLDS

[Copyright: 1927: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Dec. 12.—The text of the portentous interview which Premier Benito Mussolini granted to the editor of the newspaper Tunis Dispatch, published in the capital of the French North African colony, was telegraphed to Paris and produced a sensation this morning.

Proclaiming that "France and Italy are as two brothers, quarreling often, but sincerely loving each other," he called on France to aid him in forming a vast Latin bloc, including Spain, Portugal and the South and Central American republics.

The accomplishment of the black shirt leader's dream would give the Latin leaders a world hegemony beyond what Germany dreamed of in 1914. It would smash the Monroe Doctrine and the prestige of the United States in the western hemisphere and transfer the direction of Latin-American affairs to the Mediterranean.

Seeks Conference with France.

While professing deep friendship for France, the Fascist chieftain rebuffed England and Russia, explaining that the Italians would never understand these peoples as they understand fellow Latins.

Premier Mussolini's statements made in Rome several days ago reveal his anxiety for a conference with a representative of the French government—Foreign Minister Aristide Briand, Premier Raymond Poincare, or both—as a preliminary move to the creation of the bloc he envisages.

"Because of the Latin blood coursing in our veins, we regard the French as brothers," he said. "We must make an effort to understand the English and the difference is accentuated with the Germans. It becomes an abyss separating us from the Russians. That is why our relations with France can become momentarily stormy, but never develop to discord.

Urges Vast Latin Bloc.

"We certainly wish France would make a greater effort to understand us better. The newspapers of France give the impression that Italy is likely to sink at any moment into a terrible cataclysm.

"Why not recognize the discipline accepted by the people who suffered the rudest sacrifices? As much as it is possible to forecast the future, it is realized here that the régime will endure. Accepting this will facilitate the solution of questions between us and permit the constitution of a vast Latin bloc.

"Not only the Iberian nations—Spain and Portugal—but the republics of Central and South America should turn east toward Rome and Paris for guidance. Federate these multiple forces and these peoples, animated by the same faith, for whom civilization is a common heritage. Thus we will assure support throughout the world and arm ourselves against the menace of barbarism.

"Anything attempted toward a closer entente between France, us, and the Latin nations generally should be encouraged. We eventually will arrive there by natural forces.

"The thought of the possibility of a conflict between us is absurd. No one wants it. The lassitude since the great war is too great and the work we have undertaken requires calm and peace. This is true everywhere, even in the Balkans."

League Council Adjourns.

GENEVA, Dec. 12.—(AP)—With four international problems, including the Polish-Lithuanian controversy, on the way to settlement as a result of its deliberations, the forty-eighth session of the council of the league of nations adjourned this morning to meet in March.

Officials said that no arrangements to convene the March session at Rome have been made, although Rome has been suggested in some quarters as offering a way of bringing about a meeting of Foreign Minister Briand of France and Premier Mussolini without making it necessary for the French foreign minister to make a special journey to Rome for the purpose of seeking an opportunity to adjust Franco-Italian relations. The French representatives here seem desirous of having the March session in Rome and it is possible that conversations will take place among the council members concerning this within the next month or two.

CONGRESSMAN GOING TO NIGHT SCHOOL FOR COURSE IN BANKING

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Not satisfied with cum laude honors which he gained at Harvard, Representative Hamilton Fish Jr. of New York has enrolled in a night school here to learn more about banking.

HAMILTON FISH JR.
[Keystone Photo.]

He will attend two sessions a week to prepare himself for a position as officer of a bank being formed in New York City. He said today, however, that this would not necessitate his withdrawal from congress.

"I have always wanted to know more about the fundamentals of banking," he said, "and the situation which is developing in regard to a certain financial institution in New York, which I do not feel at liberty to discuss at the present time, seems to be adequate reason for my return to school."

CHRISTMAS HAS SINGING SPIRIT THIS YEAR, TOO

Chicago Children's Carols to Echo Old Times.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

A few minutes after the birth of the infant Jesus in the Bethlehem manger a "choir of squadron'd angels," so the poet tells us, chorused a radiant "In Excelsis Gloria."

And as they sang down on the star lit plains these angels not only gave to the church a precious hymn to be forever enfolded in the offices of the Nativity celebration, but they also left to men and women and little children, especially little children, the precedent of carol singing.

It is a custom which grew up spontaneously enough, after the manner of folks songs and ballads, which combined the ecclesiastical and the secular, which waned, was somewhat artificially revived, again waned, and is once more, in these days and in this land, being encouraged.

Children to Revive Custom.

For this week two thousand Chicago school children, under the stimulus of the Civic Music association, will sing these peculiarly rhymed and rhythmed chorales that are dance tune and melody and hymn, half a prayer and half a hallelujah, but always joyous as well as devout.

This week the children will sing in the neighborhood centers, and Saturday three groups will come to the loop for special performances. At 2:30 p. m. there will be a concert in the Blackstone court at the Art institute, half an hour later, a program in the Venetian court of the Fine Arts building, and at 3:30, a chorus in the lounge of the Stevens hotel.

Carol, the word, has had a controversial ancestry.

It may come from the Latin "corolla," meaning garland or circlet, and referring to the ring the singers formed as they sang their songs, out of doors. With equal authority it is traced to the Latin "cantare,"—to sing, and to "rola" cry of joy.

But carol, the idea, has never been one of controversy.

Idea Generally Accepted.

It started, in adoration, at the crib of the Savior, it gathered ecclesiastical dignity as the early bishops sang to their clergy, it grew more blithe as in combined singing and dancing in the early mystery plays the Nativity, it become more and more secular, and presently, along about the 13th century, it took in the suggestion of alms giving. This is recorded in that early Norman-French carol now preserved in manuscript form in the British museum.

There are many carols dating from the 15th century. One is the famous "Cherry Tree Carol," of "Joseph was an old man." The entries in the note books of the Tudor kings shows the popularity of the carol then.

The earliest printed version is the "sett of carols" published by Wynkyn de Worde in 1521. It contains the famous "Boar's Head" song.

That tuneful treatise on education, for it was really that, was all about a student at Queen's college, Oxford, who, while walking in Shotover forest studying his Aristotle, was dismayed to find a wild boar charging him.

Finds Philosophy Useful.

The scholar, choosing to lose his text book rather than his life, stuffed his volume down the boar's mouth, and having choked the beast with philosophy, carried its head home for dinner.

The early carols were things of uneven technique, the polishing and refining came in the sixteenth century. A popular example of that period is:

When Christ was born of Mary free,
In Bethlehem, in that fair citie,
Angels sang there with mirth and glee,
In Excelsis Gloria.

Then, there is the favorite:

God rest you merry, gentleman
Let nothing you dismay,
For Jesus Christ our Savior
Was born upon this day.

Another Popular Carol.

Another widely sung carol, with the repetitious simplicity of a ballad is this:

I saw three ships come sailing in
On Christmas day, on Christmas day;
I saw three ships come sailing in
On Christmas day in the morning.

At the time of the Reformation, in many sections of Europe and parts of Britain, Christmas carols, along with Christmas, were in high disfavor. Over in the American-colony the Puritans denounced the blithe carols as unscriptural. In Scotland they had an all but futile struggle for existence.

In England and in France later they were called "noels," and also in Italy, and that word "noel" frequently is used in them.

Famous Poets Wrote Them.

Then there were literary carols, written by an author, not a group. Milton, Ben Jonson, George Herbert, they all wrote them. But the largest collection comes from the pen of Robert Herrick. His "Come, bring with a noise" is, perhaps, the most typical.

In some cases the alms asked for were not for sweet charity's sake. In Devonshire, for instance, the singers would pool their money and have a gay jollification on Twelfth Night.

In England, the children sang a particular carol when they went on a "gooding" expedition.

The proper "gooding day" was, of course, Dec. 21, or St. Thomas' day. It then was the poorer people of the village went to the homes of the richer, asking for good things, against the approaching Christmas season. In return, they rewarded their benefactors with sprigs of mistletoe.

Find Christmas Fleeting.

When they went "gooding" on Christmas eve, or Christmas day, they sang this song:

Well-a-day. Well-a-day.
Christmas too soon goes away,
Then your gooding we do pray,
For the good times will not stay—
We are not beggars from door to door,
But neighbors' children known before,
So gooding pray,
We cannot stay,
But must away.
For Christmas will not stay.
Well-a-day. Well-a-day.

[Copyright: 1927: By The New York Times.]

PARIS, Dec. 12.—Ten nations, including the United States, met in Paris today to consider the question of whether scientific achievements are to receive the same legal consideration as works of art and music. Forty experts, under the auspices of the league of nations' international institute of intellectual coöperation, will discuss the subject for two days and prepare a series of recommendations which will later form the basis of international copyright legislation. The interest of America and Great Britain is largely academic, as both have legislation guaranteeing the rights of authorship to all categories of descendants of inventors and authors. America is represented by Benjamin Conner, president of the American chamber of commerce in France.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

DRY ERA BLAMED BY HOBSON FOR TRAFFIC IN DRUGS

Evil Multiplied Tenfold Under Prohibition.

Smuggling of narcotics and wholesale distribution of the habit forming drugs throughout the United States has increased tenfold since the advent of prohibition.

That was the statement yesterday of Richmond P. Hobson, who passed through Chicago on his way to Los Angeles from New York, where he attended a meeting of committees from all anti-narcotic agencies interested in establishing standard state and municipal codes to supplement federal drug acts.

A Spanish War Hero.

Mr. Hobson, then a young naval lieutenant, became an outstanding hero of the Spanish-American war in 1898 when he sank the collier Merrimac in the entrance of Santiago harbor, under the fire of the guns of the Spanish fleet and fort. He resigned a naval captaincy in 1903, entered politics, and served four terms in congress from Alabama. For many years Capt. Hobson has waged war on the narcotic evil, and he is president of the International Narcotic Educational association and secretary general of the World Conference on Narcotic Education.

Evidence of the grip the drug traffic has secured on the country since prohibition, Mr. Hobson declared, is found in a comparison of the indictments returned for violation of the Harrison anti-drug act. In 1916 there were 1,000 indictments. Four thousand true bills were voted in 1919, while in 1926 the number had increased to 10,000.

Aftermath of Prohibition.

Although Mr. Hobson is an advocate of prohibition, he said that the dry law is in part directly responsible for the boom in the narcotic trade. Highly organized rum fleets and Canadian rum runners are "doubling" their cargo, he said, by smuggling in quantities of drugs along with booze.

Mr. Hobson said that with the increasing use of narcotics by minors, there is a parallel development in the liquor and drug distribution. In order to create a market for narcotics, chiefly heroin, young people are being solicited by peddlers to "take a sniff-try anything once." It has been easy by appealing to the sophistry of experimentalism among adolescents to distribute all the heroin the rum runners can smuggle, Mr. Hobson added.

"Young people of today," he declared, "will have to run the gamut both of bootleg liquor and of bootleg heroin and it is of the utmost importance that they should be informed of the consequences especially of the innocent looking heroin.

"The heroin habit results in physical, mental and moral degradation so pitiful that it is called by scientists, 'the living death.'"

MRS. COOLIDGE'S MOTHER ILL BUT IS IMPROVING

Northampton, Mass., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The condition of Mrs. Elmira Goodhue, 78, mother of Mrs. Grace Goodhue Coolidge, wife of the President, was reported greatly improved tonight. Physicians at the Dickinson hospital, where Mrs. Goodhue is ill of influenza, said the patient probably was out of danger.

Mrs. Goodhue was comfortable throughout the day, the hospital report said. This morning she was strong enough to receive a few callers, close friends of the family. Her temperature was normal tonight.

Mrs. Goodhue was taken to the hospital yesterday. During her illness, Maj. James F. Coupal, the President's personal physician, has been in consultation by telephone from Washington with Mrs. Goodhue's physician, Dr. Elmer F. Copeland.

FOUND DEAD IN GARAGE.

Nicholas Bournay, 36, of Hammond, was found dead in his automobile in the garage at the rear of his home yesterday. Police believe that carbon monoxide gas from the automobile caused his death.

Shot as He Examines Gun in Loop Shop; Dies

While examining a revolver in the jewelry shop of Walter Anderson at 108 North State street yesterday, Paul Bigby, 35 years old, a visitor from Charleston, Ill., accidentally shot himself in the left breast. He was taken to St. Luke's hospital, where he died within a few minutes.

FIGURES THAT TALK
The Book of Knowledge Is Making More Than 2,000,000 Children Happy

DO YOU know why The Book of Knowledge is so conspicuously successful? Because it instructs and delights the children at the same time. By its winning style, its striking pictures, and, most of all, by its psychological arrangement, it captures the child's imagination and makes learning a delight. Step by step the children go through the 18 great departments: Wonder Questions, The Earth, Familiar Things, Animal Life, Plant Life, Our Own Life, United States, All Countries, Men and Women, Stories, Poetry, Literature, Fine Arts, Things to Make and Do, etc.—the essential knowledge of the world.

Appeals to the Child's Heart

There are a number of unique features which no other informational work for the young, except The Book of Knowledge, possesses. Perhaps most important of these is the fact that it has a point of view. A way of looking at things? Yes, but what way? There's the rub. It must be a right way and a true way if the children are to benefit most. The Book of Knowledge was written with this always in mind.

When you want to see something you do not stand with your back to it, but facing it. The gaining of information is perhaps the smallest part of a true education. It is the practical use of that knowledge that counts. The Book of Knowledge teaches children how to look at things and understand them in the right way. You will be amazed at the moral effect of this work upon your child's mind as well as the amount of information which he will store up.

15,000 Pictures—Knowledge at a Glance

The eye is the first great teacher. There are, in The Book of Knowledge, 15,000 striking educational pictures, brought together from every corner of the globe. Interestingly, vividly, at a glance they show the important facts of knowledge in a way that can never be forgotten.

This wonderful plan is the idea of a father who loved his child and was determined to give him the best possible start in life. Today The Book of Knowledge is known and loved the world over. As one mother writes: "There is something missing from the lives of children who grow up without it."

PEOPLE HERE AND IN GREAT BRITAIN.

John Steele of THE TRIBUNE London office has examined English public school history texts to satisfy a curiosity incidental to the Chicago disturbance of historical serenity. The extracts he gives American readers would indicate that English children are helped to an unprejudiced understanding of the creation of the American republic, which is neither astonishing nor peculiar.

There can be a considerable overplay of the idea that the American revolution was an integral part of British development. It is reasonable to suppose that Great Britain would be virtually where it is now in representative government if it never had American colonies. It is also reasonable to suppose that the United States would not be where it is now if it had not had a foundation on English experience. What it would be we cannot know, but, for better or worse, it would not be what it is. It is a mistake to think that the revolution did also for Great Britain what it did for the United States. Politically the colonists strengthened their possession of a heritage. They asserted that they had English rights, and to them, as these rights were then understood in Great Britain, they admitted some evolutionary developments of their own. But they also took a step which the British have not yet taken, whether or not they are still preparing for it.

The Americans adopted a social doctrine which was beginning its vogue in France and which here was congenial to men who had met the frontier and wilderness with their hands. Men were born free and equal. It was apparent that a noble title obtained nothing for a man when he and his ax faced a hundred acres of hardwood timber growing where his corn must grow if he and his family were to live. What counted was his muscle, his skill, his woodcraft, endurance, and courage. When the old titles were founded many such qualities were needed, but heredity could not transmit them certainly, and the colonists could not progress by assuming that certain men possessed superior qualities which they did not have. The wilderness was a showdown. If the qualities a man received at his birth helped him it was proved that they did. If they did not help him the wilderness did not concede the advantage to him. The revolution did not come out of the woods, but out of the secured communities. Nevertheless, the futility of a caste system as establishing worth had been proved and the great contribution the American revolution with its following trials in early government gave the world was the doctrine that a man was a man in his own right.

There may be values and virtues in the English caste system which an American cannot understand, but most Americans see only its stigmata. They are told that it sustains self-respect and they see only that it injures that human requisite. They are told that it makes stability and they can see only that it should cause unrest. They are told it is good and they think it bad. They think of it as limiting opportunity, closely defining the bounds of life and unjustly distributing many of the rewards, asserting merit where there is none and imputing inferiority where nothing but circumstances of birth could make it such.

This speculative excursion into the major consequences of the American revolution in connection with a story that English history texts deal fairly with the revolt of the colonies from Great Britain asks indulgence because it is not wholly relevant, but it points this idea, that the lack of prejudice is not complete evidence of sympathy. It would be stupid in Great Britain, as it would be stupid in America, to distort accounts of so important an event in the future of peoples speaking the English language. If that cannot be fairly discussed in the schools of Great Britain and the United States then the teaching of the young is an admitted mockery. The good relations of the two countries will do better with fairness in the early education of their children. A great many consequential animosities start in the elementary schools or may start there. It will be good for the world to avoid the violence which begins with early indoctrination. There will be enough hostilities of occasion and event without training some to exist from the cradle.

A TRACTION STRIKE AVERTED.

Indications at this writing are that the controversy between the street car and elevated men's unions and the company officials will be settled without a strike and perhaps with very little to go before an arbitration committee.

Both sides are to be congratulated for their good sense and moderation. Chicago is the barometer for the country in the matter of street railway agreements and the present Chicago example, it is to be hoped, will set a popular style. It is a victory for the principle of arbitration and still more a victory for the principle of getting together around a table and talking things back and forth.

Most of all, the street car and elevated riding public is to be congratulated for having escaped a transportation tieup which, at this time of the year, would have meant extreme inconvenience, considerable real hardship, and a tremendous financial loss.

TEARING DOWN A HOME.

The late Victor Lawson's home on the Lake Shore drive is being wrecked, and when the ground is cleared a great coöperative apartment building will be put up in its place. Where the editor lived baronially many families will live with mechanical aids all about them. They will have the machine age, with every possible mechanism eliminating the human relationships in life. Mechanism does not walk out on a dinner party.

Mr. Lawson tried to build a Norman keep, a great home so substantially constructed that years would peck at it harmlessly and untold generations would see it represent the past. The wreckers cannot salvage much of the material because it cannot be resolved back into its component parts. The bricks would be worth money, but they can't be shaken out of the cement. Valuable material must be dumped as useless, probably into the lake, because Mr. Lawson built too well for himself and because, although he has been dead only a few years, society for the region in which he had his home has completely changed its ideas. To the old story there is something spiritually depressing in the picture of the manorial home giving way to the bee hive, but that idea is unduly depressing. It is true that superficially we seem to be edging over in the direction of Babylon. And we know that when Babylon built too high in the air there were waiting great deans of men who headed the skin clad shepherds in the hills and waves of people living simply swept down over the bee-hived city dwellers, exterminated them, and then adopted their ways of life, to be exterminated, in their turn, as they exchanged their sheepskins for silk.

It is probably natural to wonder if American life, with its desire for change, its indifference to the past, its supreme distinction between the quick and the dead, its respect only for a going concern, is superlatively stable or instable. Is its adjustability a guaranty of permanence or is its changeability a weakness? Is its disregard of the past an unsound irreverence or is it sounder to escape the past and revere only the future? Certainly the American people spend but few minutes looking west but are forever arising to look into the east at dawn.

THIS SPOILS OUR CHRISTMAS.

This department of THE TRIBUNE had what the copy reader in the local room writing heads in which short words are worth money might call a Yule idea. It was to give an obviously unscholarly but possibly interesting account of the derivation of present day Christmas customs and symbols. And the first page beat us to it. Genevieve Forbes Herrick got in the line ahead and has swiped about everything which was in the editorial silo.

Down in North Carolina there is a story of a colored woman who had to go, or went with delight, to a funeral. In tribute to the dead each mourner was to approach the remains, place a hand on the stilled brow and repeat a suitable sentence, such as: "Not dead but sleeping" or, "At rest at last."

This woman had learned ten suitable expressions but she was about fortieth in line and before she had the stage every one of her sentiments had been used. Her mistress asked her afterwards how it come off and she said it had been quite terrible. Everything she had in mind had been spoken and as she came to the dead she couldn't think of a single fitting thing. What she had done would remain in her mind as an unintentional atrocity.

She had put her hand on the dead man's forehead and she had said: "Merry Christmas, Mr. Brown."

That as we see it now is us, but possibly there can be a rally from it and something salvaged out of the wreck of the silo.

Editorial of the Day

BEING SERIOUS ABOUT "BIG BILL."

[The British-American.]

The London Times quotes the Hon. "Mike" Faherty as saying on his recent visit there: "There's nothing wrong with this country except that you don't understand Mayor Thompson. You take him too seriously."

Naturally the Britons, after reading the outrageous things said of them by Mr. Thompson as official mouthpiece of America's second city, "take him seriously"—at least at first. When they analyze his wild assertions, of course, their sense of humor is touched, and they realize that they are dealing with one of the world's eccentrics, so often delineated by British caricaturists.

Enlightened cities of his own country have the same experience with our mayor. Last week he visited his birthplace, Boston, and made a pilgrimage to Bunker Hill.

He fulminated about Britain's treachery and avarice to the assembled scribes and indulged in his habit of gross exaggeration. The Boston reporters were ready to "take Mayor Thompson seriously." When he called Rupert Hughes "a damned liar" because of his life of George Washington, and expressed other indignant convictions about Hughes, a reporter asked Bill if he had read the Hughes book.

"No, I haven't," he shouted. "I wouldn't read any part of it. He's just a muckraker for profit."

You can't take a man like that seriously for very long. A Chicago journalist of note said he was going to vote for "Big Bill" because of his kindly way of slapping him on the back and saying, "How's the boy?" Too many of us were influenced by the Thompson geniality and good fellowship.

John F. McKeon, export counselor, told the City club this week that Thompson's anti-British campaign had cost Chicago no less than $1,500,000 in business, Britons, including Canadians and Australians, were sending valuable manufacturing orders elsewhere.

London, as "Mike" stated, may have taken Mayor Thompson too seriously.

But Chicago did not take him seriously enough!

I'M NAPOLEON.

Booth Tarkington, while seated in the coach of a westbound train, was accosted by a young lad selling books and magazines.

Tarkington beckoned to the boy, asking, "What have you worth reading, son?"

The youngster scanned his wares and replied: "Here's a good novel called 'The Gentleman from Indiana,' by Booth Tarkington."

Whereupon the novelist remarked: "Well—er, it happens that I am Booth Tarkington; I wrote that novel."

The lad, taken momentarily with surprise, quickly responded: "Then how about 'Three Weeks' by Elinor Glyn! You ain't Elinor Glyn, are you?"

KELLOGG'S COCKTAIL.

START with one very ripe banana for each person to be served. The banana peel must have turned brownish. Unless the banana is extra ripe the cocktail will have a somewhat acrid, resinous flavor.

The banana is sliced into a thick walled glass and mashed with a heavy spoon until the pulp is a smooth mass, liquid enough to pour. The vigorous mashing is for the purpose of breaking up the cells and liberating the banana juice.

Add one tablespoonful of grape juice, a teaspoonful or more of sugar, and one tablespoonful of cream. Fill the glass with charged water. Serve.

If the banana is as ripe as it should be there will be no need for any sugar. At least, there will be need for but little. If the banana peel was golden yellow rather than brown speckled, a dessertspoonful of sugar may be required.

A good cook will think of other methods of thoroughly mashing a banana that will be preferable to the glass and spoon method used at the table.

Such a cocktail is high in food values by reason of the fat in the cream, the sugar in the banana and grape juice, and the sugar as such. It is low in protein. It is a strong basic food, tending to counteract the acid tendencies of a bread and meat, or bread and egg meal. The banana and the grape juice are strongly basic; the cream supplies an ash that is not far from neutral. The charged water is for the purpose of increasing palatability.

THE TEMPLAR COCKTAIL.

Add, about one teaspoonful of sugar to some buttermilk, the amount varying with the acidity of the buttermilk. Add a tablespoonful of grape juice or orange juice. Fill the glass with charged water. Some prefer to grate a little nutmeg on the top of the cocktail.

This cocktail is fairly nutritious. The buttermilk and sugar supply the fuel values. It is low in protein. The acidity tends to keep up a mild degree of acidity in the digestive tract, and, in that way, promotes health. Instinct having always prompted the eating of fruits and slightly sour drinks, especially in warm weather, the scientists went to work looking for an explanation. They finally found one.

The tendency of this drink is to maintain the basic reaction of the tissues. The mixtures of charged water and milk is somewhat more appealing than buttermilk alone.

The name "Templar" is given it because it was first used on a large scale during a national Templar meeting held in Chicago around 1909.

LAXATIVE HABIT BAD.

Mrs. M. M. P. writes: 1. Since you do not advise the use of laxatives or cathartics, what is your remedy for biliousness? I had chronic constipation for years, always having to use laxatives. Since two weeks ago, however, the constipation has entirely corrected itself, but since I have discontinued medicines my tongue has a thick, green coating, resembling a severe bilious condition. Would you advise a good cleaning out with calomel, or will this condition correct itself? I have noticed no particular bad taste, and feel better than usual.

2. Has buttermilk a laxative effect? I drink one quart a day.

REPLY:

1. Do not take the dose of calomel. Calomel is about as good a purgative as any, but why go back into the thralldom from which you have just escaped. Clean your tongue by chewing gum. Another good method is to scrape the tongue with a case knife.

Keep up the diet which has overcome constipation.

2. It has.

MARRYING COUSINS.

Worried writes: I am in love with a first cousin, but my friends tell me that it is not healthy to marry a first cousin, and especially dangerous were we to have children.

REPLY:

Marriage between first cousins is all right except in those states where it is forbidden and in families where there are inheritable defects and diseases.

These two prohibitions are not always related in fact.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

TWO HUSBANDS OR NONE!

Chicago, Dec. 4.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Four years ago I was married to a man who had previously been married and failed to get a divorce. When I learned the truth I left him and came to Chicago to avoid talk in my home town. As I was not really married to him I did not think it necessary to obtain a divorce. I told no one, as I was ashamed of the whole business. A year ago I remarried without telling my husband of the former affair. A few months ago he heard it from another source. He left me at once, saying that our marriage is illegal and he refuses to support me. Am I married, and if so, to whom?

WORRIED.

Your second marriage is valid if you can prove the facts upon which the invalidity of the previous marriage depends, but because of possible difficulty in such proof we have uniformly advised persons contemplating such a second marriage to secure an annulment decree in order to avoid precisely the embarrassment in which you find yourself.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CERTIFICATES OF BIRTH.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Our son was born on April 15, 1927, and our doctor has sent in three birth certificates signed, but as yet we have not received our registered certificate. What causes this delay, and what can we do more to receive our certificate?

E. G.

Call at the office of the bureau of vital statistics, city hall, for it.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

AGED AND PENNILESS.

Chicago, Dec. 5.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—How can one compel children to support a destitute parent? This parent is quite aged and without funds. What is the law on such a matter?

B. H.

Our pauper act requires near relatives to contribute according to their means to the support of destitute persons, except that married women are not required to contribute unless they have independent means. Apply to the bureau of public welfare in the county building.

FROM A ONCE INCONSTANT NYMPH.

This loveliness that once I hungered for
Has lost its body. What shall now remain
But a thin ghost of sea, a wraith of plain,
Dull waters scalloping an empty shore?

White petals, blowing birds, and fine-spun rain,
Pale twilight skies and river-mirrored star,
These early, transient loves now are
Voiceless, nor can my cruel neglect complain.

What matters a cold moon-rise, more or less?
You are all joy, and every loveliness.

BERTHA TEN EYCK JAMES.

CALIFORNIA is all excitement over the development of a seedless lemon. That isn't important. What humanity is waiting for is an orange that won't squirt juice in its eye.

Which Settles the Matter Once for All.

Well, We Thank You.

Shelby and Dick: What words can I use with which to thank you? A poet would have much difficulty in expressing my thoughts; then, what am I, one who feels but cannot express, to do? The book, a thing of such delicious exquisiteness, a laugh in one breath—a tear in the next—and none but one who has known the quivering ache of heartbreak could appreciate the fineness of other contributions so delicately chosen. Thank you and God bless you. HALF-PINT, EVE.

"FRANCO-BRITISH Hand Extended to Mussolini."—Trib. Look out, Mussolini, bet there's a brick in the other hand.

A GENTLEMAN WAKES UP IN HIS SUITE AT THE ALGONQUIN.

O GOD, that can't be the sun! Why the hell does the sun come up before noon in New York, anyway? Of course it couldn't have been a nice cloudy day and given my eyeballs a break. Oh, no. The day dawned bright and clear. And I suppose the lark's on the wing, too. I'd like to see a lark on the wing around me, just now. There'd be lark pie on the luncheon menu, and with my own bare hands.

Well, I must say I've made a neat sailor's knot in these bed sheets. If I get myself untangled in the next half hour I'll go into vaudeville. Making a fool out of the chambermaid's art, that's what it is. Some poor little Polish girl frittering away the bloom of her youth, smoothing the last wrinkle out of the percale, and see what happens.

The sidewalk is the place where I should be lying, after last night. And a white wing to call me early. It only goes to show what human effort comes to. Honest artisans in Grand Rapids, singing weavers in Belfast, happy mattress stuffers in Racine, all working with trusting hearts to make what some day is going to be a bed, and look what wakes up in it in the morning. No wonder there was a French Revolution. . . . A gutter would be something more like it. Do you suppose I could have a reproduction made of an old English gutter?

Well, anyway, I was the social success of the Authors' ball. Telling Ellis Parker Butler the story about Frisco feeding the cab horse doughnuts! He could hardly keep a straight face. I'll bet it just made him weak. Maybe he missed some of the finer points of it, though, because it wasn't about pigs. Mrs. Butler seemed pleased, too. Especially when I finished the story.

I'd better order up some breakfast. Oooh! That nearly did it. I don't think I can get my mouth open anyway. Gosh, it snapped just like a rubber band. Now for a nice glass of listerine. If you think listerine can help this you're crazy. I wonder if that can be my tongue. I thought not. Just a rare bit of old Kolinsky. If you had enough of it you could make a fur wrap.

Hello, Room Service, please. And medical service, too, I guess. How do I feel this morning? Say, listen, young lady, another crack like that and I'll report you to Mr. Case. Room service? This is 1114 speaking. Well, it was 1114, but now it's the Face on the Bar Room Floor. Can you suggest a nice appetizing breakfast for a growing boy just out of his teens? . . . No. . . . No. . . . Alligator pear! God, no. Wait, I can't stand it any more—all I want is a bowl of farina, and don't send me a waiter, send it up with a St. Bernard Dog.

THE GARTERSNAKE'S GOODNIGHT.

She used me to tie up her stocking
And I tried to fit in with the clocking—

And my eyes keep on rocking and rocking.

PEDAGOGUE.

WELL, we don't know who was the earliest bird to get down to the Public Service Department yesterday morning to put in his order for one of the swell, roomy Sedan Model Linebooks, but we do know that G. E. McH. came in first over here with a special delivery order for his copy. George (the G. stands for George) said he wanted to be sure to get one of the three hundred, and as for the shrieking red cover, "the hotter the vermillion," said George, "the harder it'll be for graceless guys to tuck the Linebook into their pockets and sneak off undetected." There's something in what he says on both counts. Three hundred autographed, one dollar and fifty cents, Sedan Linebooks is just t.h.a.o.d.a.f.c.S.L., no more, no less, and as for the color—well, the guy who could lose one of the Sedan Linebooks would be deaf, dumb, and blind, because they can be seen a mile and heard at least around the corner.

Ah, Spring's Not Far Behind.

R. H. L.: Gosh! no more excitement. Thompson's circus has gone, Al Capone's on a vacation, the Vanderbilts are all married, Sam 'n' Henry and Topsy and Eva Linebook Days have come and gone, no good murders to read about, only two bombs last week, and no good murders in Chicago. Gee! this is getting to be a dead town. Nothing to look forward to but Christmas. Oh, what's the use of living?

TABARIN.

COL. CHARLEY LINDBERGH is going to make a nonstop good will flight from Washington to Mexico City. We suggest—to make President Calles and the other Mexican officials fairly ooze with amity—that Lindy carry William Didmore Hearst as a passenger. Oh, what a perfectly grand idear!

STARS.

Stars are the ghosts of earthly loves,
Magnificent in cold disdain,
A crystaled skein of dead desires,
Lit by a moon of pain.

Oswald Is Selling Linebooks for Old Hugh Donaldson.

Say, Dick, I was in Bloomington and I couldn't find Oswald of Wesleyan anywhere. And I asked all around the Wesleyan campus, they never heard of him. Where can I gaze upon him? GLADYS L.

IT ISN'T WORRYING over what we are going to buy this person or that for Christmas that's killing us. No! FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 13, 1862.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Absolutely no news has been received from Fredericksburg beyond last night Associated Press news. If the rebels have not fallen back to Richmond, as some believe, a great battle will be fought, probably today or tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Revs. J. R. W. Sloane and A. M. Milligan of the Old School Covenanter church called on the President as a delegation from the synods to urge him to steadfastly adhere to his proclamation of freedom. Mr. Lincoln assured them that he believed emancipation was the only salvation of the country.

EDITORIAL.—The splendid success of Gen. Burnside at Fredericksburg in accomplishing that which the great Frederick pronounced the most delicate and difficult achievement in war—crossing a deep river in the face of an enemy—gives promise of an energetic campaign in Virginia, simultaneously with like movements in the departments of the Cumberland and Tennessee. "Forward, the whole line," is now the order from the commander in chief. Burnside, Rosecrans, and Grant hold in their hands the destiny of the country, and according as they win or lose does the country live or die.

CHICAGO.—Artemus Ward, the popular humorist and lecturer, is announced to deliver a lecture at Bryan hall on Wednesday evening of next week. Subject: "Sixty Minutes in Africa."

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 13, 1902.

CARACAS.—The demand for the surrender of Puerto Cabello to the Anglo-German fleet has been refused. The German flagship Vineta and the British cruiser Adriane have cleared their decks for action, and their commanders have served notice that unless the port is surrendered within twenty-four hours the town will be bombarded.

CHICAGO.—Walter E. McCornack of Chicago, for the last two seasons head coach at Dartmouth college, was named as coach of the Northwestern university.

CHICAGO.—Are eight inch figures on the tailboard of an automobile a reasonable requirement? On this point the demands made by the city council will stand or fall. While members of the Chicago Automobile club are threatening to go to the courts to test the ordinance passed by the council last Monday night, Corporation Counsel Walker maintains that the council is secure in its right to regulate the use of the streets and that in singling out the automobiles as public menaces it has not adopted class legislation.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

DECEMBER 13, 1917.

LONDON.—A massed German attack east of Bullecourt was repulsed by the British except at one point, according to Field Marshal Haig's report. The Germans suffered heavy losses, many dead being left behind on their retirement.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congressional dissatisfaction with the delays in arming and equipping American soldiers, due partly to alleged inefficiency and partly to antiquated methods, is likely to lead to the creation of a bureau of war supplies, headed by some officer or civilian with a national reputation for purchasing, producing and organizing ability.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Food Administrator Hoover will issue a supplemental food card to the 13,000,000 food conservation pledge signers announcing that the food administration's sugar rationing plan for the United States provides for three pounds of sugar a month to each person during the coming year.

HALIFAX, N. S.—The toll of death resulting from the explosion of the munitions ship Mont Blanc in Halifax harbor was officially fixed at 1,226.

NEW YORK.—Secretary of War Baker and Secretary of the Navy Daniels, speaking before the Southern society, defended America's military preparations, described the work of spies and seditionists, the preaching of pessimism, and asserted that the war work of this country had evoked the admiration of the experts of the nations who for three years longer than America knew what modern war preparations were. Secretary Baker said that no nation had done so well in nine months as the United States.

AN UNUSUAL INCIDENT.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—In your recent editorial entitled, "When the Constitution Is Not the Constitution," you cite an outrageous flogging case in Alabama as an example where a citizen, in this case a southern Negro, failed to receive the rights granted by law in the Constitution of the United States to free Americans. This Negro was brutally flogged and intimidated into selling his farm at a ridiculously low figure. You loudly exclaim that he was not a citizen because he did not receive the protection to which he was entitled. You are leaving the impression, as you no doubt intended, that this method of extortion is commonly applied to the Negroes by the southern white people.

Allow me to say that this atrocity is not a cross section of the relationship between the two races. It is no more a fair representation of the south than the gang wars in Chicago are representative of the United States. It is no more indicative of the feeling existing between the white and black races than the attempted murder of a schoolteacher sweetheart is typical of the feeling existing between every normal boy and his beloved. I assure you that the crimes mentioned above are as shocking to the better element of the southern white people as they are to you. PAUL SYKES.

FOR SAFER BUSSES.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Several days ago my wife and I with fifty other passengers were riding home in a bus operated by the South Suburban company between Beverly Hills and the south side elevated terminal. At 63d and Western avenue the bus caught fire. The windows were all barred and the only exit was a narrow door at the front of the bus, where the fire had started, and the passengers crowded their way to this door; luckily, the gasoline tank did not explode, as it easily might have done.

It seems to me that these busses should be required to have another exit at the rear which could be used in case of emergency, and public opinion should force this change before a serious catastrophe occurs. LEO LICKERMAN.

THE SPEED OF FIRE APPARATUS.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—In answer to J. W. L.'s letter in the Voice of the People on the speed of fire engines:

The rules of the fire department forbid a speed of more than 25 miles per hour in responding to alarms of fire. All apparatus returning from alarms must abide by the traffic lights and our chiefs see that they live up to the book of rules. Just recently squad No. 3 was answering a lung motor call and at the intersection of Seventy-fifth street and Cottage Grove avenue they were struck, injuring two firemen. The squad was going 12 miles per hour across the intersection.

CAPT. MURPHY.

FOR A TEMPLE OF MUSIC.

Chicago, Dec. 8.—There was some recent discussion as to the need of a more suitable memorial to Chicago's soldiers and sailors of the world war than Soldiers' field has proved to be. I had hoped that some one would suggest what appears to me to be the most obvious, most fitting and most desirable memorial to Chicago's heroes—a beautiful and commodious music pavilion, or temple of music, to be located in Grant park, preferably at a point between the Art institute and the Field museum.

Music was found to be the greatest medium of maintaining morale during the war. It was the most humanizing, cheering agency introduced into camp life. As music served the purpose of unifying the countless thousands in the service of the country, it can serve the same high purpose in the life of a great city.

It is estimated that we have 25,000 music students studying here in the summer, many of them being teachers from colleges and schools all over America. They cannot but wonder at the total lack of good music within the city during that time. An artistic pavilion or tabernacle, could be so constructed as to afford a large seating capacity and, by being opened on the sides and rear, allow for many additional listeners. With a scientifically constructed band shell at one end, many thousands could hear the music in comfort and concerts could be given regardless of weather conditions. Concerts by bands, orchestras, and choruses and meetings of patriotic and civic organizations could be held here during the summer at the most attractive location in the city.

Such a building should not be exorbitant in cost, being intended largely for summer use, and would provide facilities for suitable memorial tablets, etc.

VICTOR J. GRABEL.

OFFICERS AND PRIVATES.

Hopkins, Mich., Dec. 8.—"Wounded Officer" seems to imply that he is being treated unfairly because he isn't getting more compensation than a fighting soldier. Why should he expect to receive more? Is it because he wears four wound stripes or because he spent 90 days learning to be an officer and gentleman? I am a disabled soldier and have only two wound stripes and am totally and permanently disabled and Christmas will mark my third year in bed. I have nothing but gratitude for the generosity and consideration of my Uncle Sam. However, I hope he doesn't discriminate against me because I carried a rifle and bayonet instead of a swagger stick.

CHAS. E. DOUGLAS.

HAVE YOU TRIED A BEARD?

Chicago, Dec. 8.—As a daily sufferer I should like to offer the first fifty dollars of a million dollar reward to the party who can invent some method or device to free us men from the eternal problem of shaving. 19 YEAR OLD SHAVER.

In Times Like These

The only safe Advertising Advisers are Business Men in the Advertising Business

WE would not think much of any advertising advice for 1928 which contained no note of caution. Regardless of what this year's business has been, you are planning to make next year's business better. Advertising can help to make it so. But it is not a time to run past signals.

Advertising is a power, but it has its limitations. There are fifty business men who recognize its possibilities to one who understands its limitations. We are not so certain the ratio is different in the case of advertising men.

The preparation of any advertising program today is work for strategists. It takes more than a good spender to make advertising good today. The game has become too scientific for the man with the most chips to win. Advertising space was never so expensive; competition for attention never so severe. An advertiser must know what he is doing. Mistakes must be detected and corrected almost instantly. Where to spend the money, and in what units, has become a problem paramount to what an advertisement is to say.

But the advertising picture is still a pleasant one to contemplate. For it offers the greatest prizes of all time for selling goods in print. And rightly conducted, an advertising campaign is still the safest of business ventures. The most ambitious plan may be tested on a small scale. No careful operator will forego such test, however plausible the plan.

Granted the wisdom of safeguarding any advertising expenditure, there is still the element of time. The simplest advertising test will consume at least a month. Only an experienced agency can help you much with plans for Spring. One that has successfully sold your products, or kindred lines. One that has dealt with your kind of dealers, and has talked to your public. Lacking this experience, the best-intentioned organization could cost you a season.

Our advice to advertisers, then, is to be guided by experience. Find the advertising agency whose experience makes it the logical candidate for your account. Select your agency for 1928 with the realization that you will make no more important advertising decision all year. This advice to place experience above all else may lead you to our door—or past it. If your business falls within the scope of our experience, let us know your needs. We employ no solicitors, but will always respond with alacrity to inquiries as to our method of developing an advertising account.

The best known health foods in all the world spend what is probably the smallest sum ever connected with an advertising success.

A*ssociation advertising* calls for agency cooperation of a high order. Investigate the progress made by the manufacturers of oak flooring, producers of gumwood, and of common brick.

O*nly a few products* sold through drugstores have a sales volume comparable to aspirin.

F*ew automotive accessory men* will enthuse over 1927. Yet a certain driving light chose this year to eclipse all known records for the sale of such an item. Everyone in the automotive trade is familiar with the advertising that helped achieve this.

T*he advertisements* of a famous baby chick food have demonstrated what a study of the subject can accomplish for agricultural advertisers.

A cod liver oil preparation only two years old is already selling in important quantities. The emphasis which the advertising places on its pleasant taste is perhaps the principal reason.

M*anufacturers* of any important apparatus for the home should be interested in the history of oil burner advertising. There is one acknowledged leader in this field, today. Competitive advertising has all but subsided.

Y*east* used to be thought of only when one baked bread. The advertising story of the vitamins in yeast has led millions of people to take yeast daily.

T*he hood seal* that now keeps clean bottled milk clean in almost every community was, four years ago, a specialty of limited appeal and sale. A more subtle angle to the advertising hastened its general acceptance by years.

I*n 1926* another new washing machine went on the market. Its advertising was placed with strict regard for the expansion and contraction of payrolls. Large ads where industries were in full swing; no ads where there were shutdowns. Need we add that such advertising was successful?

M*illions of mothers* give their babies castoria. To write the advertising for such a product requires a deft touch.

L*ast January* a steel fabricating plant made a large appropriation for advertising. The first advertisements appear this month. When there is need for ground work, an agency should be prepared to make the investment.

T*he advertising* of building materials demands an absolute knowledge of the uses of such material, and exact knowledge of trade conditions surrounding its use. We welcome inquiries in this field.

I*n five years' time* a cosmetic line advertised around the personality of a famous actress has become one of the best sellers. It may fairly be termed an advertising success, for the company has never employed salesmen.

REMUS AND HIS ATTORNEY CLASH; REMUS IS LOSER

Police Lieutenant Tells Aftermath of Crime.

BY ORVILLE DWYER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cincinnati, O., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—When George Remus and his co-counsel, Charles E. Elston, split late today on a question of defense policy, the court refused to recognize Remus, giving cognizance only to Elston.

Remus, former ruler of the midwest rum supply, is on trial before Judge Chester R. Shook on a charge of killing his wife, Imogene, in Eden park, Cincinnati, on Oct. 6, having followed her as she was on the way to face him in the divorce court.

Remus is pleading insanity and if Judge Shook's action this afternoon had any significance in connection with that plea, the inference must be drawn from what took place in court and from the ruling itself.

Prosecutor Charles P. Taft, son of Chief Justice Taft, had made a motion that all the mass of deposition testimony taken for the divorce case that Remus cut off by shooting his wife, be read to the jury in this murder trial. Attorney Elston objected.

"Your honor," Elston said, "certainly we are not trying a divorce case here. This is a trial for homicide. It is not that I object to the depositions themselves, but it would take three days to read them all and so delay us three days, and that is all."

MR. TAFT—I am offering them, your honor, because the defendant, Remus, had continually stated before this court and the jury that he wanted "everything" to go in.

MR. ELSTON—Of course, your honor, but as attorney conducting this defense, it is my privilege——

Remus Addresses Court.

MR. REMUS—May I be heard on that, your honor? Thank you, your honor. Of course, we don't object. Mr. Elston is in the wrong there. Let everything go in. I repeat it. Let everything, the whole grip full of stuff, the Taft outfit has there go in.

THE COURT—One moment, I have an objection before me——

MR. ELSTON—Yes, your honor, I persist.

MR. REMUS—O, your honor, there is nothing in there I wouldn't want before the jury—I would give it all to them; my only concern has been to spare the jury the days and days they must sit here——

THE COURT—The objection is sustained, the depositions will not go in.

MR. TAFT—But, your honor, Mr. Remus has withdrawn the objection.

THE COURT—Mr. Elston's objection is sustained.

MR. BASLER [assistant prosecutor]—But the defendant, your honor——

Police Lieutenant Testifies.

This set-to took place a short time after Lieut. Frank McNeal, of the Cincinnati police department, testified that Remus told him on the morning of Oct. 6, after Remus had given himself up, that he had followed his wife to Eden park "to kill her." The lieutenant on cross-examination by Attorney Elston, however, also told the jury that Remus, pacing the station with doubled fists, a half hour after the killing said to him:

"Now, I've got the first peace I've had in two and a half years."

Lieut. McNeal was called as a state's rebuttal witness. He said he met Remus for the first time in his life, when the bootleg king walked into police headquarters about 8:30 a. m. Oct. 6.

Answers Perjury Charge.

Earlier in the day John S. Berger of Los Angeles, Cal., said to be a millionaire exposition promoter, appeared before the court in answer to an indictment for perjury, returned against him last Saturday. Mr. Berger was a star witness for the defense. This being his arraignment, he pleaded "not guilty."

"Your honor," Berger, a little, half bald man of 53, said, "the state is here trying to ruin a reputation that I worked all my life to build up and keep above reproach. They are trying to wipe it away with the stroke of a pen.

"Your honor, I would like permission to appear before the Hamilton county grand jury to prove the prosecution used fraud in obtaining my indictment. I understand the prosecutor showed the jurors a photograph of a well known criminal, who they said was John H. Berger.

"The indictment, your honor, was obtained upon manufactured lies. I demand a chance to defend myself against such practices."

Judge Shook ruled against Berger. He simply said he had no control of the prosecutor's office and had known nothing of the indictment until it was delivered to him sealed.

Berger, a little later, through his attorney, delivered to Prosecutor Taft a demand for a retraction of the charges. In this he stated the charges against him were false.

Court Denies Plea.

Columbus, O., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Chief Justice Marshall and Justices Mathias and Day of the state Supreme court today denied the prayer of George Remus that the court compel Prosecutor Charles P. Taft and his assistants "to perform their lawful duties" and to restrain them from "further unlawful and unethical intimidation and coercion of witnesses."

The petition, signed by Remus and filed by Attorney Samuel Potnick, charges that the indictment for perjury of witnesses who had testified in Remus' behalf was for the purpose of intimidating those witnesses. He referred specifically to the indictment of Vernon R. Chumbley, John S. Berger, and Franklin Shaw, the latter a fugitive. Remus also referred to the holding of George Klug under $10,000 bond by the prosecutors.

SCALDS PROVE FATAL.

Scalds sustained Saturday when a water boiler bursted in the basement of his home and he was showered with hot water caused the death of Frank Baker, 45 years old, 1020 Fairfield avenue, yesterday at the County hospital.

EXTENDS LIFE OF REED INQUIRY; SMITH MAY QUIT

Hint He'll Resign Certificate; Seek Re-election.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—By a vote of 57 to 22 the senate today extended the life of the Reed special committee for the investigation of expenditures in the senatorial elections of 1926 in order to permit reference to the committee of the charges against Senators-elect Smith of Illinois and Vare of Pennsylvania.

The committee will meet tomorrow morning and will notify the two senators-elect that it is ready to hear any defense they may desire to submit. Smith is in Illinois and is understood to be consulting his advisers.

Smith Not Determined.

He originally intended to present his case before the committee and to fight for his seat to the bitter end. He also had in view the delivery of a speech in the senate in defense of his acceptance of the campaign contributions of the public utility corporations.

His experience last week when the senate, by an overwhelming vote, denied him the oath is understood to have shaken his resolution somewhat. Some of his closest advisers left Washington convinced that when the case comes before the senate again upon submission of the Reed committee's final report there will not be more than 15 votes in favor of Smith.

May Seek Vote Vindication.

It would occasion no surprise if he should resign his certificate of election eventually, with the announcement that he intends to be a candidate for the senate in a special election next year seeking vindication by the Illinois electorate.

Senator David Reed of Pennsylvania did not attempt to defeat the resolution prolonging the life of the committee, merely declaring it inaccurate in certain particulars. Senator James A. Reed [Dem., Mo.] stated that no investigation of expenditures in the 1928 presidential election is contemplated under the resolution.

STATE POLICE KEEP TIGHT LID ON COAL STRIKE

Even Workers Call Them Fair and Courteous.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—In traveling through the strike districts of the Western Pennsylvania coal fields, one occasionally meets a trooper of the famous state police force. His uniform is smart. His eyes are keen and fearless, seeing and registering. There is always another trooper close by, for they travel in pairs and are likely to bob up anywhere.

Union leaders have complained bitterly about the activities of the state police in this coal strike. Striking miners interviewed by this correspondent had no complaint against the fairness and courtesy of the police. The chief feeling of the miners is against the coal and iron police, a force paid by the coal companies; gunmen kept on the premises as watchmen and guards.

The Pittsburgh Coal company alone has 100 of these guards who, under an old state law, have powers of arrest. Labor men say that there are 8,000 of them in the state, furnished by detective agencies, whose interest it is to foment trouble and keep the strike going.

Only One Serious Riot.

The strike on the whole has been peaceful, due largely to the tactics of the state police. There has been but one serious riot, and in this a trooper was killed and many in the mob were beaten, but no one else was killed. Tear bombs were used by the police. It was admittedly a riotous assembly of strikers holding a Sacco-Vanzetti sympathy meeting. There were about 1,200 men in it. One trooper marched into the hall and ordered the meeting dispersed. The police allow no meetings or large gatherings within half a mile of a mine where a strike is on.

The trooper mounted the platform and told the leader of the meeting, an Italian, to tell the men to go home. When the Italian began to orate some more about the martyrs of his race the trooper tapped him on the shoulder and repeated his order. He was alone in the hall, but had ten men in reserve outside. The men on the platform began to menace him, and he blew his whistle. The reserves came up on horses, and with their bombs and sticks dispersed the mob.

Shoot and Kill Trooper.

It was after this, while one of the troopers was getting license numbers of the cars on which the workers had ridden to the hall, that he was shot and killed. The police are still hunting for the murderer. After this there were no more major disturbances, although many men have been beaten as they were caught on the highway going into the mines. At New Kensington a strikebreaking Negro was beaten and dragged until he died.

Special police of the coal companies have beaten miners. The state police have stepped in and arrested these men, or any one who was making trouble. They have kept the peace. As no strike can be won without violence, so long as other men are willing to work, this strict enforcement undoubtedly has militated against the cause of the strikers. In the sense that they keep the peace they break the strike.

The force is only a little over 300 men, commanded by Maj. Lynn G. Adams, who has been in the service over twenty years. In his office in the state capitol is a large map of the state spread out on a table. It is bristling with red, green, pink, and other buttons, each one showing the disposition of his thin forces. It looks like a war map of 1917 in France, but it only shows that six men are in this county, two men in another, ten in another. They cluster thickly now in the strike district around Pittsburgh. Ninety per cent of his men are in the strike zone.

Each a Host in Himself.

The state police are brought up in the tradition that each policeman is as good as a thousand ordinary men, particularly in an emergency where physical action is required. They go through a heartbreaking school, where 50 per cent of those who pass the first tests are cast aside or quit in disgust. Why learn to ride a horse bareback over a hurdle, sitting with folded arms or back turned to the horse's head?

The three hundred are rare men, like the Northwest Mounted police or the Texas Rangers. One man to a riot, is their motto, and it is not force that they use until the last extremity. The uplifted hands of a state trooper has as much power as a company of militia, at least in the opinion of their own officers, who look for nothing but results. They tell of how five troopers drove back 5,000 steel strikers in 1919. The study of mob psychology is part of the police training. They know that the danger of a mob or crowd can be quickly vitiated by getting hold of the leaders and taming them.

Respect for the uniform of a trooper is carried by the knowledge that they will go through with orders to the last ditch. If they can't outbox they can outwrestle, and if they are on the ground they can win with jiu jitsu.

Cases of Disloyalty Are Rare.

They are not all incorruptible. Prohibition has caught some. The offers of thousands of dollars in bribes to men making $100 a month has proved too strong for some. But cases of such disloyalty have been rare. The men are picked for merit, and there is no political influence in their selection or promotion, according to Maj. Adams.

"The greatest problem that has confronted the state police has been the enforcement of the prohibition law," Maj. Adams said in his last report. "The people who are violating these laws are doing so for financial gain. The money turnover is tremendous, and these criminals employ the best legal talent to fight their battles in court. Pitted against them are the elected county prosecutors.

"These criminals also spend fabulous sums of money in bribing witnesses and officials. Many court officials, judges, and district attorneys are not in favor of prohibition, and this personal attitude reflects itself in their official acts. Where there is a large percentage of the anti-prohibition element in the population it is difficult, even impossible, to prevent them from defeating the law through juries.

"In many courts we have found juries willing to believe the testimony of an alien bootlegger and disbelieve the corroborated testimony of two state policemen whose character and reputation have been beyond reproach since childhood."

The prohibition law, imperfect as its enforcement is, has been one of the factors that has made this strike a fairly peaceful one, in the opinion of the police. From January to November of this year there have been 1,148 arrests for liquor law violations by the state police. The total of their arrests has been 10,212 under headings of arson, assault and battery, automobile laws, fish and game, gambling, health, larceny, murder, robbery, etc.

DAVIS AGAIN BIDS COAL OPERATORS TO PARLEY TODAY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Secretary of Labor Davis today dispatched telegrams to the big coal operators in the Pennsylvania-Ohio soft coal districts urging them to reconsider their refusal to accept his invitation for a conference in Washington tomorrow with the mine union chiefs.

The labor secretary took this action when it was apparent that his attempts to bring about peace in the strike areas by Christmas were doomed to failure unless a larger number of the coal operators would consent to attend the parley. While no statistics were madep ublic at the labor department, it was learned that the majority of the big coal operators had declined to take part in a conference with the union leaders at this time.

J. D. A. Morrow, president of the Pittsburgh Coal company, the largest producer of soft coal in the world, is one of those to whom Davis sent a telegram today.

Public Anxious for Stability.

Secretary Davis bases his pleas for attendance on behalf of the public, the thousands of miners unemployed, and the interests of the industry itself.

"The subject for consideration is far broader than any immediate wage question," said Mr. Davis. "It is for frank and free discussion of all questions at issue.

"The public is now aware of overproduction, overdevelopment, the vast waste of natural resources, and hopes for some move toward permanent stabilization of the industry to guarantee a steady supply of coal with fair profit to the operator and steady employment at fair wages.

"It is a great mistake to assume this conference is called in the interest of labor only.

"Even if the mines be more or less fully manned, as stated, does this guarantee the industry a future free from the same grievances and the same unsettlement and unemployment as now exist?

"The present time seems to me the more appropriate for conference because the existing supply of coal will permit discussion without passion or prejudice."

Ohio Operators Decline.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Ohio coal operators today declined to participate in the conference called at Washington tomorrow by Secretary of Labor Davis.

It was a flat refusal "to meet with representatives of the United Mine Workers of America, with whom we have no contact," except in the case of the Bertha Consumers' company of Pittsburgh, which agreed to attend the meeting but qualified its acceptance with the declaration that it had "nothing to discuss with the miners."

In his telegram to Secretary Davis, S. H. Robbins, president of the Ohio Coal Operators' association, declared that "for more than six months we have endeavored conscientiously to negotiate a wage scale with the miners and they have arbitrarily refused to recognize known economic and competitive conditions."

Ohio miners on Saturday announced they would attend the meeting.

MRS. BEVERIDGE GIVES DE PAUW $25,000 FOR XMAS

Greencastle, Ind., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Mrs. Catherine Eddy Beveridge, the widow of Albert J. Beveridge, formerly United States senator, who died last spring, today gave to De Pauw university a Christmas gift of $25,000. Mrs. Beveridge said in her letter accompanying the gift that it was given as a token of her husband's affection and pride in De Pauw, and that she hoped it might be used to found a fellowship in American history.

Mr. Beveridge was graduated from De Pauw university with the class of 1885.

SPAFFORD DROPS LEGION POLL ON WET-DRY ISSUE

Indianapolis, Ind., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—There will be no national poll of the American Legion on the wet and dry issue, unless ordered by the national executive committee, it was stated tonight by Edward E. Spafford, Legion national state commanders, at the annual conference of the state commanders and adjutants.

Spafford added that he had decided not to bring the matter before the executive committee. His move checkmated a threatened storm over the proposal at the conference.

The plan for a poll was proposed by the national commander in a speech in New York several days ago. It met with disapproval in many quarters on the ground that only the executive committee had power to order such a poll and that it had never taken any action in the matter. Spafford later declared that his proposal was merely intended as a suggestion.

GOVERNOR ARMS GUARD TO AVERT IMPEACHMENT

ployés of the state bank department through the alleged illegal issuance of efficiency certificates is another matter the house investigating committee inquired into.

One house member said the governor's action in calling out the National Guard probably would be made the basis for an impeachment count.

Soldiers Patrol City.

Mobilization of three companies of the National Guard started before daybreak with the issuance of the executive proclamation branding the session as an "insurrection."

Guardsmen patrolling the capitol closely scrutinized early arriving employés and visitors. They were questioned before being admitted.

As the scheduled hour for convening drew near, the guards were removed from the main floor to the fourth, where the legislative chambers are located. The doors of the house and senate chambers were roped off, and guards were stationed at every stair and elevator entrance.

Break Up Gathering.

The legislators were unmolested when they arrived, but were not allowed at first to congregate in groups. Several gatherings were broken up by guardsmen.

After arguing vainly with Adj. Gen. Barrett to have the ban against meeting lifted, Speaker E. P. Hill mounted a bench in the floor rotunda and announced that the meeting would be held "in the streets." The legislators then dispersed, regathered at a downtown hotel and recessed until tomorrow after a short session.

Speaker Hill declared tonight that calling out of the military was "the last effort of the administration to prevent a full, fair and complete investigation." He declared charges of violations of the law and corruption in office already had been voted against two state officers.

GROUP FORMS TO SEEK UNIFORM TRAFFIC SYSTEM

Setting as a goal the standardization of motor codes, traffic control, signs, and signals throughout the metropolitan area, the Greater Chicago Street Traffic commission was organized and formally launched its program at a meeting in the city hall yesterday.

Commissioner of Public Works Richard W. Wolfe was elected permanent chairman of the commission. James Simpson, president of the Chicago Plan commission, was named vice president, and Leslie J. Sorensen, city traffic engineer, was made executive secretary.

The commission, composed of officials of the city, county, Lincoln, west, and south park boards, is an outgrowth of recommendations made in 1926 by Prof. Miller McClintock, following his $50,000 traffic survey for the Association of Commerce. Its formation was made official in an ordinance passed by the council last spring and subsequently approved by the Thompson administration.

At the instance of Prof. McClintock and Mr. Sorensen, the commission voted to create three committees, one composed of traffic engineers from each of the five governmental groups, one of lawyers, and one of traffic police. The first will prepare plans for coördinated signals and signs; the second a single set of traffic laws, and the third uniform enforcement of those laws.

Moran, Pal of Druggan, Dies in Atlanta Prison

John "Terry" Moran, former associate of Terry Druggan, died Saturday in the Atlanta federal penitentiary, according to word received yesterday. Moran was under sentence of twenty-five years for his participation in the $35,000 robbery of two postal employés at South St. Paul. A. C. Aderhold, deputy warden at Atlanta, said prison physicians attributed the death to cerebral thrombosis. Aderhold said lacerations about Moran's head were probably due to a fall on the cement floor of the prison dining hall.

HERO'S WELCOME WAITS PILSUDSKI IN POLAND TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, Dec. 12.—Warsaw is preparing a gigantic reception, worthy of a triumphal gladiator of ancient Rome, for its dictator, Marshal Josef Pilsudski, who will return tomorrow, after reaching peaceful terms with Lithuania under pressure from the league of nations at Geneva.

Delegations from all the Polish regiments, the entire Warsaw garrison, patriotic associations, cabinet ministers and the city fathers will be lined up at the railway station and along the streets to Belvedere palace, while children will present him with flowers and sing special hymns of praise.

The triumphal procession forecasts political peace in Poland, even during the elections scheduled for March, when the dictator's friends are preparing to sweep the country. Now the marshal has two feathers in his cap to swing the vote in his favor. The first is the huge American loan. The second is the Lithuanian-Polish peace agreement.

LAWYER, GETTING DIVORCE, NAMES HIS OWN CHUM

H. C. Levinson Has Wife's Letters as Proof.

Attorney Harry C. Levinson will be awarded a divorce on the grounds that his best friend for a quarter of a century, Dr. Harry G. Hart, retired merchant, was intimate with Mrs. Fannie C. Levinson, of the Flamingo hotel. Superior Judge John J. Sullivan yesterday indicated he will sign the decree.

Attorney Levinson, weeping, described a "very strong bond" that had existed between him and Dr. Hart since 1900. Testifying further, he told that last year he accidentally discovered that his friend had been keeping clandestine appointments with Mrs. Levinson since 1914.

Says Secret Made Her Ill.

Mrs. Levinson suffered a nervous breakdown under the strain of keeping the affair secret, according to her husband, and this led to his discovery.

"In September of last year she had a highly nervous siege that we could not understand," Attorney Levinson related. "She was hysterical, threatening to take her own life.

"I sent her to the Michael Reese hospital. Under doctor's orders, I was not permitted to see her. She was to remain quiet, absolutely alone. I kept in constant touch with her nurses.

"On Sept. 21 the nurse told me Mrs. Levinson had written some letters and asked me what to do with them. I told the nurse to mail them. She evidently misunderstood me because the letters were sent to me. They were addressed to Dr. Hart. Because it was just like a letter from one relative to another I opened the letters and read."

Quotes from Letters.

The letters contained these phrases, according to the data filed by Levinson:

"What chance have I? I wish I never would have known you. Easy for you now. I have all the grief and trouble, poor Harry the expense. . . ." you alone have broken my heart. Fool that I was."

"My dear Henry: Do hope you are good to Harry as he must be quite lonely. If anything happens to me, he is not at all to blame. You and you alone have broken my heart.

Puts Blame on Hart.

"God only knows you have gotten me very much in love with you and that is my trouble and I cannot throw it off."

"Playing around for thirteen years is hard to give up."

"My conscience bothers me awfully. I cry and cry and look at the four walls. Doctors cannot help me and you know it."

Attorney Levinson said he did not talk to his wife about his discovery until almost a year later, when she left the hospital. On a trip for her health, he was taking her to Asheville, N. C.; on the train she confessed her secret, Levinson testified.

The decree, as presented for Judge Sullivan's signature, specifies that Attorney Levinson voluntarily is establishing a trust fund for the support of Mrs. Levinson as long as she lives or until she remarries. The Levinsons and Harts were neighbors first in Hyde Park, then in Glencoe.

BATTLE FOR GIRL CARRIED INTO HER LIFE OF FUTURE

Modest Home Here or Wealth Offered.

The future years facing Helen Angeline Baumgarten, 9 years old, were painted in two distinct pictures before Judge I. L. Weaver in the county court yesterday.

With one ruling from the court, she will remain in the modest home of Louis Krueger of Evanston, a $55 a week salesman with whom she has lived since the death of her mother nearly nine years ago.

With the other possible ruling, she will leave America, the place of her birth, to go to Germany with her father, Herman Baumgarten, prosperous engineer and real estate man, whom she had never seen until a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Krueger, Helen's foster mother, on the witness stand during the afternoon firmly asserted her belief that the girl will be happier in future years if she remains in Evanston.

"Don't you think her natural father would be better able to support her and educate her?" cross-examined Attorney Seymour N. Cohen, counsel for Baumgarten, who located his child after a nine years' search following his estrangement from his wife.

"Money doesn't make happiness," Mrs. Krueger answered.

"Don't you think that she would be happier with her own blood than with you?"

"No, because she never knew her father."

Refuses to Commit Self.

"Would you let her go to Germany with her father if you thought it best for her health?"

Mrs. Krueger considered for several moments and then said she couldn't answer.

"Whose interests do you think should influence the court, yours or the child's?" he asked.

The woman, a mother of two children of her own, again said "I can't answer."

Questioned further, she admitted that she had had her attorney appeal to the United States immigration officials in an attempt to prevent Mr. Baumgarten from entering the country.

13 Hurt as Liner Celtic Fights Gale in Atlantic

POLICE BULLETS FATAL TO YOUTH.

Wounded twice by police bullets Sunday as he fled from the pursuing squad of Sergt. Frank Reynolds, Millen Harness, 19, colored, of 4857 Federal street, died yesterday in the Bridewell hospital. He confessed to four robberies after his capture, police said.

15 NICARAGUANS KILLED IN ACTION BY U. S. MARINES

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Dec. 12.—(AP)—American marines and Nicaraguan national guardsmen have killed fifteen outlaws in four skirmishes in the last few days, Col. Mason Gulick, commander of the marines in Nicaragua, said today. There were no casualties among the marines and guardsmen.

A joint patrol of marines and guardsmen surprised and attacked a band at El Potrero Saturday, killing five and wounding several. Later a patrol encountered a band at Macuelizo and killed three and wounded three. The same patrol yesterday engaged another band near Santa Rosa, killing two and wounding three.

A patrol from Telpaneca attacked a camp of fifty outlaws headed by Gen. Lopez yesterday. Five insurrectionists were killed, three mortally wounded, and an unknown number injured.

NOW THEY HEAR ALKY LURKS AS SALESGIRLS GRIN

Federal grand jury action, it was learned yesterday, will be sought at once by prohibition officials to determine the legal status of Chicago shopkeepers who have been offering alcoholic extracts to customers with receipts to customers for mixing their own Christmas cheer.

Pretty sales girls are reported to have offered the extracts for sale with the advice: "Mix this with cider and you'll have something nice to offer your friends during the holidays." With the extracts available at prices less than a bootlegger's retail list, shops selling them were favored with a rush of trade.

Complaints state that the product is a wine extract containing a high percentage of alcohol. Prohibition officials said that prosecutions contemplated might charge the offering for sale under an illegal guise a product that is legal in manufacture.

SENATE INQUIRY IGNORES VIEW OF MEXICAN ENVOY

Proceed with Quiz Into Hearst Expose.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Disregarding the view of the Mexican ambassador that the United States senate is powerless to summon officers of his government before its committee, the special committee named to inquire into charges published in Hearst papers that a fund of $1,200,000 was created by Mexico to influence four United States senators went ahead today with plans for a thorough investigation.

Already a subpoena has been issued by the committee for Arthur M. Elias, Mexican consul general at New York. The committee expects him to testify, although the Mexican embassy has announced that no right exists to call Elias.

The state department again declined today to discuss the international complications that might be involved in the attempt of the senate committee to subpoena Elias.

Examination of international law precedents appears to make it clear, however, that a consular officer cannot be required to produce in the courts of the country to which he is assigned any of the books or records of his office or to answer any question involving the affairs of his own government.

NO MEXICAN PROTEST.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—(AP)—The Mexican government has no objection to the Mexican consul general, Arthuro M. Elias, giving the senate committee in Washington such information as he personally voluntarily pleases, Acting Minister Estrada announced in an official statement today. But, he added, the only Mexican official in the United States who is authorized to receive requests for official information is the Mexican ambassador.

WITNESSES AID INSANITY PLEA AT CO-ED'S TRIAL

La Grange, Tex., Dec. 12.—(AP)—"Strange" actions of Rebecca Bradley Rogers as a child at home, as a student at Texas university, and as a secret bride of a fellow student, Otis Rogers, were related in Mrs. Rogers' bank robbery trial here today by her mother, her husband, and former university associates, testifying as defense witnesses.

Rogers, member of the defense counsel, and Campbell Beard, university political science instructor, said they believed her insane. Both testified that Mrs. Rogers was cold, morose and seemingly depressed at times and yet vivacious and happy at other times, changing quickly from one mood to another.

Mrs. G. E. Bradley told how her daughter developed intense interests and dropped them as suddenly as she had conceived them.

Dr. Wilmer Allison of Fort Worth and Dr. Livingston Anderson of Austin, alienists, testified late today they believed Mrs. Rogers was insane.

DENEEN IS RATED HIGH ON SENATE COMMITTEE LIST

Finance, Judiciary and Other Posts.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Senator Charles S. Deneen [Rep., Ill.] fared well in the allotment of committee assignments as submitted to the senate today by the Republican committee on committees. Senator Deneen not only was slated for chairman of the committee on the audit and control of contingent expenses of the senate, but was placed on the powerful finance committee.

The Illinois senator retains his place on the judiciary committee, where he now is next in line for the chairmanship in the event of the retirement of Senator Norris [Rep., Neb.]. He is no longer a member of the committee on agriculture but retains places on the elections and claims committee and also has been put on the committee on manufactures.

Republicans in Control.

Both majority and minority committee assignments were submitted to the senate but action upon them was deferred until tomorrow. Control of the organization of the senate by the Republicans is a certainty, demands of the radicals for choice committee assignments having been satisfied.

New chairmen of committees will include Senator David Reed [Rep., Pa.], military affairs; Shortridge [Rep., Cal.], elections; McLean [Rep., Conn.], manufactures; Keyes [Rep., N. H.], public buildings; Robinson [Rep., Ind.], pensions; Norbeck [Rep., S. D.], banking and currency; Nye [Rep., N. D.], public lands; Frazer [N. D.], Indian affair; and Howell [Rep., Neb.], claims.

Couzens on Finance Committee.

Senators Nye, Frazer, and Howell are identified with the radical group. Senator La Follette [Rep., Wis.] failed to get a chairmanship, but was placed on the committees on commerce, postoffices and Indian affairs.

Other Republicans besides Senator Deneen who were added to the finance committee included Senator Couzens [Rep., Mich.], who has been at odds with the financial program of the treasury, and Senators Fess [Rep., O.] and Greene [Rep., Vt.].

BUTLER DOES NOT CHOOSE TO RUN FOR SENATE IN '28

Boston, Mass., Dec. 12.—(AP)—William M. Butler, former senator, now chairman of the Republican national committee, announced today that he would not be a candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator next year. In a letter to Robert M. Washburn, president of the Roosevelt club, in response to an inquiry as to whether he would run, Mr. Butler said:

"I shall not be a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination in 1928. My keen interest, however, continues that this seat shall be made Republican."

The senatorial election in Massachusetts in 1928 will be the first for the full term to succeed the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

EIGHT JUDGES BOLT CAUCUS; 13 EMPLOYES FIRED

Eight Democratic Municipal judges yesterday bolted a meeting of the jurists, charging that the Republican judges had held a private caucus and oiled the machinery for getting control of the probation department of the Municipal courts.

The Republican judges remained at the meeting, held in the chambers of Chief Justice Harry Olsen, and by vote ousted thirteen probation officers, many of them veterans in this service.

The charge that the election was a sham, since decisions had been made at a Republican caucus, was voiced by Judge John J. Rooney. He was followed from the chambers by Judges Peter H. Schwaba, Joseph Burke, Francis Allegretti, Francis Borrelli, Philip J. Finnegan, Matthew D. Hartigan, and Frank M. Padden.

Probation officers who failed to be reelected were: John Burk, Margaret Clagsens, John C. Fleming, Blanche Gilmer, Julia Gleason, Alma Hufmeyer, John T. Kelley, Louis Levy, E. R. Novak, Louis Ory, S. J. Peterson, John P. Ready, and J. A. W. Rees.

The new ones thus far named are: Charles Agnew, Myrtle Danielson, Marguette Franke, Lillian Kensch, Anna Melin, Abe Nisberg, J. M. Parker, Frank Thompson, John Uberlein, A. C. Westergaard, and Paul Young.

On Christmas Morning

SOMEBODY sees it through the window—a spirited discussion arises as to who is coming, and why they choose the breakfast hour as the time to call—cries of "What a lovely new car!" from some of the feminine members of the family—a great rushing to the door to answer the ring of the stranger who has driven up.

No one thinks of looking to Dad for the solution to the mystery. He is not in the crowd gathered at the door. Not he! Old fox that he is, he has stayed behind—chuckling to himself.

He knows what the gleaming new car is doing there in front of the home. He knows why its driver is at the door. But this will not be private knowledge much longer.

Any minute, happy laughter and much talking at once will tell him that his secret is out, and that his family knows he has given them—a Cadillac for Christmas.

$24,000,000 TAX SLICE FOR SMALL CORPORATIONS

Further Whack at Administration Program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—A $24,000,000 extra tax cut for small corporations was added to the ways and means committee revenue bill today in the house.

Democratic votes were instrumental in forcing the adoption in committee of the whole of an amendment by Representative Garner [Dem., Tex.], ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, providing for graduated rates on corporations with net earnings not in excess of $15,000 after allowing for a $3,000 exemption.

The vote by tellers was 136 to 132. The Republican leaders served notice that a roll call would be demanded when the bill passes from the committee of the whole to the house proper. The Republicans are certain that a roll call will result in defeat of the bill.

$31,000,000 Over Limit.

With the graduated rates for small corporations estimated to reduce revenue by $24,000,000, the total tax cut under the bill is increased to $256,000,000, which is $31,000,000 in excess of the limit fixed by the administration.

The Garner amendment provided that if the amount of net income of corporations in excess of the $3,000 exemption is not more than $15,000 the following rates shall apply instead of the 11½ per cent rate fixed in the bill: Five per cent if such amount is not more than $7,000; 7 per cent if such amount is more than $7,000 and not more than $12,000; and 9 per cent if such amount is more than $12,000 and not more than $15,000.

Representative Green [Rep., Ia.], chairman of the ways and means committee, and Representative Chindblom [Rep., Ill.], a member of the committee, opposed the adoption of the Garner amendment on the ground that it was an ill considered proposal. They said that additional relief had been given small corporations by increasing the exemption from $2,000 to $3,000.

Lets Corporation Rate Stand.

Apparently content with his victory over the Republicans, Representative Garner did not offer his proposed amendment for a reduction in the corporation tax rate below 11½ per cent. The section reducing the present rate from 13½ per cent to 11½ per cent was approved. Representative Garner also failed to offer an amendment to make the corporation tax cut effective on earnings of 1928 and the section making the reduction apply retroactively to earnings of 1927 was approved.

An amendment by Representative Jacobstein [Dem., N. Y.], for an automatic further cut in the corporation tax rate of one-half per cent for each $50,000,000 of surplus above $50,000,000 failed to receive support either from Republicans or Democrats and was rejected.

Individual Tax Rates Retained.

Sections of the bill retaining normal and surtax rates on individual incomes and personal exemptions of the present law were approved. No effort was made to reduce individual normal tax rates. Representative La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] failed to obtain adoption of an amendment providing a 30 per cent surtax rate on income in excess of $1,500,000.

Proposals for increased personal exemptions were rejected. Representative Hudspeth [Dem., Tex.] offered an amendment to increase the exemption for single persons from $1,500 to $2,000 and for heads of families from $3,500 to $5,000. Mrs. Norton [Dem., N. J.] proposed an amendment boosting the exemption for single persons to $3,000. In a speech in behalf of the amendment, Mrs. Norton took exception to President Coolidge's statement in his annual message that the country is prosperous.

Sick Exemption Defeated.

An amendment by Representative McSwan [Dem., S. C.] to allow a deduction of not to exceed $1,000 for expenses incurred by sickness in a family was rejected by a vote of 35 to 84.

The provision of the present law relating to secrecy of tax returns was approved without any attempt being made to revive publicity of amounts paid by tax payers which was in the 1924 law and repealed in 1926.

WILL OF L. J. BLOCK PROVIDES $4,000 FOR H. S. SCHOLARSHIPS

The will of Louis J. Block, author and educator, provides a perpetuation of his life's work. The final testament of the former John Marshall High school principal, who was killed by an automobile last week, was filed yesterday before Assistant Probate Judge Edward S. Scheffler.

The estate of the 76 year old scholar was officially estimated at $15,000.

A perpetual trust fund of $4,000 is established by the will to be used as a scholarship for the outstanding pupil of each graduating class of the John Marshall High school, of which Mr. Block was the head for thirty-one years.

The balance of the estate is to be used, under the terms of the will, for republishing Mr. Block's books, principally drama and verse. He was a bachelor and no near relative survived him.

SWEARS CLARK GOT REPORTS ON SINCLAIR JURY

Burns Detective Calls Chicagoan "Insider."

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Government contentions that Sheldon Clark, Chicago capitalist and defendant in the Sinclair-Clark contempt hearing, was an "insider" in the alleged Teapot Dome jury tampering plot were corroborated today by the testimony of Charles G. Ruddy, chief of the Burns detectives, whose activities caused a mistrial of the Teapot Dome case.

Amplifying his statements last week, Ruddy, still a most reluctant witness for the government, declared that Clark not only received written reports of progress from the jury shadowers on several occasions, but on several occasions he participated in conferences with H. Mason Day, another Sinclair subsidiary official, and Ruddy when the jury shadowing was discussed.

Causes Lively Squabble.

District Attorney Gordon precipitated a lively squabble when he asked Ruddy to say if he ever had asked Clark during one of the conferences if the latter was satisfied with the work of the Burns detectives. Ruddy denied having asked the question. Mr. Gordon sought to offer earlier statements made by the detective in the district attorney's office and before the grand jury.

Half a dozen defense lawyers were on their feet in an instant to object to the procedure revealing grand jury hearings, and Justice Frederick Siddons, asserting "the court intends to commit no error even if it takes a little longer," reserved his ruling on the admissibility of the grand jury testimony until tomorrow morning.

Not to Approach Juror.

Cross-examined by Attorney Charles A. Douglas, chief of counsel for William J. Burns, head of the Burns detective agency and the latter's son, W. Sherman Burns, Ruddy declared that the older Burns had no connection with the Teapot jury assignment and that the son had issued explicit instructions against any activity which might be construed as attempts to influence or intimidate jurors.

"Sherman Burns told me," declared Ruddy, "that under no circumstances was an operative to approach a juror nor speak to a juror nor in any way allow a juror to realize he was being shadowed."

KING GETS FIRST SIGHT OF WOMAN FLYER, STEAMER

KARACHI, India, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Aman Oullah Khan, king of Afghanistan, today had his first sight of a woman aviator and a modern steamship.

The king visited an aircraft depot, where Mrs. Keith Miller and Capt. W. T. Lancaster, who are on their way to Australia by air, took part in the manoeuvers.

Never having left his country before, the king got a second surprise when he boarded the liner Manela for Europe, this being the first steamship he had ever seen.

Denied Temporary Alimony, Withdraws Separation Suit

Mrs. Irma Winters of the Davis hotel, yesterday withdrew her separate maintenance suit after Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch denied her petition for temporary alimony from her estranged husband, Lawrence M. Winters, mortgage broker and son of Andrew L. Winters, Chicago attorney. Mrs. Winters testified her husband ordered her out of their home last October, but on cross-examination she admitted her husband's ire was aroused by her arriving home early in the morning from a party he did not at-

800 LAUD JUDAH AS CITIZEN AND ENVOY TO CUBA

Col. Noble Brandon Judah's associates at the bar, judges, war time comrades, high school, university, and law school mates, altogether about 800 of the friends he has made during his lifetime residence in Chicago, gathered yesterday at the Palmer house to wish him well on the eve of his departure to take his post as ambassador to Cuba.

The speakers dwelt on Col. Judah's war record and praised his post war efforts to create sympathy for a policy of adequate national defense.

Praised by Gen. Davis.

"Col. Judah," declared Brig. Gen. Abel Davis, the toastmaster, "has worked with the government since the conclusion of the war so that this country may be prepared for future developments. In the American Legion he has worked for the organization of ex-service men to insure that the comradeship made on the battlefields shall be continued in the service of the country. As citizen's aid to the war department for the citizens' training camps Col. Judah's services have been invaluable.

"Col. Judah is recognized for his valuable work in helping to effect fulfillment of the government's national defense program."

In replying to the praise of his colleagues for his work in promoting preparedness, Col. Judah said: "I have always been an advocate of peace, but I believe in peace with preparedness."

Edward Litsinger, chairman of the board of review, presented Col. Judah with a flag and Charles Pike, president of the Military Training Camp association, tendered the ambassador a desk set.

Others Pay Tribute.

Col. Judah was praised for his "foot-on-the-ground, solid judgment" by Howard P. Savage, past national commander of the American Legion, and Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson assured the guest of honor that he had only to maintain the high standards he has set at the bar to succeed as a diplomat.

Julius Rosenwald, Julio Garrido, the Cuban consul here; County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki, and Roy O. West paid tribute to the new envoy.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

CORONER WOLFF DISCHARGES 3D STAFF PHYSICIAN

Coroner Oscar Wolff yesterday discharged Dr. A. Chester Green, the third physician to be dropped from the coroner's pay roll in three days. The others were Drs. Joseph Springer and Jacob Goodman. All were fired for the good of the service, according to Coroner Wolff.

At the same time the coroner announced the appointment of Dr. E. Thomas Brand and said other appointments to fill the vacancies will be made promptly. Dr. Springer was retained by Chief Michael Hughes as homicide expert for the police department and Dr. S. S. Epstein was named to take Dr. Springer's place as homicide expert for the coroner's office.

TRIAL MARRIAGE MONKEY MORALS, PASTOR RETORTS

Says Its Return to Manners of the Barnyard.

BY STANLEY JACKSON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 12.—Judge Ben Lindsey of Denver locked horns with the church here today in a verbal duel on the subject of companionate marriage. The cause of his attack was the following opinion, expressed in a sermon last evening by the Rev. Dr. George Laughton, minister of St. James United church, one of the largest Protestant churches in Montreal:

"The companionate marriage is a return to barnyard manners and barnyard morals. It is an outrage on evolution. Those who advocate it believe that, though they have come from the monkey, they should go back to the monkey.

"A Progressive Harem."

"Of all the dark and dubious and dangerous substitutes for true marriage, the trial or companionate marriage is the darkest, the most dubious and the most dangerous. It simply means that when two young people don't want to assume the marriage obligations they shall live together without the marriage vow. It is merely a progressive rather than simultaneous harem."

"I challenge that minister of the gospel to deny that he is performing companionate marriages," Judge Lindsey retorted. "Birth control is practiced by 90 per cent of the intelligent people to limit their families, and where you have birth control you have companionate marriage.

Denounces Church Deceit.

"Companionate marriage is an attempt to put honesty into marriage and to stabilize it. Divorce by mutual consent is practiced everywhere, especially in the churches, and I mean in all the churches, because divorce is the substance of the thing and not the form. All churches permit a married couple to separate if they can't get along together, but they hypocritically deny them the right to make a public and legal acknowledgment of the fact.

"I am against that sham, dishonesty and hypocrisy. It belongs to the sixteenth century and you can't ram it down the throat of the twentieth century. I charge the churches with contributing to the breakup of homes, immorality and crime, instead of preventing it, as they might do if they took a sane and sensible attitude on the questions of domestic relations in keeping with these modern times."

300 MILE RING OF STEEL CLOSES ON FOES OF CALLES

Drive Begun to Clean Up Jalisco.

BY JOHN CORNYN.

[Copyright: 1927: By The Chicago Tribune.]

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—The drive on the revolutionists in the state of Jalisco and the surrounding territory has begun. A circle of steel, the diameter of which is 300 miles, the war department announced this morning, will close in on the enemy, who will be fought constantly.

Led by cavalry, troops are advancing from four directions and on all the fronts battles have been fought in the last three days in which the revolutionists either were badly beaten or forced to retreat into the hills. Squads of airplanes with the best aviators of the Mexican army, who have had many months of experience in the campaigns against the Yaqui, in Jalisco and Vera Cruz, are spying out every enemy movement.

Keep on Rebels' Heels.

The revolutionists are forced to fight under conditions heretofore unknown in Mexico. During past campaigns a retreat into the hills was tantamount with retreating to safety. The present war plans contemplate following revolutionists so fast as to demoralize them, as was done two months ago in the campaign against Gen. Arnulfo Gomez and his allied forces. The war department predicts the collapse of the whole movement in Jalisco and the adjoining states in less than a month.

In addition to the 10,000 federal troops stationed in the state of Jalisco, the military commanders of the adjoining states are massing along the extended front. Claude Fox, son of a Texan, is advancing from Guerrero; Genoveva de Lao of revolutionary fame is driving on from the state of Aguas Calientes, while Avila Camacho is guarding the boundary between Zacatecas and Jalisco.

Find Priest Among Dead.

In this old revolutionary arena, where the present Catholic revolt began more than a year ago, the enemy forces, after fighting six hours, were dispersed into the hills, leaving on the battlefield sixty-two dead and numerous prisoners, who were promptly executed. Four other battles with rebels since Friday have been reported by Gen. Fox.

Among the dead was the famous priest, the Rev. Jose Cabrales, said to have been a member of the band which held up the Guadalajara train at Ocotlan more than a year ago, killing the military train guard and more than eighty passengers.

M'ELWEE ESTATE IS $3,483,078; TAX $342,858

Robert H. McElwee, lumber dealer, who died last June at the Lake Forest home, left an estate with a fair market value of $3,483,078, according to an appraisement approved yesterday by County Judge Perry L. Persons at Waukegan, Ill. An inheritance tax of $342,858 was fixed, one of the largest ever assessed in Lake county.

Mr. McElwee left his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth S. McElwee, a bequest of $1,449,828. Other beneficiaries included: Mrs. Nannie Waller Patterson of Medford, Ore., a niece, $490,949; Virginia Bartholomew of Palestine, Tex., a sister, $490,949; Mrs. Flora Miller of Lexington, Va., another sister, $305,506, and William McElwee, a brother, also of Lexington, $81,303.

Charity bequests were: $56,250, to the Home for Destitute Crippled Children of Chicago, $71,848.13 to the Chicago Nursery and Half Orphans, and $5,000 each to the Glenwood Manual Training school and the Allendale association.

DEMONSTRATION FIRE WITH FILM SINGES MARSHAL

Officials of the Chicago fire department, pleased with the success of their recent bonfire exhibition on Wacker drive, repeated the performance on the lake front yesterday.

The fuel was 60,000 feet of movie film, seized because it was improperly stored. The bonfire was to demonstrate the film's combustibility. It did.

"I will now show just how inflammable this stuff is," announced Division Marshal John Touhy of the fire prevention bureau as he tossed a match into the large pile of snaky celluloid coils before him. There was a tiny sizzle, then a huge burst of flame. Marshal Touhy jumped back, but not before his eyebrows were singed.

TROOPS SCORNED PLEA OF YANK IN RIOT, ENVOY TOLD

Victim of Roumanians Is Critically Ill.

BY LARRY RUE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Dec. 12.—Wilfred N. Keller, American army veteran and Y. M. C. A. worker, who was beaten by Roumanian students at Grosswardein [Oradea Mare] during the rioting there, is critically ill from loss of blood. He was born at Lindenhall, Pa. His father was an American citizen.

An eyewitness account of how the Roumanian university men, aided by police and army officers, beat, stabbed and clubbed the American was received today by the American minister, William S. Culbertson.

Mr. Keller, at 4 o'clock last Thursday afternoon, accompanied his wife, who is a native of the town, to the home of her family, opposite the theater where the students were congregating. When he returned alone students surrounded him. He declared himself to be an American citizen. The students shouted that that did not matter and he must go to the police station.

Taken by force, Mr. Keller passed a Roumanian officer leading some soldiers, who saw the students clubbing him and who refused to intervene. He passed three other military patrols and pleaded for aid from all. They, too, refused to help him.

When in the public square his oppressors took to a side street. Mr. Keller protested and was told it was a short cut. He then was dragged to the theater, where twenty-five Roumanians clubbed him. They also hit him with stones and knives and wounded him about the head and body. He tried to run, but was knocked senseless.

When he regained consciousness, in a pool of blood, the students had gone, but the military guard which had witnessed the attack still was there, shouldering arms. The soldiers refused to help him to get up, and ordered civilians away when they tried to help him.

Deep Cuts in Head.

After some hours Mr. Keller dragged himself to his home, about ten blocks away, leaving a trail of blood. The doctors found two deep cuts in his head, a deep wound in his face and a number of bruises. There were no internal injuries, but his condition is dangerous on account of the loss of blood.

The eye witnesses added that the police and Roumanian military officers protected the students while they were smashing synagogues, destroying Bible scrools and desecrating sacred objects.

Business at Grosswardein as well as Klausenburg has been paralyzed as a result of the devastation. Most of the banks have been forced to close and practically all the merchants, unable to meet their obligations, are asking a moratorium.

The students continue defiant and today threatened a general strike unless 400 under arrest for the rioting are released.

Roumania Offers Apology.

Foreign Minister Titulescu apologized to the American minister today, but in doing so attempted to prove Mr. Keller provoked the attack. A special investigator for the government, he said, reported that Mr. Keller owned stock in a newspaper in Grosswardein which attacked the government and students. When the printing press was destroyed Mr. Keller demanded permission from the police to address the students personally. This was refused, but he did so and boasted that they did not dare touch him. He also is said to have threatened the students with the American fleet.

HOUSE OF LORDS OPENS BATTLE ON NEW PRAYERBOOK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The climax of many months of vigorous controversy as to whether or not the Church of England shall be permitted to have the new prayer book was reached tonight when the battle was opened on the floor of the house of lords. Not since the constitutional struggle of 1911 were such animated scenes witnessed in the stately chamber. Long queues waited for hours to be admitted to the visitors' and public galleries. The galleries were packed with peeresses. The noble lords thronged the benches below, while the lords spiritual—twenty-five prelates, creating a snowy sea of lawn—sat solemnly behind their head the aged Archbishop of Canterbury. The debate goes on until Wednesday, when the lords will pronounce themselves "content" or "not content" and the measure will be presented for the king's assent.

U. S. GUNS GUARD YANKS AS REDS SEIZE CANTON

City Is Shelled as Loyal Troops Attack.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Copyright: 1927: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHANGHAI, Dec. 12.—The American gunboats Sacramento, Pampanga, and Asheville were rushed to Canton today to afford protection for forty American residents there in event the communist-labor-peasant uprising assumes an anti-foreign character. Reports indicate the city was seized by 1,000 communist troops. The Red army, which effected the coup d'etat early Sunday morning, ousted the Cantonese general, Chang Fak-wei.

Reports from Japanese sources in Canton tonight say Cantonese loyal troops under Gen. Li Fu-lin have begun to stage a comeback. Chinese naval vessels stationed in Canton harbor remained loyal and bombarded Canton bund, enabling Gen. Li Fu-lin's troops to gain a foothold. Furious fighting is raging in the streets of the city, with the advantage on the side of the government troops. There are numerous fires throughout the city. The Japanese Hakuai hospital was burned. Japanese bluejackets rescued the patients.

British on Guard in Shanghai.

Communist control of Canton, which is the largest and richest Chinese city, is causing apprehension here. Labor agitators have been threatening a strike in Shanghai for several days. The British and Japanese defense forces today established an armed patrol in the factory districts.

The Americans are not yet taking action, but Admiral Mark L. Bristol will inspect the fourth regiment of marines tomorrow morning. This leads to the belief that the American forces may also resume patrol duty similar to last spring, when the situation was threatening.

According to police reports, approximately 40,000 factory hands are idle in Shanghai at the present time, with a complete tieup of street car service, cigaret factories, and some cotton mills. The Evening News, a local Chinese daily, predicts a general strike paralyzing the Shanghai industries and public services this week in order to show sympathy for the Canton labor-peasant rebellion.

Charge Russians Aid Reds.

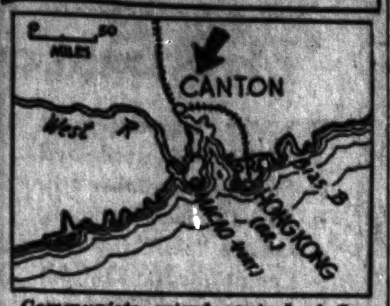
The Kuomintang leaders in Shanghai, including Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, charge the Canton uprising was due to the intrigue of Russians connected with the third Internationale. Russians here deny this, but reports from foreign sources in Canton allege that Russians are assisting the laborers and peasants in establishing a workers' municipal government.

The communist coup d'etat was effected between midnight and daylight on Sunday, when armed laborers seized the government offices, telegraph and railroad offices, Kuomintang headquarters, and the government central bank.

The coup d'etat was made possible by the absence of the Cantonese army in the West River district, where fighting is progressing between Cantonese and Kwangsi troops.

The peasants seized seven large towns east of Canton last week, causing Gen. Chang Fak-wei to rush troops to that area.

IN REDS' HANDS



Communists seized control of Canton, China, Sunday. The revolt was marked by much looting, burning of business places, and many deaths, according to Hongkong reports. A counter attack is reported to have been launched against the Reds yesterday. The city was bombarded.

U. S. Labor Delegates End Study of Russian Conditions

[Copyright: 1927: By The New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Dec. 12.—The American "rank and file labor delegation" left Moscow today for home. The twenty-four delegates, who are highly sympathetic to the soviet union, expressed satisfaction at conditions here. Divided in small groups, they traveled through the country studying the workers' life and industry. On their return to America they propose to found a committee to work for a Russ-American rapprochement.

Gales on Atlantic.

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Two overdue trans-Atlantic liners—the Red Star liner Belgenland and the French liner Roussillon—reached port today after battling terrific gales. The steamship Albert Ballin in a wireless to the Associated Press said that although it was a full day behind schedule it was weathering the storm without discomfort to its passengers.

The Belgenland, with its ship's bell and several ventilators missing, reached port 24 hours late, and the Roussillon arrived two days behind schedule.

DAKOTAN QUITS SHIPPING BOARD; LOAN A FACTOR

Hill Resigns; Succeeded by Kansas Man.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—W. S. Hill, of South Dakota, resigned today as a member of the shipping board a few hours after President Coolidge had sent to the senate the nomination of Albert H. Denton, of Kansas, as his successor.

In announcing that he was through, effective today, Mr. Hill said that a loan made to him by "a man indirectly connected with shipping interests" had been "brought up as a blot on my record." He disclosed also that the department of justice had been investigating the transaction.

Department of justice officials declined to comment on the situation, and it was not until he had found that he was to be replaced on the shipping board that Hill, whose home is in Mitchell, made any statement.

"I obtained the loan as an individual from an individual and never dreamed that it would be brought up as a blot on my record," Hill said. "It is true that I obtained the money from a man indirectly connected with shipping interests, but it never occurred to me that it was anything but a personal matter or that any one would think otherwise."

The money, Hill said, had been obtained to keep a small bank near Mitchell, S. D., from becoming insolvent.

Until today it appeared that the reason Hill was in disfavor was that he had differed with the administration on ship sales policies.

Other members of the shipping board expressed themselves as believing Hill "a victim of unfortunate circumstances."

Like Mr. Hill, Denton is a Republican and a banker. His home is in Arkansas City. He was endorsed by Senators Curtis and Capper of Kansas.

HARRY D. HILL'S ATTORNEYS ASK CHANGE OF VENUE

Harry D. Hill, 22 year old resident of Streator, who is charged with the murder of his mother, and his attorneys appeared in the Circuit court at Ottawa, Ill., yesterday and requested that he be given a change of venue for his trial, which is set for Dec. 27.

Two affidavits, signed by Streator business men and stating that Judge Edgar Eldredge was prejudiced to such an extent that Hill could not obtain a fair trial before him, were presented by Attorney A. H. Shay. Judge Frank Hayes, who heard the motion, took it under advisement. Mr. Shay said his client would not seek a continuance.

Mrs. Eliza A. Hill, mother of Harry, was killed in August. Her body was found buried in her home at Streator. Young Hill, who has denied the killing, was arrested two weeks later at Seattle, Wash.

CHARGES ACTOR GOT DECREE, NEW WIFE IN SECRET

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Allegations that Frederic March, actor, had obtained a Mexican divorce and remarried without serving papers on her were made today by Ellis Baker March, known on the stage as Ellis Baker.

Miss Baker was testifying in her divorce suit against her actor husband, who is on tour in Theater guild répertoire. They were married in Milwaukee, Wis., May 3, 1925.

Samuel J. Green of West Port, Conn., said he had invited March and his wife to his home. But when they came he was introduced to a Mrs. March who was not the one he had known. Green added that the actor explained he had obtained a Mexican divorce and married his second wife in Denver.

PICK FOUR JURORS FOR LAKE COUNTY EMBEZZLE TRIAL

Four jurymen were selected at Waukegan yesterday for the trial of five men, including two former treasurers of Lake county, who are charged with a conspiracy to embezzle $100,000 of the county funds.

The ex-treasurers are Roy W. Bracher and Ira E. Pearsall. The remaining defendants are Harold E. Martin, who was a vice president of the now defunct Security Savings bank of Waukegan; Caleb A. Busick, an official of the Barrington Oil company, and Clark C. Nye, former cashier of the First National bank of Eureka, Kas.

Bracher resigned as treasurer last summer after State's Attorney A. V. Smith had instituted quo warranto proceedings. Later friends of Bracher raised $100,000 for him and the sum was turned back into the treasury. The five are alleged to have manipulated the county funds in such a manner that interest was paid personally to the officials instead of into the public funds. Martin is also alleged to have altered the records of the defunct bank.

Three of the four jurors chosen were members of the Zion City colony. A panel of fifty veniremen was exhausted during the day and fifty more were summoned for today.

4 NAMES ADDED TO DEATH ROLL IN AUTO CRASHES

Fatalities Raise 1927 Toll to 930 Mark.

Four names were added to Cook county's 1927 motor death toll yesterday, raising it to 930. A fifth death from automobile accidents in the Chicago metropolitain area occurred in Aurora.

Joseph Engerman, 60 years old, 1016 West Roosevelt road, was struck on the head by the door handle of a sedan as he was attempting to cross Roosevelt road at Morgan street. His skull was fractured and he died while the driver of the car, Dr. Jay Tremaine, 901 West Roosevelt road, was rushing him to the Washington Boulevard hospital.

Injuries Prove Fatal.

Christopher Keenan, 77 years old, 3133 South Union avenue, died in the Oak Park infirmary. He was struck March 20 by an automobile driven by John J. Herman, 2706 Lowe avenue.

James Dore, 58 years old, 2107 Birchwood avenue, died from injuries received when the car in which he was riding crashed into an abuttment on the viaduct over the Santa Fe railroad tracks at Clark and 15th streets. William Reining, 2057 Chase avenue, driver of the car, was charged with manslaughter.

Boy Killed by Truck.

Injuries received Saturday proved fatal to Edwin Laskowski, 16 years old, 1849 South Kedzie avenue. He was hurt when he fell while "hitching" a ride on a truck at 33d street and Kedzie avenue.

Mrs. August Swanson, 50 years old, of Downers Grove, Ill., died in Aurora from injuries received in a collision of three automobiles near there Sunday night. Eight other persons hurt were Harry and Fred Jennijohn and their wives of Elgin; W. M. Neill and his wife of Oak Park, and Howard and Carl Swanson, 14 and 7 years old, also of Oak Park.

Charles Pick, 70 years old, resident of North Shore hotel, Evanston, father of Albert Pick, wealthy head of the restaurant and hotel supply company bearing his name, was injured last night when he was hit by an automobile in front of the North Shore hotel, Davis street and Chicago avenue, Evanston, while attempting to cross the street. He was taken to St. Francis hospital, where Dr. Charles K. Todd said that he might have internal injuries that may prove fatal. W. B. Baxter, 1512 Pitner avenue, Evanston, driver of the automobile that struck him, was arrested and later released on bond.

BOMB DISGUISED AS HOLY CANDLE FOUND IN SHRINE

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Many worshippers at the shrine of Guadalupe escaped possible death or injury today when a bomb was discovered in what was supposed to be a holy candle. The dangerous nature of the candle was detected in time to prevent its being lighted.

In the afternoon, when the church and shrine were crowded, an unidentified man, who later made his escape, approached the altar, carrying what seemed to be a large, unlighted candle, which he handed to some worshipper, saying: "Burn this for the Virgin."

The worshipper, suspicious because of the weight of the candle, called the police, who found it was a bomb.

Heavy Night Fog Forces Autos to Crawling Pace

Traffic of all kinds moved slowly through the streets last night as the fog, present during most of the day, thickened and completely blanketed the city. Automobiles were forced to reduce their speed to a snail's pace as the drivers found they could not see far ahead of their machines. At 2232 West 71st street a motorist that missed the turn in the street ran squarely into a bungalow owned by Nelson Harrison. The police began a checkup on the car's license number.

900,000th Telephone Put Into Service in the City

Officials of the Illinois Bell Telephone company announced yesterday that Chicago's 900,000th telephone had been installed during the day. Looking back in the records they found that in October, 1905, the city had only 100,000 phones. Four years later another hundred thousand had been installed. The half million mark was reached in July, 1918. At the present rate of growth, it was said, the 1,000,000th telephone probably will be put into service some time during the year 1929.

Shoppers Use Street Cars

THE Christmas shopping season is here again, and as usual the Chicago Surface Lines are carrying the great majority of shoppers.

The management has been preparing for many weeks for this peak-load period of the year and equipment is in splendid condition to provide adequate service.

When it is remembered that the system regularly carries three-fourths of the entire local transportation load of the city and that during the height of the shopping season last year there were more than 5,000,000 rides on street cars in one day, the importance of this service to shoppers and merchants becomes apparent.

No other service can be substituted in large cities for operation on rails. In speed, economic use of street space, comfort and safety electric railways excel.

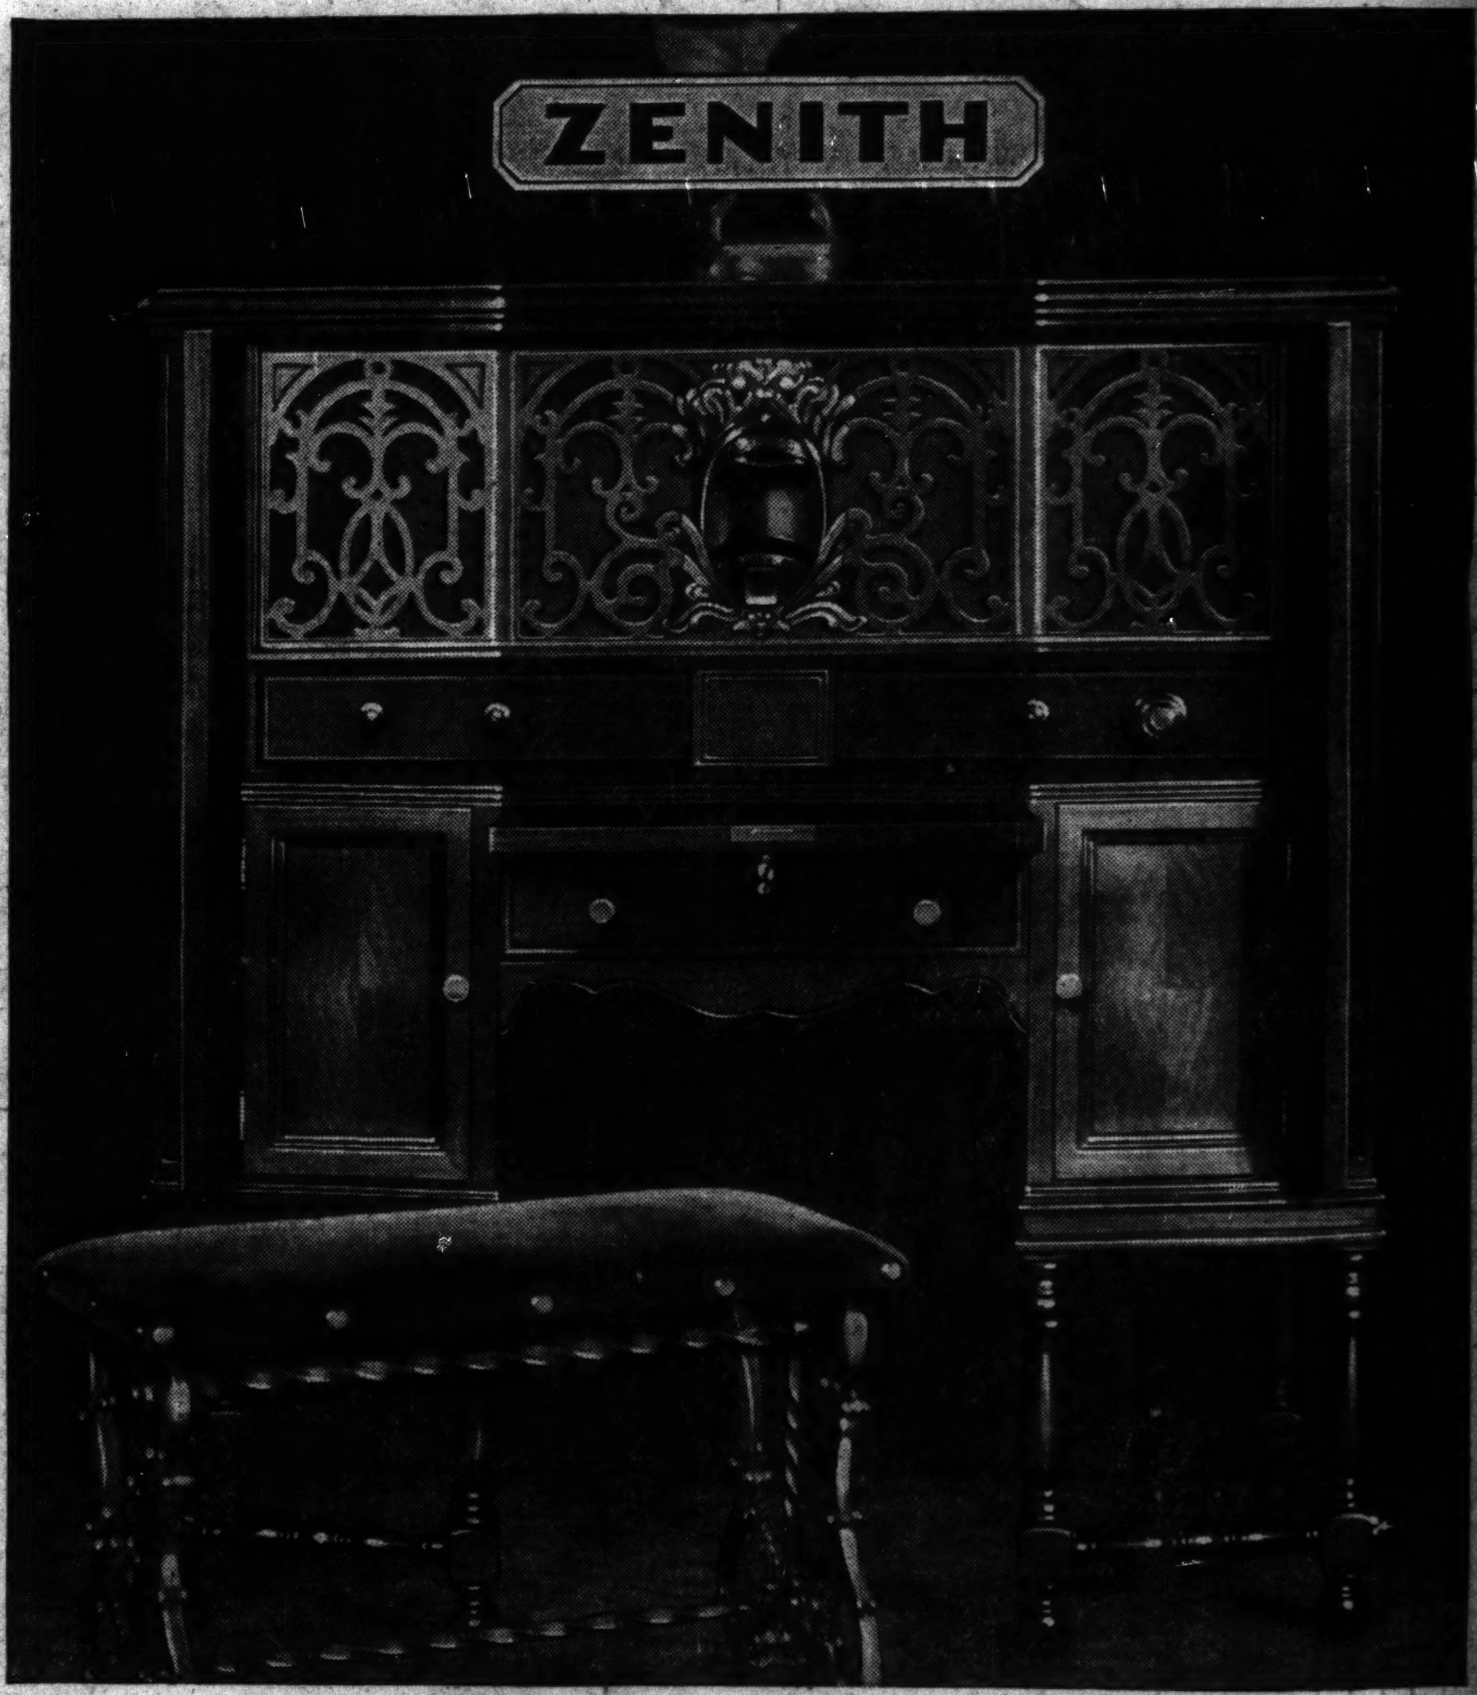
Radio's Greatest Development

IT'S ENTIRELY NEW

—nothing ever before like it

—the only 10 Tube Radio Receiver in the world



It has 10 tubes because years of research have proved that only 10 tubes can give the distance, the selectivity, the modulation of tone, the timbre and the sonorous depth that you knew would some day come in radio.

It is the only set using no loop, no inside or outside aerial—no antenna of any kind.

It has the greatest frequency range of any set made—it will give you the broadcasting of the future as well as the stations of today—that is why it is a set you may own and enjoy for all time.

It has such uncanny power and selectivity that you can tune out even the closest and strongest local stations and get the station you want. This is the most selective set the world has ever known.

It has a magnificent power speaker built right into it. You would pay several hundred dollars for a power speaker alone if you had to buy it separately.

It is purely electrical—operates from the light socket—and uses the new RCA and Cunningham AC Tubes, which are standard the world over.

Its splendid cabinet is especially designed by Zork—that is enough for those who know fine furniture.

Further details of this magnificent new development in Radio will appear in later advertisements this week. In the meantime we urge you to see and hear it in our store today, if you want to be one of the few who possess this marvelous new achievement—Radio's very ultimate—on Christmas morning.

Other Zenith models from $100 up—16 models—3 different circuits—6, 8 and 10 tubes —loop, antenna or antennaless—battery or electric—made by the world's largest manufacturers of High Grade Radio.

The Challenge We challenge any other make of radio whatsoever, regardless of price, to equal the performance of our new 10-tube All-Electric in quality or quantity of tone; selectivity; sensitivity; distance; ease of operation; precision of manufacture or general all-round performance. Gene Tunney, world's heavyweight champion, who defended his title in Chicago last September by beating Jack Dempsey for the second time, will be Chicago's guest today.

Tunney, who will be guest of honor at the banquet of the All-Chicago Christmas fund committee at the Hotel Sherman tonight, will arrive at 9:30 o'clock this morning. The champion will be met at the La Salle street depot by a reception committee, which will escort him to Mayor Thompson's office.

The line of march to the city hall is as follows: Plymouth court to Jackson boulevard to La Salle street, north on La Salle street to Madison street, east on Madison street to Clark street, north on Clark street to Washington street, west on Washington street to La Salle street, north on La Salle street to Randolph street, east on Randolph street to Clark street, south on Clark street to entrance of county building.

Mullen Prepares Contract.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon Tunney will confer with Promoter James Mullen relative to a championship fight in Chicago next summer.

Tunney has promised Mullen he will fight under his direction. The Chicago promoter intends to have the champion make good his promise by signing articles. Mullen has the papers drawn, but has kept the terms secret.

Mullen believes there are only two challengers—Jack Sharkey and Jack Delaney. The latter has agreed to meet Tunney in Chicago, but it is doubtful whether Mullen can sign Sharkey, who is tied up with contracts in the east. Mullen, however, believes Delaney is the stronger opponent.

WANT A $4,500 JOB? THERE'S ONE ON RING BOARD

References? See Messrs. Righeimer and Huncke.

Persons fervently interested in the fine, clean and manly art of boxing or fighting for cash prizes yesterday were reported more perturbed than ever about the quaint complexes of the dear old sports public.

Information that Chairman John Righeimer of the Illinois Athletic commission had become a victim of a technical knockout despite his display of what professionally is called "marvelous recuperative power," set discussions going anew. While giving several reasons for his resignation, none of them reflecting on the status of boxing in Illinois, the consensus seems to be that the chairman has been a glutton for punishment through rough work on the part of so-called sports lovers.

Fans Remember Old Days.

It was recalled yesterday how boxing fans longed for more and better contests in the days when boxing was an outlaw sport in Chicago. All manner of hardships were undergone to attend no-decision shows in Aurora and East Chicago. There was never a poultry congress at the Coliseum when men were not bemoaning the fact that boxing shows and the First ward ball no longer could be held therein. The fans indeed were eager for the return of good, clean sport under legalized direction.

Then the boxing bill was passed and Gov. Small appointed Mr. Righeimer, O. W. Huncke, and Paul Prehn as members of the newly created athletic commission, with Mr. Huncke as chairman.

The sporting blood that raced through the veins of the fans still was racing when the first big show was staged here—between Sammy Mandell and Rocky Kansas. Rain dampened the ardor of many and the referee's decision awarding the lightweight title to Mandell chilled many more. But the show was legal and promoters, fighters, managers, and accredited referees smacked their lips in anticipation of a great era of wholesome entertainment.

Huncke Decides to Quit.

When things had quieted down a bit and the Mandell decision was almost forgotten Charley Phil Rosenberg was booked to defend his title against Bud Taylor. Rosenberg, however, refused to post his forfeit until furnished with the name of the referee. As a result the fight never was held. Shortly after the blowup Mr. Huncke resigned, intimating he had enough of the régime of good, clean fun.

Righeimer succeeded to the chairmanship but did not fall into any bed of roses. His grief reached a climax when Mickey Walker was given a decision over the late Tiger Flowers. The decision brought a storm of protest and the practice of having two judges to coöperate with the referee was instituted.

Good Job Is Open.

As time passed on political interference became greater and local receipts became less. Promoters with the exception of Jim Mullen and a few others went back to other callings and the ticket printers laid off pressmen.

Then Tex Rickard and his entourage breezed into town amid municipal trumpetings. The matter is history. Long count charges. Resignations from referee lists. Beefings by the vanquished and ominous silence by the triumphant have followed.

Now Righeimer, whose business in the old days taught him to handle all manner of raucous situations, has thrown up his hands.

Paul Prehn, a wrestler who has been twisted, kicked, and bitten in his day, carries bravely on. So does Jim Mullen, hoping and hoping that some day they'll pack Soldiers' field while he is sitting in the counting room.

Meanwhile there's a $4,500 job open in the Manufacturers' building.

Proud Trotter of Dozen Years Ago Sells for $25

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Jauntfast, his head high, just as it was a dozen years ago, when he trotted a mile in 2:07¾, but his legs a bit wobbly, went under the hammer in the eighty-second annual horse auction in the International amphitheater at the Union stockyards yesterday.

Long a standby of the racegoers at middle western half mile harness tracks, he was 16 years old when they led him in to be sold. Besides his trotting record of 2:07¾, he carried into the ring with him a pacing mark of 2:09¼. But these records and a high head were about all he had left.

Jauntfast gazed up and down the row of bidders in a way to indicate he might be looking for some old time friend. "They must be here," he seemed to be saying with his eyes. For where is there a trot fan in the middle west who hasn't heard or read of old Jauntfast?

But if any were present they remained silent. Finally the auctioneer got a bid of $20. Then somebody said "$25." An appeal from the auction block couldn't coax another penny out of the crowd.

"One, two, three; and sold for $25," barked the auctioneer.

The buyer was Thomas Murphy, 5007 South Michigan boulevard, Chicago, who is listed as a teamster.

"Maybe the good old days of buggy rides and dusty country roads are gone forever, but a high grade trotter or pacer will bring as much today as it would ten or twenty years ago," L. E. Randall, president of the Harness Horse Association of America, who was in the audience, said. "It was the bad horses and not the good ones the automobile pushed into the background."

In the crowd of harness horse followers was the man who discovered the great running horse, Dick Wells. And he has been a trotting horse man all his life.

Hosea Sells of Waukegan had a wistful look in his eye as he pointed out the seat he occupied in this same amphitheater on a June night nearly a quarter of a century ago and got Dick Wells as a yearling when he said "Three hundred dollars."

He bought him for John Keating and Paul Hecker of Kenosha, and kept the great horse a year and sold him to Rome Respass for $5,500. "That was like giving him away," Sells told a group of acquaintances.

A. Richardson Jr., of Waterville, Me., paid the highest price at yesterday's sales when he gave $1,300 for the pacer Johnny Dugan, 2:11¼. H. C. Equall of Hastings, Neb., sent the horse here.

W. P. Keeps Derby

THE American Derby yesterday was reported to have been moved back to Washington park, where it will have its annual running on the third Saturday of next June. For almost a week it had hovered between Washington park and Arlington park as the owners and managers of race tracks here were attempting to map a satisfactory 1928 racing schedule for Chicago.

The plan to take it to Arlington park for one season was made when it was decided to carry out an extensive improvement program at Washington park, but President Robert M. Sweitzer of Washington park believes the improvements can be made in time for the Derby on the third Saturday in June. As a result the track is reported to have asked for June dates.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

THE BOXING COMMISSION.

JOHN C. RIGHEIMER has joined O. W. Huncke, former chairman, in seeking relief from duties as chairman of the Illinois boxing commission. Apparently whatever of honor attaches to the position is more than offset by the annoyances and work without any compensation except the doubtful one of criticism.

The Illinois boxing commission never has been taken over seriously by the sporting world. It has done its work efficiently so far as we are able to judge and its members have given time, much more time than they anticipated, to the thankless job of trying to please in a sport where few are pleased and a majority are inclined to be fault finding.

Prestige of the commission was lowered when the Tunney-Dempsey fight was brought here, and the commission found it necessary in approving a so-called civic venture to discover elasticity in its rules for governing the sport. Impression became somewhat general that members were merely "figure heads" which is not strictly true.

The Wake has no fault to find with any member of the commission individually. We think, however, Gov. Small might have created greater respect for the body if he had appointed to one or more of the commissionerships well known amateur sportsmen of whom a number were mentioned at the time the boxing act was passed. Until he does, we do not see much prospect of creating greater popular regard for the board. In fairness, however, we must say it has not issued such joke edicts as those for which the New York board is noted.

Do You Remember Way Back When:

BASEBALL JOINT COMMITTEE LAYS ITS TRADING PLAN

Managers Loaf and Wait in Hotel Lobbies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 12.—The major league baseball firms began their annual mid-winter business meetings with a sort of practice meeting today. In the practice meeting a joint committee, called the steering committee, undertook to decide what the boys will be allowed to discuss at the other meetings later in the week. The joint committee is called the steering committee because the leaders of the industry, now that the old, coarse days of baseball are past, do not like the word joint.

The committee meeting was attended by the league presidents, E. S. Barnard for the American and John A. Heydler for the National, Commissioner Landis, and the following: Jacob Ruppert, New York Yankees; Frank Navin, Detroit; Phil Ball, St. Louis Browns; Barney Dreyfuss, Pittsburgh; William Veeck, Chicago Cubs, and William F. Baker, Philadelphia Nationals.

While the meetings are going on a lot of managers of ball clubs will be leaning against the pillars in the lobbies of the Waldorf, the Belmont, the Commodore, and the Roosevelt, two to a pillar, talking about bird dogs or children or the long count in the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Peck Tries It Out.

Mr. Roger Peckinpaugh, late of the Chicago White Sox, now manager of the Cleveland Indians, attended his first meeting today and complained that the lobby of the Belmont was the hardest infield he ever played on.

I heard about a trade this afternoon.

It seems that one season when Mr. George Stallings was managing the Boston Braves he looked down the bench for a pinch hitter and called to Hank Gowdy:

"Well, featherbrain, get up there and give us a hit."

Seven ball players jumped up and grabbed bats.

That seems to be another story.

The story about the trade is that Phil Ball, the owner of the St. Louis club, is going to trade George Sisler to either the White Sox or the Indians or somebody. The White Sox will have to give Ball a pitcher for Sisler. I don't know whether they will make the trade or not; it's just a story.

Draft Coming Up.

Another story intimated Washington, Detroit, and St. Louis may stage a three cornered deal sending Sisler to Washington, Sam Rice of the Senators to St. Louis, and the Browns would then trade Rice to Detroit for Manush and Blue.

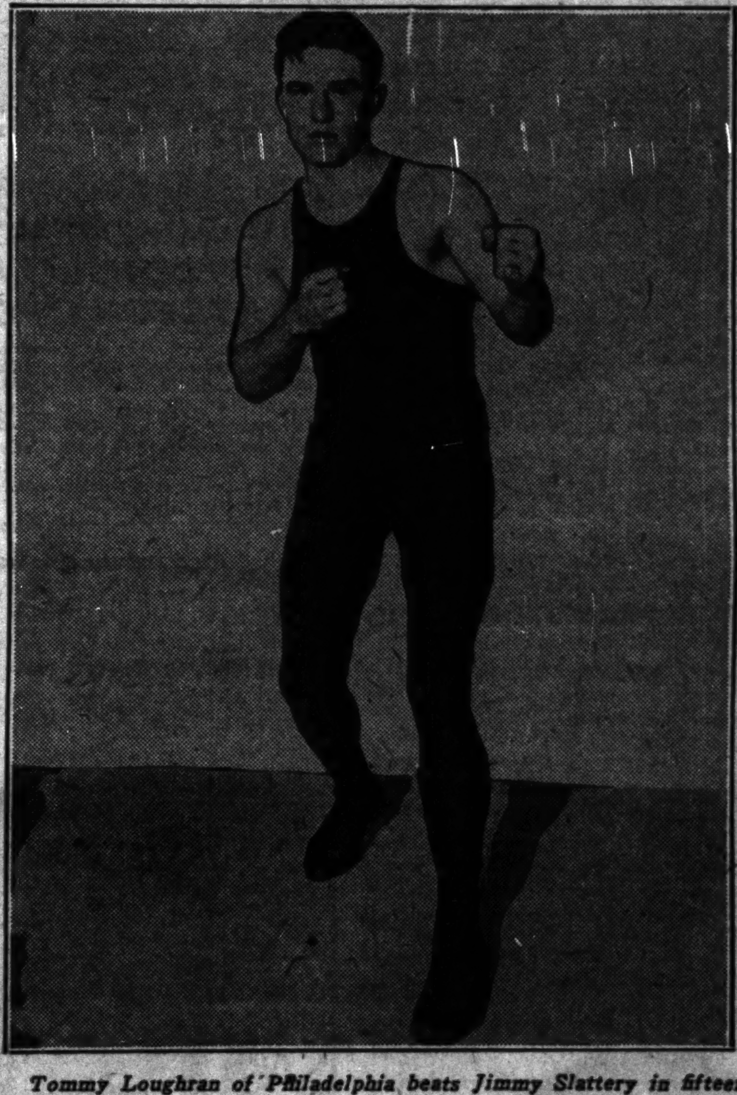
The steering or joint committee didn't announce the topics that are to be discussed at the regular or championship meetings following today's practice meeting. It was rumored that the steering committee intended to take a strong stand on the matter of the draft of minor league players.

PHILS SEEK 3 ROBINS

New York, Dec. 12.—[U. P.]—A lively trade is brewing between the Phillies and Robins at the baseball meeting here this week. President Baker of the Phillies was reported as willing to trade Leach, outfielder, and Wrightstone, infielder, for Statz and Hendrick, outfielders, and Ehrhardt, pitcher.

The Yankees have entered negotiations with the Red Sox for Ruffing, pitcher, and may swing the deal. Billy Evans has announced that George Uhle, pitcher, is not on the market, and there seems little likelihood of the White Sox entertaining any propositions for Teddy Lyons. Huggins was after all three of them.

WINS HIS RIGHT TO TITLE



Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia beats Jimmy Slattery in fifteen round battle.

Fans Boo as Ruth Is Given Decision Over Shea

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Babe Ruth, formerly of Louisville, who is now making his home in Chicago, was given the ten round decision over Eddie Shea of the west side in the windup of Mique Malloy's boxing show at White City last night.

The verdict did not meet with the approval of the 5,000 in attendance. They hissed and booed and refused to permit Announcer Smith to introduce the fighters in the semi-windup, which followed the main event.

Judge William R. Fetzer and E. L. Cook were the judges.

The receipts were about $10,000.

Most of those at the ringside thought Shea was entitled to the decision. He won six rounds, three went to Ruth, and one was even. He was the aggressor in most of the rounds and his blows carried more power than his opponent's.

Shea Willing Mixer.

Shea put up one of the best fights he has made in Chicago in years. He did not follow his usual custom of permitting his foe to stab him with three or four straight lefts without returns. Shea traded blow for blow in the rallies and he always kept the score even. This was especially true when they went into close quarters where Shea had a decided advantage.

The west sider was particularly effective with his left hooks. He also connected with right crosses and mixed his punches nicely. In the seventh round Shea knocked Ruth back on his heels with a right cross and he generally had the best of the rallies. In addition Shea outfinished his man and won the final round by a comfortable margin.

Ruth was timid at the start. He permitted Shea to do most of the leading and Eddie piled up a comfortable lead in the first five rounds. Ruth took the sixth by clever use of a right uppercut. The seventh, which was featured by rallies, was even, and the Louisville fighter had the edge in the eighth and ninth. The tenth went to Shea.

At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Shea weighed 125 pounds and Ruth 125¼ pounds.

Cullen Whips Williams.

In the eight round semi-windup Henry Cullen of Chicago won the decision over Tommy "Kid" Williams of Miami, Fla. Henry was the aggressor in practically every round. They met at 112 pounds.

Frank Le Marre, Chicago 155 pounder, stopped Wildcat Murphy of Milwaukee in the second round of the opening preliminary. Eddie Walsh, a local lightweight, won the four round verdict over Dutch Leiler of Elkhart, Ind., in the second opener of four rounds and Ted Henry won the decision over Danny Delmont in the six round preliminary. Both live in Chicago and they weighed 132 pounds. Ralph Mendoza, the Mexican lightweight, showed flashes of his old time skill by taking an eight round decision over Jerry "Red" Dolan of Chicago in the other fight of eight rounds. They weighed 135 pounds.

JIMMY SLATTERY.

New York, Dec. 12.—Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, the New York prize fight commission's light heavyweight champion, beat off the challenge of Jimmy Slattery, the National Boxing association's champion, in a great 15 round fight at the New Garden this evening and won a decision which probably will confirm him as the best boy in the misfit class between the middle and heavyweight groups.

He long has been recognized as the nicest boy, as he has elegant manners and says "whom" with fine self-possession, and there is no question that he is the prettiest boy, resembling a chorus boy more than the accepted pattern of the rough, brutal prize fighter.

They fought so fast tonight, Loughran and Slattery, that there were flurries of scrapping when you couldn't count the touches for scoring purposes, and could only make a notation that both boys sent in furious volleys of lefts and rights to the head and body which is equivalent to saying "all is excitement; can write nothing."

Slattery's Punches Lack Steam.

Slattery's high, loose-armed, loose-legged, open-handed style of fighting had Loughran sorely puzzled all the way, and for the first five rounds or so, when Jimmy was at his best, it looked as though he would outsprint Loughran for the championship.

But Slattery is inclined to pant after six rounds, and, moreover, Loughran found that the hardest punches he would have to take were nothing much to fear, so he relaxed his characteristic caution slightly and did a little more heavy duty than is his wont.

In the clinches, Loughran usually was the better puncher, making Slattery grab hold and wait for the referee as he pumped his right at the heart. Later in the fight, from the tenth round on to the end, Loughran let go hard right shots at the head, some of which clipped Slattery on his tissue-paper temple and spun him away.

Both Fighters Harmless.

Slattery's best punch was a right chop to the features and it was not very convincing because it was a downward swipe delivered at an upstanding boxer's face. The result was that it grazed Loughran instead of landing with effective impact, and though it scuffed Tommy slightly under his left eye it didn't even bleed him.

They gave the best people in town a swell demonstration of the harmless and fancy style of fighting.

Loughran in his incautious and determined mood late in the bout put forth the only sturdy work, but even then Slattery was so swift on his legs and so fine in slipping and blocking that there was no real expectation of a knockout.

Neither man's silks showed the ignominious dust of the resin dust, but there was an instant in the thirteenth round when a right swing to the head spun Slattery clear across the ring and almost dumped him.

Loughran Turns Primitive.

Loughran had to get slightly primitive to win, because, in the early stages when he was trying to out-fancy Slattery, Jimmy had him whipping the air with missed jabs and hooks and there was nothing for him to do but descend to a mildly vulgar display of force to hold the title.

Loughran weighed 173½ to Slattery's 165½.

In the semi-final bout of ten rounds Mr. Farmer Joe Cooper of Terre Haute, Ind., the welterweight, seemed to have licked Clyde Hull of Dallas, Tex., by a slight but noticeable margin, and the customers let out prolonged yells of annoyance when the decision went to Hull. Theirs was a coarse brawl and an ideal contrast to the stylish, nice mannered boxing of the young toffs in the main event.

Notre Dame Five Upsets Iowa, 23 to 20

Iowa City, Ia., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Notre Dame's basketball team retained its jinx over Iowa here tonight and won a 23 to 20 victory over Coach Sam Barry's Hawkeyes. Only during the first part of the game did the Iowans hold the lead, running up a 5 to 0 count a few minutes after the game started. Led by Coleric, center, the Irish soon started the fireworks and at the intermission Notre Dame led, 12 to 10. A slow but effective breaking offense with Coleric and Capt. Bachyn as the key men had the Old Gold cagers baffled during most of the game. Long shots by Kinnan and Capt. Twogood made the score 21 to 20 two minutes before the game ended, but Coleric brooke loose just before the gun barked to put Notre Dame safely in front.

Capt. Twogood and Harrison were the outstanding players for Iowa, while Coleric and Smith stood out for Notre Dame. Lineup:

Majors and Minors Argue Over Draft—Here're the Reasons

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Because the minor leaguers have served notice that they are dissatisfied with the part of the major-minor agreement covering the draft, or selection of players, the big time magnates at their joint session in New York Thursday will be forced to put together another sugar coated pill that will send the small fellows back into indefinite slumber.

The draft has been a burr in the hip pockets of some of the minors for almost as long as baseball has been played under a governing board, and it probably will continue to cause discomfiture, but the problem is so complicated that it can be ironed out fairly well if both the big and little gentlemen rid themselves of the notion that they want or must give something for nothing. The theory of the whole thing, of course, is to protect the advancement of the athlete, but when some of the big league owners discovered that indiscriminate and wholesale drafting was a good way to make money, the practice became objectionable to the minors and they howled. This abuse is no longer possible because of the forty player limit.

When baseball was reorganized and Commissioner Landis' job created an effort was made to put the draft on an equitable basis. The minors were told they could accept it or leave it. Five of them—American Association, Pacific Coast, International, Western, and Three Eye—declared they wanted no part of it. Eventually, however, they were forced to accede to a modified selection, which provided that every man returned to them by a major league club was subject to draft. They accepted this because they discovered they could not maintain their playing standards without help from the leagues. Neither could they draft from the minors of lower classification.

It was this so-called "modified" draft that precipitated the action at last week's minor convention. The leagues that originally recognized the universal draft rose up with a declaration that so long as the five leagues named above had refused the draft when the agreement was made they should be forced to abide by that pact. A vote was taken and the five leagues were ordered to discontinue accepting players from the majors if there was a "selection" clause attached.

The five original nondraft leagues are now in the same position they occupied before they bowed to the "modified" arrangement. The majors will not give them a man unless there is a provision for his return. Without such a provision a player, regardless of his natural ability, could be forced to spend his career in a minor league unless his owner was willing to sell his services. The majors regard such a condition the equivalent of peonage and don't want it for fear of complications.

The big minors object to the draft mainly because they think it hampers them in their efforts to sell players at fabulous prices. The Baltimore club has had several examples of this. Shortstop Boley for years was considered big league material but no club would meet Jack Dunne's exorbitant price. Had the draft been in effect Dunn would have accepted one of the numerous $75,000 offers rather than lose the player in the draft for the stipulated Class AA price of $5,000. Boley reached the big league last year, but was too late.

The minors' complaint that the draft interferes with the outright sale of budding stars is more of a smoke screen than anything else. History shows that "finds" never are permitted to remain loose until the fall drafting period arrives. They always are disposed of prior to that and the price usually is fair if not excessive. As long as the demand for talent exceeds the supply there will be no difficulty separating some big league club from a bank roll whenever an outstanding prospect turns up.

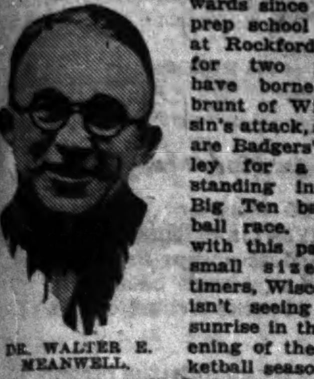
BEHR, ANDREWS CARRY BADGERS' HOPES ON COURT

Centers Scarce; Guards of Last Year Back.

BY HARLAND ROHM.



DR. WALTER E. MEANWELL.

That pair of little fellows, Behr and Andrews, who have been teamed together as forwards since their prep school days at Rockford and for two years have borne the brunt of Wisconsin's attack, again are Badgers' parley for a fair standing in the Big Ten basketball race. Even with this pair of small size big timers, Wisconsin isn't seeing any sunrise in the opening of the basketball season.

For six years the Badgers struggled along without a strong center until last winter, when Kowalczyk and Tenhopen, a pair of sophomores who gave promise of developing into first class centers this year, appeared. This pair, with Capt. Lou Behr, Charley Andrews, Coach Meanwell's deadly passing attack, and a pair of veteran guards, made the vision of this season sweet.

Both Centers Lost.

That was the prospect at the opening of school this fall but then the blow fell. Kowalczyk, regular center last year, became ineligible and left school. Tenhopen, sub center, got into difficulties with the disciplinary committee and couldn't play.

So Wisconsin is in much the same position as it was last year. Behr and Andrews will be fighting against superior height of opponents all season. George Nelson and George Hotchkiss, veteran guards, doubtless will keep opponents' scores down to a minimum for Wisconsin's defense last year was the strongest in the league. But at center the same story of the last seven years will repeat itself.

Foster Best Prospect.

Three sophomores are trying for the jumping job and from early season practice Harold Foster, a Chicago youth, seems to have the edge, especially from his work under the basket.

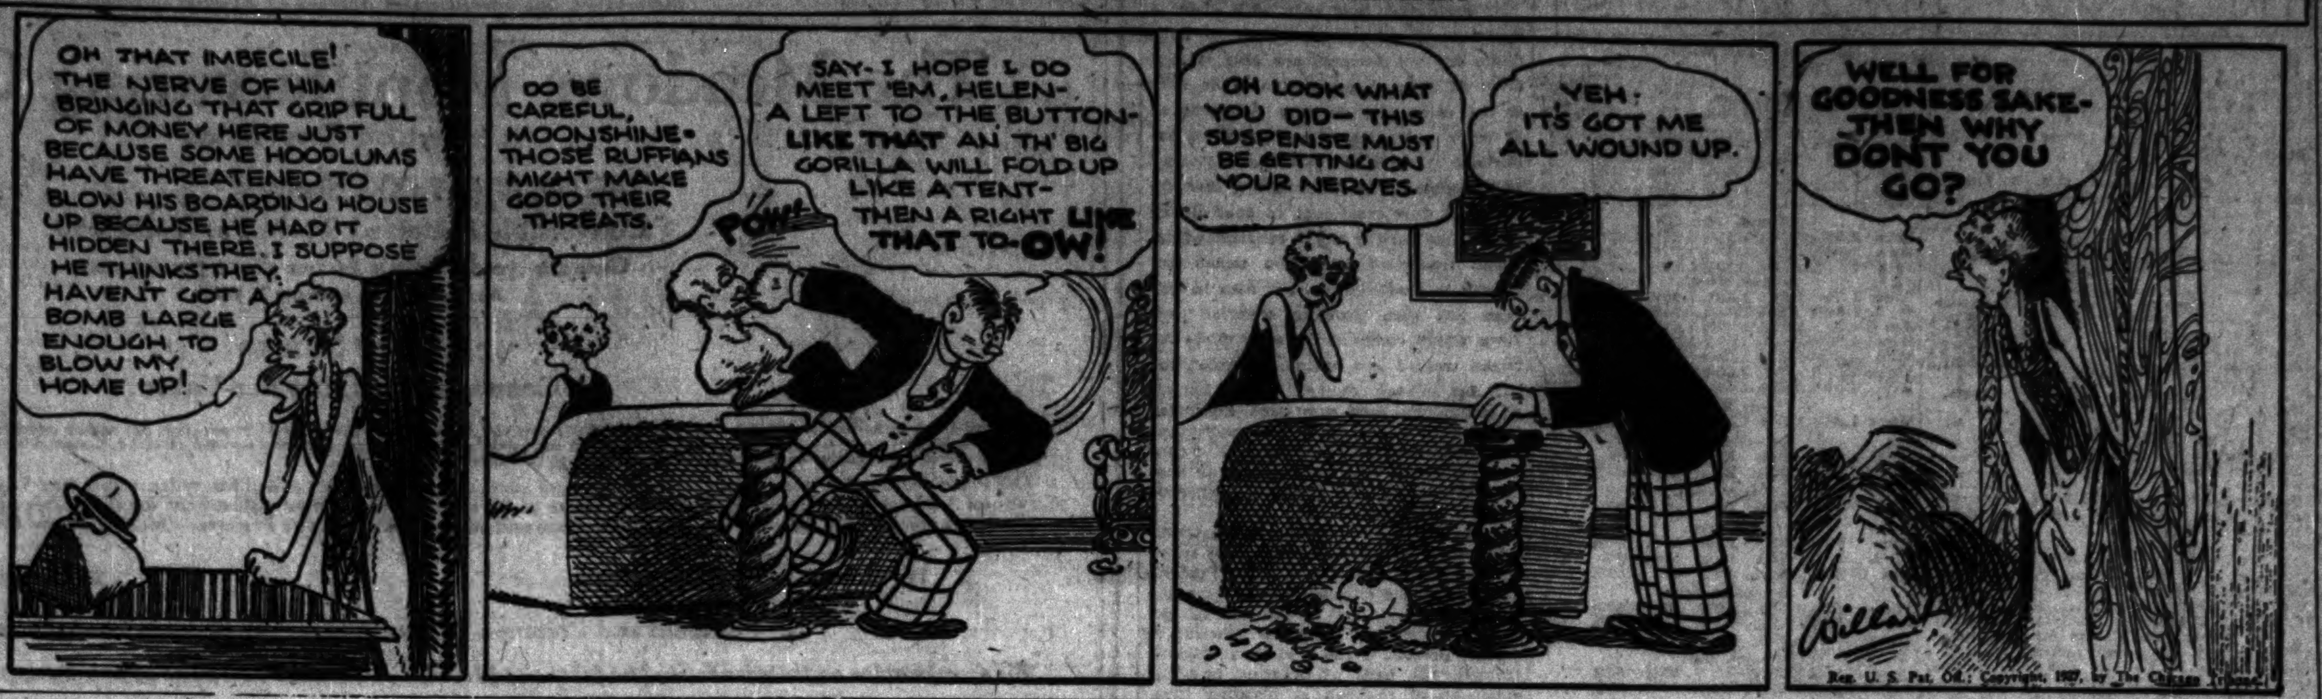
George Nelson, floor guard, was a sub forward two years and has been converted into a guard. He is rather short but powerfully built, fast and a fairly good basket shot. He will alternate with George Hotchkiss, the best dribbler on the squad, who was a reserve end in football.

Doyle at Back Guard.

John Doyle, a burly chap from Waukegan, seems to have the back guard job cinched. He was a sub for Rollie Barnum at the position last year and his best stunt is taking the ball off the backboard, though he isn't a star at the passing game. Bill Thiele has second call on the job at present.

Two Chicagoans rate highest as sub forwards. They are Ray Ellerman, who played last year, and Carl Matthusen, another chap about the same height and weight as Behr and Andrews. Milton Diehl is another possibility for a forward position and so are Edmund Chmielewski and Maurice Farber, Chicago sophomores, both of whom are ineligible at present.

MOON MULLINS—FALSE ALARM



OH THAT IMBECILE! THE NERVE OF HIM BRINGING THAT GRIP FULL OF MONEY HERE JUST BECAUSE SOME HOODLUMS HAVE THREATENED TO BLOW HIS BOARDING HOUSE UP BECAUSE HE HAD IT HIDDEN THERE. I SUPPOSE HE THINKS THEY HAVEN'T GOT A BOMB LARGE ENOUGH TO BLOW MY HOME UP!
DO BE CAREFUL, MOONSHINE - THOSE RUFFIANS MIGHT MAKE GOOD THEIR THREATS.
SAY- I HOPE I DO MEET 'EM, HELEN- A LEFT TO THE BUTTON- LIKE THAT AN' TH' BIG GORILLA WILL FOLD UP LIKE A TENT- THEN A RIGHT LIKE THAT TO-OW!
POW!
OH LOOK WHAT YOU DID- THIS SUSPENSE MUST BE GETTING ON YOUR NERVES.
YEH: IT'S GOT ME ALL WOUND UP.
WELL FOR GOODNESS SAKE- THEN WHY DON'T YOU GO?

LANE CAGERS SPLIT 2 GAMES WITH LINDBLOM

Lindblom and Lane divided two practice basketball games at Lindblom yesterday. After Lane had taken the lightweight contest, 18 to 9, Lindblom nosed out the Techs in the heavyweight battle, 14 to 13.

MEDILL, PHILLIPS DIVIDE.

Led by Lebedinsky, who scored 10 points, Medill heavies conquered Wendell Phillips, 16 to 13, at Medill. Pullins, with eight points, paved the way for Phillips' 20 to 16 triumph in the lightweight fray.

QUIGLEY WINS PAIR.

Quigley swamped De La Salle in two games on Quigley's floor, winning the heavyweight game, 40 to 8, and the lightweight engagement, 26 to 5.

ST. PATRICK BEATS McKINLEY.

St. Patrick heavies turned the tables on McKinley by winning, 24 to 16, at McKinley after having been beaten by the same team last week. McConvile led the winners with four baskets and two free throws. In the lightweight encounter McKinley won, 23 to 11.

Marquette to Test Purple Five Tonight

Northwestern's basketball team which swamped Wabash in its opening game, plays Marquette university at Patten gym tonight. The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Coach Arthur Lonborg will start the same lineup of Wildcats which proved to be so well named against Wabash but Marquette's team of veterans are likely to prove stronger opposition. Rut Walters, the sophomore center, will try to beat his record of nine baskets in the opening game. Capt. Waldo Fisher and Hal Gleichman will be at forwards and Luke Johnsos and Frank Marshall at guards.

Marquette will have Capt. Floyd Razner and Swede Gebert, who won fame as a football player in the season just ended, at forwards, Jack Schumacher at center, and John Padden and Denver Shimek at guards.

BLACKHAWKS GET ARBOUR IN TRADE FOR ED RODDEN

MONTREAL, Que., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Pittsburgh is to continue in the National Hockey league. The present owners of the Pirates have no intention of selling and plan to bolster the playing strength of the team. This was made clear at a meeting of the National Hockey league board of governors tonight.

First signs of the stand by the Pittsburgh owners was the closing of a three cornered deal whereby Bert McCaffrey, of Toronto, goes to Pittsburgh, Eddie Rodden, of Chicago, goes to Toronto, and Chicago secured Ty Arbour. The trade was engineered first when Toronto traded McCaffrey for Rodden and Chicago immediately switched McCaffrey to Pittsburgh for Arbour.

Duke Keats, Detroit star who was suspended for slashing at an usher with his stick during a game in Chicago, remains on the suspended list. The governors ruled that Keats' case is entirely up to President Frank Calder.

Moose Outrun Bob in Chase Through Snow

BY BOB BECKER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

METAGAMA, Ontario, Dec. 12. — With the temperature slightly above zero and a hard crust on the snow we took part in a regular moose Derby today.

You should have seen those antlered Pliocene racers gallop through the forest as Tom, our guide's brother, who is now in camp, stirred up a bunch of seven. We held a stop watch on another group of six which raced through the forest and over the hills without regard for stop signs or stop lights.

Our moose rodeo was the result of weather conditions. Following another snowfall, the weather turned warm enough to make the snow soft. Then the temperature dropped [it always does up here at this time of the year] and this morning we snowshoed away from camp on a frozen snow crust. Two of us walking through the brush made enough noise to scare anything within 10 miles and Jack, our guide, felt quite depressed over the hunting conditions.

The day worked out just as he had prophesied. We would locate moose, but because of the noisy crust they would hear us first and then stampede. About eleven o'clock, after snowshoeing around 4½ or 5 miles from camp, we invaded some beautiful moose country where there was a combination of small lakes, lovely timber and plenty of feed.

Coming over the brow of a small hill and starting down the slope we heard a terrific racket. Then through the trees we saw the start of the moose Derby of six animals smashing the crust 'way out of range ahead of us. Fleeting glimpses of moving brown bodies through the poplars and spruces and they were out of sight. But we could hear those thousand pound "meese" going crash! crash! through the noisy crust for a half mile and they may be running yet.

Upon our return to camp we learned that Tom had encountered seven moose which all but wrecked the forest on their getaway. Tonight all of us want to exchange snowshoes for wings as we must have a quiet mode of transportation for the hunt tomorrow.

Tilden Refuses to Play Davis Cup Prelims

Boston, Mass., Dec. 12.—(AP)—Neither William T. Tilden II., ranking American player, nor Francis T. Hunter, the partner with whom he won the 1927 national doubles tennis title, will be available to America for the 1928 challenge round Davis cup play in the American zone. Tilden told the Associated Press tonight that he and Hunter planned to sail for France about the first of May and would not return to this country until the middle of August.

The stormy petrel of American tennis, who is here for a theatrical engagement, made known his attitude and plans when asked for comment on the decision of the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association to challenge for the Davis cup in the American zone.

The committee met in New York last Saturday and was reported to have adopted unanimously the recommendation of the Davis cup committee to challenge in the American zone. Tilden, declaring he was backed by other players, had urged the committee to challenge in the European zone.

"I am quite positive that the so-called 'unanimous vote' was no such thing," Tilden said, "but that's only a detail and the decision will not interfere with the plans which Hunter and I have made to bid once again for the French and British titles. I talked with Hunter in Providence yesterday and we will sail for France around the first of May.

"We shall not return until the middle of August and for that reason we naturally will not be available for selection for the Davis cup play in the American zone at least."

Mullen Lines Up Bouts for Charity Show

The charity boxing card to be held at the Coliseum Monday night was announced yesterday by Matchmaker James Mullen. The show will be conducted by the All Chicago Christmas Fund committee, and profits will be divided equally among Chicago newspapers' Christmas funds.

Fifty rounds have been arranged. The fighters include several top ranking local experts. Among these is Earl Mastro of the west side, who meets Smiley Springer of New York in a six round fight at 120 pounds. Joey Medill of the west side and Paul Allen of the south side, 130 pounders, will clash in another six rounder. Ray Miller, the west side left hook artist, will take on Mike Dundee of Rock Island in another six rounder at 130.

Joey Chaney, a brother of the famous K. O. Chaney, will meet Frankie Larabee of Nebraska in a six spat, while Joey Sangor of Milwaukee will trade punches with Benny "Kid" Carter of Los Angeles in one of the eight round affairs. Otto Von Porat, the Norwegian heavyweight, who is making his home in Chicago, will take on Ted Sandwine, a European heavyweight, in another eight round fight. The other bout will bring together Georgie Rivers of Los Angeles and Harry Forbes of Columbus, O.

The Motorists Association of Illinois will stage thirty-three rounds of boxing in its clubrooms, 2400 South Michigan avenue, tomorrow night.

LONGS IN WHEAT SELL AND PRICES MOVE DOWNWARD

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Tired longs were on the selling side of wheat and with weakness abroad and a slow export demand prices declined readily, yesterday, and the close was about the bottom with net losses of ⅝@1c with December, 1.28½, and May, 1.33⅝@1.22½. Corn was higher early, but reacted with wheat and on prospects for larger receipts, and the finish was ⅜@⅝c lower, with December, 88⅛@88¼c, and May, 95⅝@95⅝c. Oats showed independent strength and closed unchanged to ⅛c higher while rye was ⅛@⅝c lower.

Refusal of Liverpool wheat to reflect upturns in prices in North America is having some effect on local sentiment which has become more favorable to the selling side, and there was moderate pressure from the pit element and from commission houses from the start. Buying against bids and by shorts furnished the bulk of the support. Liverpool was ⅝@⅝d lower at the last, while Winnipeg eased and closed ⅛@⅝c lower. Buenos Aires lost ⅝@1⅛c, and Rosario was unchanged to ⅝c lower.

Short covering and commission house buying was in evidence in corn early with an advance to around Saturday's finish following an easier opening, but the larger receipts here, 202 cars, with 370 cars at Kansas City, led to profit taking and also bear pressure and the market declined ⅝@1⅛c from the top, and closed on a moderate rally.

Oats showed independent strength with local operators and commission houses aggressive buyers early, but later profit taking developed and prices reacted, although the undertone was strong. Visible supply decreased 922,000 bu for the week, and stocks of 22,329,000 bu are 22,464,000 bu less than last year.

Rye was easier in sympathy with wheat. There was no material pressure but with a light trade the decline was easily attained. Export demand at the seaboard was slow.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

A lack of important incentive in the wheat and corn markets is keeping many traders either out of the market or operating on a small scale. There is nothing in the export, crop, or general news, to create enthusiasm on either side, and it is said that until there is a change, the markets are not expected to present striking and attractive features.

News on corn is more mixed, with the majority of traders favorable to the buying side on all breaks. There are reports coming from a few sections in north central Illinois of yields of 65 to 75 bu per acre, with fields planted July 7 making 35 bu per acre. All the returns materially indicate that the corn season has been exceptionally freakish.

As this is the season when farmers need ready money for Christmas, there is an inclination on their part to sell grain, especially corn, and the movement is increasing, which tends to make timid buyers go slow about taking hold of corn futures. After the close last night, there was nothing in the privilege trade to suggest uneasiness on either side of the market.

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Foreign demand for wheat at the seaboard was the slowest it has been in a long time, and no sales were reported in any position. There was a little business in rye, and cables on barley showed a better undertone.

FARM AND GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

By sprinkling seed corn with about 4 cents worth of chemical dust to keep down dry rot farmers are able to add from 20 cents to more than $5 an acre to the value of their crop with corn at 80 cents a bushel. Four years of experimental work in Iowa has convinced pathologists of the Ames station that the chemical dust treatment to control dry rot in seed corn is worth recommending.

The treatment has been tested out chiefly in green houses but also in sixteen tall corn growing counties over Iowa where comparisons were made between treated and ordinary planter box run corn in each county. Several brands of commercial dust were used, according to the station's report, which shows that the treatment increases the yield of corn varying from .3 to 6.6 bushels per acre and in three cases a slight reduction in yield occurred.

Pathologists do not say the treatment will bring dead kernels to life or make bad seed corn good, but in R. H. Porter's analysis of the experiments he says the increased yield due to the use of the dust is dependent upon the amount of disease present in the seed corn which is treated, the time of planting and the condition of the soil at planting time. He observed that early planted corn will give greater differences than late planted corn when treated and that if weather conditions become unfavorable either during or following the planting season, treated corn will survive longer than untreated seed.

Porter points out that treating with dust will not prevent moldy ears in the fall. The dusting is not regarded as a substitute for individual ear testing and farmers who use it should continue to select carefully and care for their seed corn. It helps insure good healthy kernels and in most cases dusting the seed corn with chemicals means a better stand and increased yield, pathologists say.

We summarize as follows from the letter of Mr. H. L. Barker, President of the Company, regarding these stocks:

ORGANIZATION AND BUSINESS: The Meadows Manufacturing Company was incorporated in 1927 under Maryland laws to acquire the business and assets of the Meadows Manufacturing Company (Illinois) incorporated in 1902. The Company manufactures domestic washing machines, both of the electrically driven and gasoline engine powered type, and ranks among the first six of more than one hundred producers of washing machines in the United States. Present annual capacity is 60,000 machines, which can be increased to 90,000 machines with capital expenditures of approximately $25,000. In addition to its washing machine business the company transacts a profitable business in the manufacture of foundry castings for others and is in receipt of certain revenues from other companies derived from patent licenses and royalties. The latter source of income is increasing each year and for the first 10 months of 1927 amounted to more than $26,000.

PROPERTY: The Company's plant, consisting of seven buildings with a total floor space of 140,000 square feet, is located on fifteen acres of land at Bloomington, Illinois. The property, served by three railroad sidings, is advantageously located from the standpoint of both transportation and an adequate supply of labor. The buildings comprising the present plant were constructed in 1920 and subsequent thereto.

SALES AND EARNINGS: In 1925 the Company began to develop its present type of agitator washing machine, at the same time discontinuing the manufacture of certain other products. Consequently during 1925 and the early part of 1926 the Company was in a transition period. However, the increase in both gross sales and net profits even during this period, was substantial, as shown by the figures below and the company is now beginning to realize the benefits of its new developments and policies.

Year	Net Sales	Net Profits available for Dividends after Depreciation and Federal Taxes
1926	1,381,146	137,000
1927 (10 months)	1,887,384	218,000

Earnings as above for the first 10 months of 1927 were at the annual rate of $261,600 or 3.84 times annual dividend requirements of $68,000 on the outstanding Preferred Stock. After allowing for preferred dividends balance of earnings was at the annual rate of 96 cents a share on the outstanding Common Stock.

Arthur Andersen & Company in their industrial report regarding The Meadows Manufacturing Company state the volume of sales for 1928 should be in excess of 50,000 machines. The Company has contracts with its distributors for quotas substantially in excess of this figure. Based on these contracts, it is estimated by officials of the Company that surplus net profits for 1928 available for preferred dividends will be in excess of $700,000.

On the basis of the Company's estimate for 1928, earnings would be equal to over ten times preferred dividend requirements and the balance for the Common Stock would amount to $2.68 per share after deducting estimated Preferred Stock sinking fund requirements.

ASSETS: The Company's balance sheet, as prepared by Arthur Andersen & Company, as of October 31, 1927, after giving effect to the acquisition of the net assets of the predecessor company and the completion of the financing transactions, shows total assets of $1,665,323 and current assets of $834,284 or more than 3 times current liabilities of $272,903.

The Company has no funded debt.

PURPOSE: Proceeds from the sale of these stocks will be used to retire indebtedness and to increase working capital.

SINKING FUND: Commencing January 1, 1929 and annually thereafter while any Preferred Stock remains outstanding, the corporation shall set aside and credit to a sinking fund, for the retirement of Preferred Stock, 15% of the net earnings for the preceding calendar year remaining after payment of dividends on the Preferred Stock.

Price: $52.50 Per Unit

Consisting of one share of Preferred Stock and one share of Common Stock

The above stock is offered for delivery when, as and if issued and subject to approval of counsel, Messrs. Cutting, Moore & Sidley, Chicago, for the Bankers and Mr. Hal M. Dividends on the Preferred Stock will be discounted at 8% per annum from date of payment to January 2, 1928.

BUSINESS: La France Textile Industries is one of the largest manufacturers of tapestries, plushes, and drapery fabrics in the United States. A One-Hundred Per Cent Safety Record Of the more than two hundred electric light, power and gas company bond issues underwritten, purchased and distributed by this company since its organization in 1914, not a single issue has ever defaulted a dollar in the prompt payment of either interest or principal.

Price Stability
usually goes with SAFETY

WHEN you buy a safe investment, you also buy, as a rule, a large measure of price stability. Speculative securities often show very broad fluctuations and just when the holder is most in need of his money, the price may be at its lowest ebb. This is seldom true of sound bonds and well selected preferred stocks.

When you buy carefully investigated securities from this Company, you purchase investments which you can be reasonably sure of selling in time of need at a price close to the price originally paid and often at a substantial profit to yourself. Securities of this class are not seriously affected by market raids and rumors and they hold their price well even in times of depression.

This price stability is further strengthened, in the case of Electric Light and Power Bonds in which we specialize, by the unusual stability of this basic industry.

Safety, price stability, marketability, a good yield—these are the most important advantages which attract investors to our offerings.

Investors are invited to write for our informative booklet, "Electrified America, Your Opportunity as an Investor." A copy is yours on request, without obligation.

BANKING
the Business of Business

BANKING is as much the business of business as business is the business of banking. Business could not go far without the banks and the banks could not get along without business.

The commercial banker in particular must know business and, in this institution, our officers appreciate keenly their obligation to understand its condition and trend, and their responsibility to apply that knowledge safely and accurately.

It is in the confidence that our facilities are complete and our service personal and precise that we invite you to do your commercial, as well as your other banking, with us.

GERMANY and the Dawes Plan

IN 1928 Germany will begin to make the maximum payments under the Dawes settlement of 1924. Pessimists predict that the Plan will then break down, while optimists are confident of its success.

We have just prepared an exhaustive analysis of this whole situation, with a concise review of the Plan and its workings. It should clarify the current confused thought on the subject and give the true answer to the many questions which American investors in German securities are asking.

This special analysis has already been supplied to our many thousand clients, but a few extra copies are available for those interested in this vital subject.

Bank Stock Withdrawal Is Refused by Exchange

New York, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Officials of the Stock exchange today declared that the stock of the National City bank could not be withdrawn from trading without approval of the exchange. C. E. Mitchell, president of the bank, asked stockholders last week to approve the action of the directors in requesting the withdrawal of the shares, contending that sharp fluctuations in stocks of a credit institution might prove harmful in times of financial stress.

TRADE REVIEWS GROW CHEERFUL ON '28 OUTLOOK

BY O. A. MATHER.

Good business next year, with an imminent pickup from present slack conditions, are predicted in the early year-end reviews now beginning to appear.

"A sharp upturn in business is impending," THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE Survey says. "All of a sudden, when business men were dolorously commiserating with each other about the unseasonable trade weather, the absence of the usual fall expansion in factory operations, and the decline in profits, a series of events in rapid succession has put a new face on the future.

"In the course of a few days, the gain in steel orders established a two years' record, Mr. Ford took the brake off the automobile industry by launching his new car, prices rose sharply for a number of commodities, and an agreement was reached to reduce income tax payment by a quarter of a billion dollars.

Confidence Is Growing.

"As the evidence has accumulated of prospective betterment physically, the situation has decidedly improved psychically. Confidence about business in 1928 is now growing from day to day.

"The first evidence of the turn for the better came from the steel industry, a quarter which in the past has been a faithful recorder of fundamental changes. An increase in unfilled tonnage is heartening not only to steel but to other industries whose business has improved in the past when steel has.

"With the automobile shows just a few weeks off, definite forecasts are being made of the sales prospects for the coming year. Without exception they are optimistic, even from those who a year ago were speaking cautiously.

"The farmers' buying power is the best in years. The effect of their extra $1,000,000,000 is only beginning to be felt. The full benefit of their increased income will be distributed next year."

Real Silk Hosiery Statement.

Although net earnings of the Real Silk Hosiery Mills showed a decrease in the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, the company is in a better position to increase its earnings than ever, according to the annual report of W. C. Kobin, president. Much of the decrease is attributed to an increase of $175,109 in the depreciation writeoff. Net for the year totaled $539,652 after all charges and taxes, equal after preferred dividends to $1.85 a share on 200,000 shares of $10 par outstanding compared with $720,108 or $2.72 a share in the previous fiscal period.

The balance sheet shows current assets at $4,800,792, decrease, $273,471; other assets, $5,201,460, increase, $772,708; current liabilities, $2,434,772, increase, $671,348; preferred stock, $2,400,000, decrease, $100,000; common stock, $2,000,000, unchanged; other liabilities, $445,855, increase, $323,055; surplus, $2,721,625, decrease, $395,166.

Billion Oversubscription Made on Treasury Notes

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—(AP)—The issue of treasury certificates of indebtedness dated Dec. 15 was oversubscribed approximately one billion dollars. Secretary Mellon announced today that reported subscriptions for the issue, which was for $250,000,000, totaled $1,200,000,000 when books closed on Dec. 9. Final reports from Federal Reserve banks are expected to swell the total somewhat, and when they are all in allotments will be announced.

Hogs tumbled to new low levels under stress of increased receipts yesterday, top falling 15c at $8.70 with general average 20c lower at $8.15, both lowest since July, 1924. Demand expanded rapidly after a 25c lower price basis had been established after midsession and only 8,000 were left at the close. Outsiders took 13,000, while the Armour and Swift houses handled a combined total of 22,000.

Arrivals totaled 63,000, the largest since last June, against 57,314 the previous Monday and 66,710 a year ago, the second largest run in 1926. Only five daily totals this year are above 60,000. Bulk of the day's offerings cleared at $7.90@8.45, several droves, numbering over 20,000 head costing $8.05@8.20, averaging 190@220 lbs.

The agitation against high beef prices started by hotel owners and small butchers in the east was partly responsible for the erratic condition of the cattle trade. With the exception of an occasional load of prime steers, prices slumped unevenly 25@50c. One load of 1,572 lb cattle of show type held the top at $18.75, within 25c of the highest in nearly eight years.

Lambs Lose Gains.

Recent advances in killing lambs were erased and best handy weights fell to $14.15, the lowest in three weeks, against a top of $14.40 last week and $14.50 two weeks ago. Declines of 15@25c were general, weighty stock breaking as much as 40@50c in some instances. Light and handy weights cleared at $13.75@14.00, with medium and heavy at $12.25@13.25. Aged ewes sold strong to 25c higher, best at $7.25 being highest since last August. Feeding lambs were in demand at $12.00@14.00.

PRODUCE MARKETS

Butter sold at former prices with a fair demand. Receipts 10,579 tubs. Fresh eggs broke 2½c with offerings larger. Receipts, 5,539 cases. Live hens declined ½c and ducks and geese 1c, while old roosters were ½c higher. Receipts, 10 cars and 445 coops. Potatoes sold readily, with prices steady to a shade firmer. Weather more favorable for business. Receipts, 115 cars with 236 cars on team track.

COTTON DROPS $2.50 BALE; FINISH NEAR DAY'S LOWEST

Action of the cotton markets yesterday suggested a limited support and an increased selling pressure. Trade buying was limited and support came mainly from shorts. Prices declined on an average of 50 points, or equal to around $2.50 per bale.

Weakness in Liverpool with net losses there of 14 to 17 points, with spot sales of 6,000 bales, was a factor in inducing selling in American markets. Opening prices were around the top and the close at nearly the bottom with net losses on futures in Chicago of 36 to 61 points, and 52 to 60 points in other markets. Spots lost 55 points in New York to 18.70c. New Orleans lost 18.50c, with Houston and Galveston 18.50c.

Egyptian markets were weaker and lower. The crop in that country was estimated at 1,250,000 bales, against 1,785,000 bales last year. Prices follow:

HUPP, BORG & BECK AND EVANS "A" SELL UP IN CHICAGO STOCK MART

Active shares were mostly higher in Chicago stock trading yesterday, with several of the automotive group leading the strong side. Hupp Motors was a feature, selling up 5 points to 35½, a new high for the year, on reports of increased business.

New year tops were also reached by Borg & Beck, which advanced 2¼ to 79¾, and Evans "A," which was up a point to 58. Marvel Carburetor gained 2 points to 56.

Other gains were: Wrigley, 1½; National Standard, 1¼; Balaban & Katz, 1⅛; and Chicago City and Connecting Railway preferred and Meadows Manufacturing, ⅜ each. The down side was featured by weakness in Middle West Utilities, which lost 2½ to 121¼. Auburn Automobile, Thompson and Bendix each declined a point and Morgan Lithograph was off ½.

On small sales, Armour of Delaware and Middle West Utilities preferred each gained a point and Armour of Illinois preferred, Pick-Barth, and Public Service par and no par each declined a point.

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—With United States Steel setting the pace, a long and impressive list of stocks swung upward today on the stock exchange. United States Steel had been primed for its rôle by the favorable report of unfilled orders which came out Saturday after the close, and with pool operators pressing their advantage throughout the industrial section the market presented a lively appearance.

Other industrial stocks, notably the oils, moved forward aggressively. A number of the specialties also seemed to have been singled out for a resumption of the advance, so that the general list, even with the rails rather inactive, gave a good account of itself.

Talk Big Christmas Market.

"A big Christmas market" was referred to often by brokerage interests and they were able to convince many of their followers that their enthusiasm was warranted.

Among the stocks that participated in the advance were American Machine and Foundry, American Republic, American Steel Foundries, Atlantic Refining, A. M. Byers, Calumet and Arizona, Collins & Aikman, Continental Can, Curtis Aero, Du Pont, Houston Oil, Loose-Wiles, Wright Aero, Timken Roller Bearing, Tobacco Products, Porto Rico-American Tobacco, U. S. Rubber, Foundation company, Fidelity Fire Insurance, Jewel Tea, and U. S. Industrial Alcohol.

The "little motors" were turned over at a rapid rate in today's market. In the case of Hupp Motors, particularly, dealings were on a large scale, the total turnover of this one stock being upward of 113,000 shares. Two sales of 10,000 shares each just before the close attracted a great deal of attention.

Big Motors Show Strength.

General Motors, Studebaker, Nash, Packard, Chrysler, Hudson, Pierce-Arrow preferred, and others in the big motors class also displayed indications of starting the bullish demonstration which usually precedes the New York show in January.

Wall street received with interest today unofficial confirmation of reports that individual members of the Du Pont family had added to their already heavy stock holdings a substantial interest in the United States Rubber company. The intention of the Du Ponts, it appears, is to follow much the same course that they have pursued in their investments in the past. Their holdings of United States Rubber will be transferred to E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co. later if the federal trade commission offers no objection.

How are you on puzzles?

If you are making a product that has parts that are made of steel you may have a puzzle of your own that you have wanted to solve for years. For instance, you might be able to improve the design of your entire product if you could only make a certain steel part smaller and stronger, but it's out of the question with the steel you are using now for it couldn't stand the strain. An alloy steel could be made to meet your needs exactly not only in a case like this but to overcome almost any other trouble ordinary steel may give you. An Interstate metallurgist would like to discuss the matter with you without obligation.

MAKING OF SHOES BOOMS AS MOTOR INDUSTRY LAGS

BY HARPER LEECH.

American footwear manufacturers have turned out this year about 20,000,000 more pairs of shoes than in 1926, while the output of automobiles has slackened by hundreds of thousands. Directly there is little connection between the two trends, because there is no evidence from the registration of motors or from the receipts of gasoline taxes that walking is more popular. Nor is there any immediate connection between the trend toward rising prices of shoes and the more vegetarian diet of the machine and office working kitchenette dweller, as compared to the more meaty meals of his forbears.

In the long run, however, the lighter meals, evidenced by a long time decline in meat consumption per capita and the smaller animal population relative to the human, will inevitably produce higher hide prices. The smaller animal population living at any one time appears to be largely compensated for by the increasing fertility of herds and the more rapid maturity of meat animals.

There is evidence that this greater biological efficiency of the farmer has contracted his market for grain, at the same time the mechanical and combustion achievements of automotive engineers have taken millions of horses out of the grain market.

In a period in which more mechanical power and less walking has contributed to a reduction of the per capita consumption of flour—the decrease being nearly 20 per cent for Americans in 35 years—we have witnessed this startling change, in six years 7 per cent fewer dairy cows have produced 34.7 per cent more milk. It is evident that we get more milk for less grain. There are about 1.28 food animals per human being in the United States today against 1.52 in 1920—yet through more rapid turnover of herds and the slaughter of animals in the process of liquidating the live stock industry we have had a short swing upward in per capita meat consumption since 1921 amounting to an increase of about six and one-half pounds of beef per capita, 1.2 pounds of veal and 5 pounds of mutton and lamb.

That the process of liquidating the cattle industry is complete is evidenced by better prices for cattle, which naturally mean better prices for hides. All the world is wearing more shoes and competing for hides—our imports last year were just about half our imports five years ago.

Our domestic cattle population has decreased about 11,000,000 in four years. There are less cattle in America and the world. The huge stocks of hides on hand at the close of the post war boom, when we had almost a year's supply of sole leather stocked in advance, have been worked off.

We are no longer taking our hides out of the farmer's hide—and even tanners are beginning to make a reasonable profit—for the first time in years, as to many of them.

WALL STREET NOTES

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—(AP)—Prices on the curb market today followed an uneven course. Among the shares under pressure were Bancitaly, Borden company, Celanese, and some of the publishing issues, the first named falling back more than 7 points simultaneous with indications that the stock would be withdrawn from the list. Glen Alden Coal continued to sag in reflection of the continued warm weather, and Lehigh Valley Coal fell to a new low for the year before rallying for a net gain of about 3 points.

Some of the motors, including Durant and Reo, were in demand, but Ford of Canada had a net loss of 17 points. Tubize made up nearly 30 points of last week's steady decline, but most of the other high priced stocks were inactive.

Among the specialties which were advanced to new high territory were Evans Auto Loading "A" and "B," General Bronze, Mengel company, National Baking preferred, Niles-Bement-Pond, United Biscuit "B" and new common, and U. S. Freight.

The recent upward movement of bonds appeared to have lost its force. Several of the railroad liens which have been moving steadily forward were a shade lower. Florida East Coast 5s and Southern Railway 4s inclined to heaviness, but firmness continued to rule the Erie group, general lien 4s reaching a new peak, while the 5s touched their previous high.

Federal government obligations were generally lower. Third Liberty 4¼s changed hands in large numbers without change from Saturday's close, and Liberty 3½s again sold at their year's highest.

Universal Pipe and Radiator.

A. G. M., Murphysboro, Ill.—The Universal Pipe and Radiator company's consolidated income account showed net income of $1,230,563 for 1926, as compared with $225,932 for 1925.

This was equal to $18.14 a share on the preferred and $2.58 a share on the common stock in 1926, against $3.78 a share on the preferred and nothing on the common in 1925.

Surplus for the year was $756,352 in 1926 compared with a deficit of $201,385 in 1925.

Total surplus stood at $879,553 at the end of 1926, against $119,942 at the close of 1925.

This left net working capital of $5,407,863, which compares with $4,957,143 at the end of 1925.

In the first nine months of 1927 the company earned $2.29 a share on the common stock, against $1.94 a share in that period of 1926.

Earnings for the third quarter were equal to 76 cents a share in both years.

Dividends at the annual rate of $2 were inaugurated on the common stock by the quarterly payment of 50 cents on July 1, 1927.

On that date and also on Oct. 1, 1927, extras of 25 cents also were paid.

The common stock deserves a fair rating, but is, of course, speculative.

Brief Answers.

H. R. G., Davenport, Ia.—The $30,000,000 Shell Pipe Line corporation twenty-five year 5 per cent debentures of 1952, guaranteed by Shell Union Oil corporation, are a sound investment.

C. E. F., Evanston, Ill.—Norwich and Worcester railroad first mortgage 4½s of 1947 are a sound investment.

General Tire and Rubber Increases Its Dividend

Several corporations made cheerful dividend announcements yesterday. The General Tire and Rubber company increased its annual common stock rate from 8 to 12 per cent and also declared a special Christmas dividend of 8 per cent. The Mead-Johnson company declared a 10 per cent stock dividend. The City Financial corporation declared an initial quarterly payment of 62½ cents on its class A stock.

Other extra dividends follow: Singer Manufacturing, $5.50 a share; H. M. Byllesby & Co., one-fiftieth of a share of class A common stock on class A and B common shares; Midland Steel Products, $1 on preferred and 48 cents on common; British American Oil, 20 cents; Financial and Industrial Securities, 35 cents; Union Mortgage, 2 per cent.

ASHLAND BLOCK TO BE BOUGHT BY SYNDICATE

BY AL CHASE.

One of the Rialto's most interesting real estate deals, the sale of the Ashland block property, a transaction which has intrigued the theater interests as well as realty brokers for many months, has almost reached the point where signatures are to affixed to the dotted line. Willoughby & Co., only brokers in the transaction, stated last night that the deal, one of the biggest of the year, would be closed within a few days.

The acquirement of the northeast corner of Randolph and Clark, on which the old time Ashland block stands, by the syndicate which has been negotiating for it for some time, would mean the ultimate improvement with an unusually high grade skyscraper, it was admitted by the brokers.

No one would admit whether this improvement would include a new Olympic theater or not. That playhouse is now under lease to the Shuberts with the expiration of their term two and a half years away. No overtures have been made to them regarding the new improvement.

Deny Fox Is Interested.

It was denied that William Fox is back of the new project in any way. It also was denied that the Garrick theater would figure in the proposed improvement. On Feb. 20, 1927, THE TRIBUNE printed a story of negotiations looking to a huge Fox cinema replacing both the Ashland block and the Garrick theater building.

At the time the story brought a denial from the Garrick building manager. Last night the Shuberts admitted that overtures had been made to them at that time for the purchase of their leasehold in the Garrick theater.

Although Willoughby & Co. admit that a big improvement is contemplated, they state that it won't go ahead at once. Neither will they admit what it is other than to hint that a playhouse will be included in the development.

Co-op on Kenwood Avenue.

Work is now under way on an eight story 100 per cent coöperative apartment building at 5711-17 Kenwood avenue, designed by Thomas R. Bishop & Son. It will have fourteen seven room suites, all with three baths. The total investment is reported to be $540,000. The Greenbaum Sons Investment company has underwritten a $325,000 bond issue at 6¼ per cent. Harry Zisook is the owner. The site has a frontage of ninety feet with a depth of 180 feet on the south and 150 feet on the north.

H. Morton Bodfish will lecture on "The Economics of Building and Loan Associations" before the class in land economics at Chicago Central College of Commerce of the Y. M. C. A. this evening. Mr. Bodfish is a lecturer in economics and real estate at Northwestern university school of commerce and also a member of the staff of the Institute for Research in Land Economics and Public Utilities.

The Woman in the Case

BY LOUIS TRACY

SYNOPSIS.

John Arden, returning to his rooms at the Palace hotel, London, in the early hours of the morning, breaks his key in the lock and is given a room in a luxurious suite by the night watchman, who assures him that the rooms are untenanted. He is about to retire when two women enter the apartment. One is addressed as Esmée and the other as Mrs. Sinclair. Arden, hiding, hears them speak of the sudden death of Lord Farndale. Without being observed he lets himself out of the apartment. The next morning he reads of the mysterious death of a peer. A little later he sees Esmée on the street and is not far from her when she is knocked down by a motorcycle. Her dress is torn and he offers her his raincoat. She accepts it and he offers to get her a taxi, telling her that they live in the same hotel. Later Arden learns that the police know the identity of the two women who visited Lord Farndale but cannot locate them. They watch the railway terminals. Arden meets Esmée at one of the stations and behind Mrs. Sinclair's back takes her away with him to avoid arrest. Mrs. Sinclair, in fear of being detained as a material witness, was about to cross over to Paris with Esmée. Arden takes the girl to the rooms of his friend, Andy Burke, who turns the apartment and his housekeeper over to her. Burke is invited to share Ronnie Davidson's rooms for the night. Before leaving Andy's apartment the three friends and Detective Furneaux of Scotland Yard, who has joined them, hold a conference in Esmée's behalf.

On leaving, Furneaux suggests to Arden that he call on Mrs. Sinclair, who is back at the Park Palace hotel, before going to bed.

INSTALLMENT XXI.

TWO SECONDS OF IMPORTANCE.

Arden had taken care not to breathe a single syllable to Mrs. Sinclair about her own muttered comment as to the girl spoiling "everything" if she were not "handled firmly," although that cryptic comment formed the main factor not only of his dislike of the elder woman but of his keen desire to save Esmée from whatever fate such firm handling might entail. But his words, no less than his self-assured attitude, warned a fairly astute adversary that perhaps she had not taken quite the right line with this knight errant. It probably cost her a fierce effort to control her anger, yet she succeeded.

"Surely that is no argument," she said, almost plaintively. "We were both very much upset by our visit to Lord Farndale. We hardly knew what we were saying. I was certain he was dying when we came away, and Esmée suspected it. And what in the world does it matter whether I am her aunt or her only friend? Unless my recollection is at fault, you yourself described her as my niece when you got the hotel people to telephone to my room a few minutes ago. But why quarrel about such a triviality? Do you really persist in your resolve to keep her whereabouts unknown?"

"I certainly do."

"Suppose I refuse to believe you? Why shouldn't I suspect you, too, of vile intentions? This is a land of law and order. The police may be glad to hear something about you, Mr. Arden!"

"Phone Victoria 7000," he said. "Shall I wait, or would you prefer to discuss the matter in private with Scotland Yard?"

"Then you must have come to me as a police spy," she cried, shrilly.

"No. I was requested to reassure you in regard to Miss Bermore, and I would not have gone an inch beyond my mission had you not insisted on learning the why and the wherefore of my connection with a somewhat sinister business. I wonder if you are aware that Lord Farndale did not die a natural death—that he was poisoned?"

He showed no outward sign of any recent accident.

Evidently this was news to Mrs. Sinclair, but greatly to Arden's surprise she looked rather elated than otherwise. The telephone summoned her. Before she turned to Arden again she gave a curt direction that some one was to be sent up.

"That is the first sensible thing you have said," she declared then, facing him confidently. "I can only hope it is true, because neither Esmée nor I, at any rate, gave the old wretch any poison. Even that hardened villain, as you regard him, Juan de Braganza, must be innocent, as he has not been in England for several years until today. . . . I think you had better be going now, Mr. Arden. We shall never meet again, I expect. I may hardly thank you for your visit, which was certainly not intended for my benefit, so it must have been inspired by your own self-interest. Can you find your way to the elevator?"

"O, yes," he said politely. "In fact, I live in this hotel, you may remember, or I could not have been present in suite F early this morning."

Having sped that parting shaft he went out. It was tempting to try and hang on until De Braganza arrived and see how he and Mrs. Sinclair met, but he decided against making any effort in that direction. It would probably fail, so why court a rebuff?

Mrs. Sinclair's apartments were on the third floor—his bedroom was on the thirteenth. He did not ring for the lift. It was already ascending, and its destination was fairly sure. When it stopped and the grille was opened, there emerged a spruce young man in a gray morning suit who could be none other than Juan de Braganza.

The oval face, with its olive-tinted skin, full, red lips, quick moving brown eyes and yet black hair stamped him as of the southern Latin race. He was about thirty years of age, slimly built, handsome in the wax figure style, and very well dressed. He showed no outward sign of any recent accident. Indeed, Arden was bound to admit that one whom he regarded as a wretched schemer bore all the hallmarks of an admitted member of society, whether in his own country or in the larger world.

The Englishman, prepared to find De Braganza in the lift, had the advantage over one who knew nothing of him. A couple of seconds can be most useful in such a situation. He stood aside in the shadow, apparently out of politeness, entered the lift quickly, and was being shot to the top of the building before the stranger could have secured a good look at him, even had he wished to do anything of the sort. It is often the trivial events which count, and the day was not far distant when those two seconds of recognition gained that night would weigh down the balance of a scale hovering between life and death. Perhaps Arden, with his soldierly aptitude for lightninglike decision in an emergency, exercised some intuitive sense of threatened danger. De Braganza, on the other hand, saw merely one of two hundred people then resident in the hotel, any one of whom he might have encountered in a corridor. He, at least, did not recognize a potential enemy as he passed rapidly on his way. Of course, he was soon enlightened, but by that time Arden was engaged in compiling a précis of a lively but somewhat unenlightening conversation.

Indeed, the written record proved quite disappointing. He went to bed not pleased with himself. He fancied that he had learned nothing of real value. The experience reminded him of a weary night on the western front near Armentiéres when he and a color sergeant, after a nerve-wracking crawl over two hundred yards of shellholes and thirty yards of trip wire and entanglements, peered into a German trench and found it deserted. The Boches might be twenty feet or half a mile away. Neither he nor the N. C. O. could tell, and they dared not advance another inch, because dawn was breaking already, as they knew by the curious luminosity of an occasional shell droning high in air from a German battery miles behind the line. Was the position being held, or had the Huns evacuated it? The daring observers could not be sure. Similarly now, who should say whether Mrs. Sinclair was a frightened adventuress or a woman who felt righteously indignant because her plans had gone awry? Certainly not he, John Arden.

He slept soundly for all that, and was duly elated when Andy Burke's cheery voice announced over the phone early next morning that brekker would be served at the flat at half-past nine sharp. It seemed that Furneaux had rung up and asked for an earlier hour because the inquest on Lord Farndale would open at 11 and he wishes to be present.

"He's a merry mannikin, that 'tec," chortled Andy. "Told me that breakfast and dinner were his solemn moments, and he refused to be hurried over them. There's something in the notion, laddie. We must try it during the next week. Anyhow, don't be late, whatever happens."

Chicago Yokels Ready Victims of Ancient "Men Only" Stuff

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Perhaps you have been wondering about this "Men Only" Greta Garbo show advertised at the Rose. So have I. Therefore I asked Mr. Frederic Babcock of our Sunday paper staff if he'd mind some day on his way over from the station, just easing into the theater and reviewing the thing for me. He kindly obliged and his report follows:

"Miss Tinée: The 'men only' show now running at the Rose theater is the choicest bit of boob bait to be found in the loop.

"It is the old outdoor medicine show, the street carnival 'anatomy' show, a 'Way Down East-Lulu-Belle-Shanghai Gesture production, and the old army game all wrapped up for the price of one.

"The loud speaker at the Rose screams to the passerby, on Madison street that here is a sensational expose of sex. The passing sucker pauses, and bites. Inside, after separating himself from 50 cents for admission, he is inveigled into forking over a dollar for further 'information.' And this, mind you, in the heart of civilized, sophisticated Chicago.

"The performance purports to be the unreeling of a movie entitled 'Streets of Sorrow'—'and special features.' They consist of a news reel and a lengthy discourse by the self-styled sex evangelist of the world.

"This Billy Sunday of the sex world says his name is Dr. M. Sayle Taylor and that his title is president of 'The National Society of Eugenics—strictly philanthropic.' His 'message' is so appallingly crude and nastily nauseating that at first the stronger stomached of the audience are inclined toward lusty laughter. However, they gradually succumb to the wizardy of his eloquence, until, at the end, they are whipped into a frenzy of morbid sensationalism. At that point comes the high powered salesmanship.

"Three paper pamphlets, dealing with the mating instinct and other problems appertaining thereto, are produced, and sold for a dollar a set. . . . 'The ushers will now pass among you, gents. Your first and last chance to get this startling information—and all for one little dollar bill." . . . The ushers are usherettes of, apparently, immature years.

"At first the doctor impressed me as a learned man become an introspective entomologist on the subject of sex. But when I saw the cash register developing a hotbox I concluded there might be laughter in his lunacy.

"The man of science explained that he had intended to demonstrate with graphic charts and beautiful pictures, but that the City Hall wouldn't permit it. I shudder to think what might have been unfolded before my eyes had not Mr. Bill Thompson and his minions stepped in and preserved my innocence.

"As for 'Streets of Sorrow': The doctor took up so much time that I could stay for only the fore part of the movie. What I saw was a mawkish, oversexed, overdone, amateurish attempt to depict post-war Vienna. Noting that it featured Greta Garbo, I sought to learn the year of its vintage, but could find no date indicated.

"Acting, direction, plot, and photography were equally bad. At the point where I made my regretful departure the soulful eyed Miss Garbo had just accepted extra money from her employer. What thereupon took place or happened to the poor working gel I can only surmise."

Here's a Gangster Film of Middling Quality

KIND: Gangster film.
QUALITY: Fair to middling.
DIRECTION: All right.
ACTING: Likewise.
PHOTOGRAPHY: To the merry.
REMARKS: The picture is moderately interesting and will probably get over all right at the box office.

Mr. Blue wrote me a nice letter not so long ago. He says he doesn't LIKE to open his mouth so wide when he laughs, but that the director makes him. Naughty director. Anyhow, the cavern yawns less frequently and widely in this picture.

A visit to the Orpheum will be pleasanter if Warner Brothers would loosen up and paint the two white streaks out of their screens, condense the long announcement to their "Dear Patrons" that they run at every showing and tell their employés to do their noisy arguing at home.

See you tomorrow!

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Michael C. Paris, 2057 Pierce avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Does the answering of simple questions of young children annoy you?

The Answers.

Harold O. Benson, 714 Republic building, tailor — It never bothered me. I enjoyed the company of my children, though our boy is now fifteen and the girl eleven. I felt at home with those kids, more so than with older folk. You want your kids to talk and ask questions; for one reason, it gives a clew as to what they are going to be when they grow up.

Mrs. George Chalifoux, 5011 North Mozart street, housewife—No, indeed, and I have five boys and two girls. Their questions are so cute, naïve, innocent. They don't ask them the way they should be asked, but the way they do ask them makes it interesting. I dare say the interesting questions my seven children have asked me would fill many volumes.

E. H. Peterson, president E. H. Peterson corporation, 220 South State street—Questions asked by children used to annoy me, but after our little girl came into the world they became another matter. I found that their questions are educational. It is amazing the questions they ask.

Mrs. C. A. Perrine, 627 North Hamlin avenue, housewife—Not annoying, but sometimes they have me guessing what I am going to say or really should say. We have a girl and a boy, and it is the boy who baffles me most frequently. He has eyes and ears and a memory, and the mixups they get him into is sometimes not easy for me to straighten out for him.

Frank Schiemann, 1711 North Harding avenue, elevator starter—From my experience with our boy the questions asked by a child, say, between the ages of 8 and 10 years, are the most amusing, though any parent knows their questions are interesting at any age.

War Chaplain Rates Military Training with Scholarship

Lieut. Col. C. Seymour Bullock, who served as chaplain with the Canadian expeditionary forces during the world war, speaking yesterday before the Chicago branch of the Government club, pointed out the dangers of pacifism. His subject was "Playing with Fire."

"Education is the process of shifting the zone of supremacy above the collar button," said Col. Bullock. "Nobody has been given anything like an education who has not learned to do the thing that ought to be done in the way it ought to be done at the time it ought to be done, whether he likes to do it or not. This is the chief advantage of military training in educational institutions."

Discipline, according to Col. Bullock, is as necessary as scholarship. It makes better citizens of men and women in peace time as well as in war, and gives men who might otherwise be sent off to war unprepared some knowledge of military tactics.

"One might as well argue that fire drills in schools would produce a love for arson as to argue that the introduction of military formations in the physical exercise of school produces a love for war," Col. Bullock continued in answer to the charge that military instruction in schools leads to a warlike spirit in the citizenry and would eventually involve the nation in war.

Preceding Col. Bullock's address there was a formal presentation of the flag conducted by D. A. R. members of the Government club and a brief talk by Col. Robert E. Wyllie of the U. S. A. on "Correct Uses and Customs of the Flag."

Admiral and Preacher Debate National Defense

Dr. John Haynes Holmes, pastor of the Community church of New York, debated last night with Rear Admiral William Ledyard Rodgers of the United States navy on the question: "Should America be Armed to Protect Her Prosperity?" at the Emil G. Hirsch Center Settlement House.

Dr. Holmes contended that America doesn't need preparedness.

"Germany today goes peaceably about her work within her unfortified borders, unafraid," he said. "Before 1914, when Germany was a highly militaristic country, there was talk everywhere of war. She had colonies, and needed, or at least thought she needed, a large navy to defend them. The war left her shorn of colonies and shorn of her militaristic spirit. She is disarmed and there is no more talk of war."

Admiral Rodgers maintained that preparedness is absolutely essential to national existence.

"If America does not have an adequate army and navy she will soon slip into the status of a second or third rate power," he argued. "We have the material and human wealth of a great power. It is only just to that wealth that we protect it adequately."

THEATER

"MR. PIM PASSES BY":

A. A. Milne's comedy, in three acts, in revival by Mrs. Insull's company: made December 12, 1927, in the Studebaker Theater, with this cast:

George Marden	William Ingersoll
Olivia, his wife	Anne Morrison
Lady Marden, his aunt	Helen Strickland
Carraway Pim	Richard Carlyle
Dinah	Lulu Mae Hubbard
Brian, her fiancé	John A. Willarde
A maid	Phyllis Mackay

WHAT Mrs. Insull's actors did last night with Milne's sheer little comedy seemed to be something at least ten times better than what they had done four Mondays earlier with "Heartbreak House." Lest I have the effect of giving too much credit to actors, it is well that I rush in here with the declaration that "Mr. Pim Passes By" is a play that is, without endangering Shaw's general reputation, at least five hundred times better than "Heartbreak House," inasmuch as it has a beginning, a tale to tell, a sense of comic drama in telling it, and a finish in consonance with the beginning and with the body of the tale, itself.

And this most popular of the several pieces by Milne so far exhibited in the United States is, I suspect, fitting matter for revival by Mrs. Insull, forasmuch as it is listed high among the Theater Guild's successes in New-York, and its author has achieved a measure of repute as a writer of light facetiæ and of witty whimsy. Again, there is, perhaps, to be considered that "Mr. Pim Passes By" belongs in that growing inventory of plays which many Chicagoans regret not having seen when there was opportunity: the especial date of opportunity for this play was in 1922, in Powers' . . . So!

My earlier encounter with the comedy was in neither a Guild performance in New-York nor one given by Miss Laura Hope Crews and her associates in Powers', but in one of the original performances in London, all but a decade ago. I took from what I saw in London the notion that the author meant Olivia rather than her husband to be the character of most importance; whereas I took from last night's revival the notion that either Mrs. Insull or her director regarded the husband as the principal person in the domestic crisis precipitated when Mr. Pim, passing by, babbled innocently about knowing a fellow whose continued existence would make of Olivia a technical bigamist. Also, I got in London the notion that Mr. Pim was more of an addle-pate and less a benign utterer of error than was the case in the Studebaker. These differences make a distinct change in what it is, I think, still tony to speak of as "values." Miss Morrison should, maybe, be less apprehensive and more nearly serene than she is when the bad news is delivered: after all, Olivia is in possession of certitude as to her husband's love and manliness. . . .

And, as Mr. Ingersoll and Mr. Carlyle took over their respective rôles rather late in the period of rehearsal, it is merely reasonable to expect that "values" will be adjusted within a day or two.

News-Notes of the Stage.

A disinterested and unattached friend in New-York is good enough to wire that Miss Elinor Patterson was distinctly successful there last night in her first appearance as Glenn Hunter's leading-woman in "Behold This Dreamer!" and that she was liked better than her predecessor by those who had seen the latter, also, in the rôle.

Professor Reinhardt, whose actors from Berlin and Vienna are now doing "Everyman" his way, is to go next week into "The Death of Danton." . . . Later, 'tis said, they will be moved from the huge Century Theater, admirable for spectacle, into the small Lyceum, where they will be seen in "intimate" works from Reinhardt's répertoire.

Good Fellows Answer S O S of City's Poor

Names of 7,000 Children Are Still Listed.

BY THOMAS WREN.

Good Fellows from all sections of Chicago yesterday responded to the S O S call sounded by THE TRIBUNE'S Good Fellow department in behalf of the poor kids of the tenement districts of the city.

Some signed up for the 1927 campaign at departmental headquarters in THE TRIBUNE'S public service office at 1 South Dearborn street. Others called Superior 0100 and took the application over the phone of some destitute family that was registered for supply of Christmas cheer and happiness for the small members of the household. Then there were some who filled out the Good Fellow coupon and mailed it in.

In all it was a great day for the poor kids of the city. When the recruiting opened the applications of approximately 8,000 little folk for Christmas joy were on file. Closing time at headquarters saw this number reduced to 7,000. Good Fellows, if we can only continue yesterday's pace every poor kid in the city will be assured of a great old time when dawn ushers in Christmas day.

If that can be accomplished, then success will be written after the finis of the 1927 Good Fellow campaign. And every poor child of the tenement districts will have a good and joyful time with supplies of foodstuffs, candy, and nuts, and, of course, some toys. Christmas without toys for youngsters? That will be impossible.

James Petrillo, head of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, did some heavy work yesterday for the cause. He interested Buddy Fisher, Husk O'Hare, Al Belasco, Leo Spitalny, Verne Buck, Bennie Meroff, Sammie Kahn, Joe Kayser, Dan Russo, Bennie Krueger, Mark Fisher, and Al Kvale in the Good Fellow work. They took the applications of sixty-three families, which means Christmas happiness for about 315 poor children.

These Chicago orchestra leaders forgot to mention what section of the city they desired to spread their loads of Christmas happiness. They should communicate today with the Good Fellow department.

M. Cahill of F. S. Mosley & Co. reported for employés of that firm, adding that each employé saves a penny a day throughout the year for Good Fellow activities. The Sixteen club, composed of sixteen regular fellows, did some effective work and took the applications of fifty families. Morton Kallis, president, got the names of the destitute families.

Employés of the Kimball Piano company applied for ten families. H. M. Cammack, head of the Cammack company, and H. T. Ray, vice president, reported for duty along with the Altrusa club.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

An item stated that Miss Mabel Blazier appeared before the board of education building and grounds committee to ask that the new high schools to be built be constructed to accommodate not more than 2,000 students. Miss Blazier was not present. The proposal was made by Miss Beulah Beroizheimer, president of the federation.

GOOD FELLOWS!

Here's a Form to Fill Out. It Will Aid You in Stating Your Plans for Helping Poor Kids.

"Mac" Gives the Code of the Decent Young Fellow of Today

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Speaking about effeminate males as we were recently, in connection with husbands of working wives who let the woman assume the major share of the burdens, and also in connection with young men who let girls do the entertaining, Mac protests in the name of all decent, idealistic young fellows that incompetents and effeminates are not a modern product.

They always have existed and always will, he says, so long as spineless women encourage spineless neuters by working for and supporting them.

The code of the decent thinking young man of today Mac presents as follows:

1. He believes in playing the game fairly and squarely, with the man as the head of the house and wage earner. He wants equal partnership in running the household, allowing a percentage for clothing, rent and amusements, on a budget basis.

2. Thumbs down on any man that accepts or borrows money from any woman, under any condition.

3. He expects his wife to fulfill her share in the partnership by being a real helpmate in every way possible.

What is being a real helpmate? What has a man a right to expect from his wife?

If the man is the head of the house and the wage earner he has a right to expect affection; not just to be tolerated as a meal ticket.

He has a right to expect the woman to be just as attractive in her appearance as she took pains to be before marriage.

He has a right to expect her to consider him before any other interests she may have.

He has a right to expect a home organized and run as comfortably as his income will provide and no excuses offered for the shiftless conduct of an unsystematic housefrau.

He has a right to expect his wife to stand by him loyally in the face of discouragement, sorrow, doubt or suspicion, and to encourage him to a faith in himself, no matter what problem confronts him. And finally, he has a right to expect that she is mature enough to know that he has weaknesses and petty faults just like every other human being and that she make due allowance for them.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

He Was Sorry.

"Dear Miss Blake: I had an appointment with a fellow. He did not show up. The next day he apologized. Does he care for me? DISAPPOINTED."

His anxiety to apologize shows he values your friendship. You'll accept his apology, I know.

You'll Forget, in Time.

"Dear Miss Blake: I went with a young man for six months. My mother was pleased with him, but my father was not. My mother died, and since that time he has not bothered with me. I have seen him with another girl.

"I've tried to forget, but I can't. HEARTBROKEN."

It is impossible to forget one you have cared a great deal for in so short a time, Heartbroken, but keep on going out with the other boys until you do.

Debutantes to Give Supper Dance as First of Leap Year Affairs

BY NANCY R——.

With leap year just around the corner, the belles of the town are all set for their innings and are planning to show the beaux a thing or two—the first event run entirely to suit the ladies is a supper dance that ten of the up and coming debutantes of the winter are giving at the Casino on Jan. 7.

Louise Carr, Louise Brewer, Dorothy Vilas, Eleanor Dennehy, Frances Richardson, Jessie Hosmer, Josephine Munroe, Mary Barnes, Barbara Neff, and Roberta Harvey make up the sprightly ten, and they're much occupied just now in thinking up amusing stunts for the evening's festivities.

The guest list has been boiled down to a hundred—really a small gathering at this time of year—and the bids in the case are to be cunning rolled up scrolls, with a sketch of ten little debutantes sitting on a shelf above a long verse requesting the lucky person's presence at the party. The poet evidently wants his—or her—identity concealed, but one of the buds told me that it was written by a "very good friend" of theirs.

A few of the beaux asked to the dance are to be presented with flowers and called for that evening, while the less fortunate youths will just have to get themselves to the Casino as best they can. And one of the features of the party is to be a dance, during which the girls will be the stags, asking whom they wish for the dance, and cutting in when and where they please.

Another prince and princess are about to appear in a Chicago setting, for on the second of January Prince and Princess A. Obolensky of Paris and New York are scheduled to arrive here to spend a few days. They will stop at the Ambassador during their visit. Princess Cantacuzene, Prince and Princess Michel Cantacuzene, Mrs. Jacob Baur, and Mrs. Edward Leight are among those who have already made plans to entertain the two visitors.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Dried Apricot Confections.

Finer than any guava jelly you ever purchased and endlessly adaptable is a dried apricot jam. We gave the recipe for it but just now to suggest that it be used for a cake glaze for fruit cake, but pure accident suggested its being put up in most attractive confections in a long list of combinations.

First let us repeat the recipe: Pick over one pound of fine dried apricots—large sized pieces—rejecting anything extremely dark to black. Rinse the fruit with cold water and then allow to stand in cold water for five minutes. Rub each piece clean from this water and put into an earthen dish. Add two cups of cold water to the pound of fruit and let stand over night. In the morning cook the apricots in the water in which they were soaked for half an hour or until the skins are tender enough to sieve, leaving no residue. After sieving—this is work—the cooked appricots add to each cup of the puree so obtained three-fourths of a cup of sugar. Stir and cook like a jam or until a little between the thumb and forefinger will be sticky and stretchy, but do not overcook.

A thin layer of this—the cut side looks like smooth, clear jelly—may be combined with nuts and other fruits to make delicious confections of the sort we mostly import at a high price. The layer may be made a little thicker and thin slices of it used to roll around a nut meat, after which roll the piece in confectioners' sugar. A piece of it will stick together two walnut meat halves, and these, dipped in fondant, will make a bonbon superior to the mere walnut meat and fondant—a popular home made candy.

In testing this first a plain piece of it was rolled in sugar and voted for enthusiastically. Then it was rolled around walnut meats, pecans, and almonds. It was attractive with a slice of marshmallow between two layers of it, and a thin piece of preserved pineapple was excellent in such a layer candy. Some of it was used with peanut meats to fill dates. We did not try this with cream cheese, but we know how good it would be.

The New Footgear Protection

That fits like a glove

STYLISTS in footgear knew that women would welcome a new note of style in footgear protection. So in designing Shuglov, they sought first to achieve exquisite style ... then perfect fit.

And what an accomplishment! Women tell us candidly it is the first time they have found footgear protection they are glad to wear. Everywhere ... smart women are wearing them.

They have changed the unsightly methods of yesterday to a thing of charm. Slip into a pair at your favorite shop. Note the well-groomed feeling ... the perfect fit ... the harmonizing colors ... the slenderizing effect on the ankle.

You will join the host of admirers who have accorded Shuglov an initial season of outstanding success. You, too, will wear Shuglovs because you cannot resist their charm.

All smart shops are showing Shuglovs in Nude, Gray, Brown and Black, with two types of heels. The Universal is for military, military high and spiked heel. The Cuban for the lower and flatter heels.

$5.00 a pair

Shuglov is made of featherweight rubber ... washable, inside and out. They snap on or off in a jiffy. The trim decorative top is worn up or down with equal smartness.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Dec. 12.—[Special.]—President and Mrs. Coolidge attended the opening performance tonight of the short season of opera by the American Opera company, which is being launched this season, of which Mrs. Joseph Leiter is chairman of the local committee. Mrs. Leiter was chairman of the committee which sponsored the company in the summer at Beverly Farms.

Vice President and Mrs. Dawes were the dinner guests tonight of the Greek minister and Mme. Simopoulos.

Senator and Mrs. Deneen have as their guests two oldest daughters, Mrs. Carl A. Birdsall of Chicago and Mrs. Allmand M. Blow of Tulsa, Okla., who arrived today to remain until after the debut party of Miss Bina Day Deneen on the 17th.

Mrs. Elonzo Tynar, formerly of Chicago, arrived today with her daughter, Margaret, who is in school in London, and has come back for the holidays.

Bright Sayings of the Children

John's little brother had a mild attack of scarlet fever. Consequently, the family was quarantined for several weeks.

During this time his mother did everything possible to provide amusement for the youngsters and with all the good things to eat it seemed to John like three weeks of Christmas. Besides, he really enjoyed missing school.

John and Jerry were 7 and up to the time of quarantine had been inseparable pals. One day, while Jerry was on his way home from school, he stopped in John's yard and they talked through the window.

Jerry said, "Gosh kid, hurry up and get out. You don't know what you are missing."

But John, quite content with present state of affairs, answered, "You haven't anything on me, Jerry. You don't know what you are missing by not being quarantined." L. J. V.

"A Fixture in My Make-Up Box!"

Beautiful Thelda Kenvin, talented Paramount Junior Star, is glad to tell other women why she uses Black and White Cleansing Cream.

"As one in the profession who requires unusually heavy make-up," says Miss Kenvin, "I found that Black and White Cleansing Cream effectively removes grease, paints and cosmetics, leaving the skin soft, clear and refreshed. After one trial, this delightful cream became a fixture in my make-up box."

It will only require a trial to convince you, too, of the beneficial and beautifying effects of Black and White Cleansing Cream. This soft, light cream quickly melts into clogged pores, frees them of excess grease, dust and impurities and leaves the skin smooth, fresh and clean.

Black and White Beauty Creations are of a quality acceptable to those who seek the best, at prices within the reach of all—25c and 50c.

Healthy Hair More Important Than Keeping Marcels

by

A correspondent reports that her hair is very light and fluffy when first shampooed, but in a day or so becomes oily and comes out in large amounts at a time. It also has dandruff.

"If possible," she writes, "please suggest some method that will not spoil the marcel. If not, anything will be appreciated regardless of marcel."

When a distressing hair condition appears, the marcel had better be forgotten until the ailments are cleared up. A marcel, unhappily, will not cover the hair discrepancies.

And again I would like to call attention to the fact that hair troubles are growing—and growing because the fight to preserve the marcel is waged more earnestly than the fight to preserve the hair. Marcels, or finger waves, or permanent, the well dressed head feels, of course, it must have unless one is fortunate enough to be able to wear the hair uncurled. And it does take courage to disturb that dollar and a quarter or dollar and a half wave.

But if one's hair shows indications of thinning, or if dandruff or other disorders appear, the marcel will have to be disturbed, or later there will be little to marcel and that little of no very attractive hue or texture.

In preventing or remedying dandruff for instance, the brushing of the scalp is of immeasurable help. As a method of massage and for stirring up the circulation the brush cannot be beaten. Also it rids the scalp and locks of dandruff. And, of course, you can't use a brush as vigorously as a sick head of hair needs it without mussing up the marcel.

The individual with oily hair and the dandruff accompaniment should wash her hair frequently. Dr. Irwin C. Sutton, noted dermatologist, recommends nightly washing of hair and scalp with an alcoholic extract of green soap, this treatment to be continued for a week. The second week, the shampoo is to be given twice and then once a week. An ointment recommended by Dr. Sutton to be applied after the shampoo is:

	Grams.
Oil of cade	1
Sulphur	2
Salicylic acid	1
Cold cream, add to	30

The pillow should be protected with a towel.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

GIRLIE: TO ENCOURAGE THE growth of the eyelashes put vaseline on them before you go to bed. Before going out, take your eye brush and gently close the eyes over it so that the lashes are curled. In a short time you will notice the improvement.

MRS. E. G.: CURLING THE hair with hot irons removes the natural oil, if done too frequently. The iron should be tested before using to avoid scorching the hair. It is useless to experiment with a finger wave if the hair hasn't a natural wave.

BILLIE: TO CHANGE THE shape of the nose it is necessary to resort to surgical means. The fleshy part of the nose may be reduced somewhat by astringents. Cold water and ice are used for this purpose.

She Meant Well.

I was sitting in the rest room of a department store, looking over the list of articles I was to purchase.

A young woman, carrying a small morocco bag and a package, came in, deposited them on the chair next to me, and then hurried over to the telephone booth.

I thought she was a long time phoning, and, although I was ready to leave, decided to wait a few minutes until she returned. Finally I could wait no longer. I went over to the booth, but she was not there.

People were coming and going, so I just picked up her belongings, for I felt sure she had forgotten them, and started for the lost and found department. I hadn't gone far when I saw her coming toward me.

She recognized her bag and exclaimed, "How dare you steal my bag?"

I was so dumbfounded I couldn't say a word for a minute. Several people had heard her and stopped to watch the proceedings.

It was one embarrassing moment for me. L. W.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Out in All Weathers.

"I am badly in need of a mackinaw or some heavy outer garment to protect me from the cold. I sell newspapers on a corner and in my scant clothing I can hardly stand it. I wear size 38 or 40 and would greatly appreciate any aid received through your column. W. J."

Being out of doors all the time and in all kinds of weather, a heavy coat is an absolute necessity to this man. Have you one which will insure him the protection he needs?

Use for Taffeta Scraps.

"Do you know of any one who has pieces of taffeta I may have? I am making lamp shades and with these bits of silk I can cut out petals for them. Mrs. F. B."

The scraps of material left from your sewing would do nicely for the shades this woman is making and since you have no use for them won't you send them on for her?

Use for an Old Tuxedo.

"I came to the city a few weeks ago and have been working as a waiter in a small restaurant. I know I could get a better job if I had a tuxedo, but I can't buy one. Do you think you could get one for me, size 40 or 42? "J. S."

Here's an ambitious fellow who'd like to fall heir to your old dinner suit. Won't you think of him when discarding it?

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Dec. 12.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt gave a dinner at their home last night in compliment to the governor general of Canada and Viscountess Willingdon.

Mrs. Richard T. Stevens of 20 5th avenue, will give a luncheon party at the Plaza tomorrow for twenty-three guests.

Mrs. Le Roy French, who is in Newport, will open her apartment at the Gladstone in a few days.

Mrs. Louis L. Lorillard is expected from Newport this week and will be at the Barclay until going south for the winter.

Black Lace Over Rose Color—a Gorgeous Robe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—When it comes to the boudoir, one may say that custom is honored more by the breach than by the observance. Not only have all sorts and conditions of lounging pajamas crept in to throw an extra glamour over idleness but there are many "robes" which take the forked robe to style. These trousers which we borrowed from Scheherazade are, in fact, one of the most charming ways of going about a negligee, and when they are concocted of beautiful materials and combined with stunning details of sleeve and bodice they are quite as feminine as any skirt in the land.

The above negligee fulfills all these prescriptions. Made of fine black lace over rose color silk, a flowing scarf of self material draped about the neck line falls to the ground over the shoulders in lieu of sleeves proper. The bodice is a jumper, and it follows the new molded hip line and bloused top effect with results singularly harmonious in relation with the harem trousers. For does not that molded hip line relate itself with the tightly drawn sash with which the eastern beauty completes her bifurcated wear?

The scarf of the negligee is of lace, unlined with the silk. It will be noted that the combination of black lace with rose or pink, which has scored such a success in the winter ballroom, has penetrated the province of such informal wear as this. And in contrast with the metallic laces to which negligees have accustomed us we frequently see today a fine black mesh such as is pictured here.

YOU AND YOUR CHILDREN

By Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

Lavishing Gifts on the Children.

I know how you feel at this time of the year. You see these wonderful things, these interesting things, these beautiful things in the stores, and you want to lavish them on your children. Sally would adore the baby doll with a trunk full of clothes, Billy the great big elephant, Jim the scooter bike, and Molly the wagon full of handsome blocks. And everything is so expensive. You really can't afford them.

But as Christmas draws near you weaken, and more likely than not you cast discretion to the four winds and, following your desires, you plunge on presents for the children. You spend more money than you can comfortably spend—you even run into debt—you feel guilty at the time, and are seriously inconvenienced for a long while afterward.

Many people lose their heads at Christmas time. I have seen mothers and fathers whose income I knew about spend money right and left, money they didn't have, for gifts for their children.

All this is not necessary for the children's enjoyment of this loveliest holiday of the year. In nine cases out of ten it results in their having too much. And this not necessarily only in families of wealth. In families of moderate means children are often overwhelmed with gifts. They receive infinitely more than they need for their happiness. They often have so much that they are satiated—or indifferent.

This does not imply that children don't need variety in their toys. They do. Nor does it mean that they shouldn't have what they long for. If there is something worth getting that your child's heart has been hanging over I believe in doing everything reasonable within your power to make it possible for him to have it. It is a wonderful thing for them—and for you—to have their dearest wish fulfilled.

But the point is that it is better for them to have a few things they really want and know how to enjoy continuously than it is for them to have so many things that they don't play long with any of them. It keeps their enjoyment keener not to have too much—it puts an edge on their pleasure to have to concentrate it a little. And it is better for the children to have, at Christmas as well as at other times, only such things as you are able to give them without foolish extravagance.

REAL ESTATE SALESMEN.

How much did you earn in 1927? How much good did you do for the people you sold property to? Did you go back and resell them again? Stop and analyze this. 1928 will soon be here. What are you going to do? Now is the time to get busy and investigate into which house you are going to make connections and where you can get the best protection for yourself and the people you are going to sell. Our custom of doing business is: FIRST, OUR CONTRACT HOLDER, THEN THE SALESMAN AND THEN THE HOUSE—because if a contract holder is taken care of, you know that you will be taken care of also. Then you can always go back and resell your old clientele and all their friends also. That is the reason why you should investigate. If you do, I will assure you that you will make connections with H. W. ELMORE & CO.

We develop our properties and make values, and that is the reason I have been connected with H. W. ELMORE & CO. for six years. Think it over, and if you think that you can qualify and have good references, come in and we will talk it over.

SALESMEN—

The best job for any salesman, whether he be a genius or just a plugger like the rest of us, is with the firm where the men are producing and where sales resistance is at a minimum.

THE HARMON ORGANIZATION

is unique in this respect. We have a record of 40 years of promises kept through the development of 255 different subdivisions in 26 cities—11 developments in Chicago alone, where investors made

$30,000,000 IN PROFITS.

This achievement places us in a class by ourselves and the public is quick to recognize a record of accomplishment. Property bought right, sold right, and developed with 40 years of experience back of it must be easy to sell. Our property is selling. We have more facts, and more real proof than the most of our friendly competitors.

MAKING MONEY

is the very thing our men are doing for themselves and customers. You can do the same and you owe it to yourself to come in and let us lay the cards on the table.
